When you've got to stop on a dime . . .

CONCRETE COOPERATES
. . . with your eyes
. . . with your brakes

Safe driving at night, when accident frequency is highest, depends on being able to see far and stop quickly. If you can't see—if you can't stop—you can't be safe!

Concrete cooperates with your eyes. Its light color reflects much more of your car lights than dark-colored pavement. Its grainy surface diffuses light in all directions, letting you see a maximum distance forward. You can see better—and farther—on concrete.

Concrete cooperates with your brakes. Tires quickly grab and firmly hold to its gritty texture. On concrete you get uniformly high skid resistance, rain or shine. On concrete you can make faster, smoother, safer stops.

Traffic fatalities in Minnesota totaled 636 in 1953. You can help reduce this total by safe driving on safer concrete. Insist on safe concrete for all main roads and streets.

We gave credit to the cattle herd of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tremek in last week's news. However it is beyond our comprehension. On Tuesday they reported receiving their third set of twin calves out of their herd of seven cows. All we can say is, can you top this?

Mrs. Helen Newhouse, and sons Elmer and Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jelle, Marianne, Carol, Alden and Oscar Overby all called Sunday evening on Mrs. Edward Jelle and daughter Alma to help them celebrate their birthdays coming up on Monday. A delicious lunch was served at midnight centered with two birthday cakes brought by those who came.

Byron Dahle, visiting at Highmore, S. Dak. sent word that the crops out there are all coming up good, and they were beginning to plant potatoes on Monday, April 27. We people here are really disappointed with this past three weeks of continued cold, rainy weather. Hardly anybody has even been able to get into the fields. Only one I can report in our neighborhood is Enos Whitson who had been out. The joy giving martins arrived here in their homes this week to cheer us up, so we'll await nice weather with them.

At Our Savior's Church services at 11 o'clock, followed by a Mother's Day program and dinner served by the men folks. Everyone welcome.

Pre-school Clinic at Lincoln High School Draws 156 Children

The annual pre-school round up, sponsored by the local PTA groups, was held Saturday at Lincoln high school at which time 156 children were registered for entrance to kindergarten and first grade next September. The clinic was under the supervision of Mrs. Andy Williamson.

The local pre-school clinic was originated 19 years ago by Mrs. S. O. Norby, who was then president of the city-wide PTA. The supervision of the first clinic was taken care of by Mrs. Andy Williamson who has since served for the entire period in that capacity.

Parents are asked to bring the children who registered at the clinic to the Northrop school next Saturday, May 8, between 2 and 4 p. m. where doctors from all the local clinics will be in attendance to conduct physical examinations and immunizations of the children. If any children failed to come to the pre-school clinic, the parents are urged to bring them at this time.

All children who are 5 years old or who will be 5 before Jan. 1, 1955 are expected to register. Country children who have not attended kindergarten and who will begin first grade in the fall must come in and register and have a physical examination. New residents must also register their pre-school children.

Nurses assisting at the clinic were Mrs. Andy Williamson, chairman; Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse; Mrs. Clarence Knudsen, Mrs. Otis Wold, Mrs. Donald M. Johnson, Mrs. Palmer Lorenson, Mrs. Randall Noper, Mrs. Norman Olson, Mrs. Clarence Stromberg, Mrs. Kenneth Halldin, and Mrs. Vere Terway.

Kindergarten teachers in attendance were Miss Ruth Mickelson, Miss Corrine Johnson, and Miss Ella Fiskerbeck.

Local optometrists assisting were Dr. E. L. Gilbert, Dr. E. S. Amesbury, Dr. J. O. Disse, and Dr. O. D. Beich.

Also cooperating were the PTA presidents, Mrs. Melville Simon, Morris Howick, and Oscar Hoglin.

PTA members who assisted at the clinic were Miss Joan Whalen, and Mmes. Morris Howick, Harold Saastad, Merle Lindberg, Albert Lafrenz, Arthur A. Johnson, George Pukari, Harry Ranum, John Lynsky, Ed Delap, Olaf Kauppila, Dennis Wegge, Harold Nelson, James Kelly, Chris Saastad, Randall Humes, Douglas Stewart, Robert Nick, Randall Erickson, John Whisler, Herman Hanson, and Carl Wennberg.

Publicity chairman of this year's clinic was Mrs. Albert Lafrenz.

46 Traffic Deaths Listed for April

Drivers' Errors Are Held Responsible for Record

Data compiled by the state highway department on traffic fatalities during April clearly indicate that safety is a personal responsibility, according to A. V. Rohweder, president of the Minnesota Safety Council.

"Last month's death toll from traffic accidents", he stated, "was due in very great measure to failure of motorists to drive according to road and weather conditions Of the 46 fatalities reported, 26 resulted from vehicles running off the roadway, overturning in the roadway or striking fixed objects such as trees, utility poles or bridge abutments.

"Beyond the shadow of any doubt, virtually every one of these deaths must be charged solely to the driver of each vehicle involved. It is impossible for anyone else other than the driver to operate a car sensibly, with respect for conditions brought about by weather or time of day. That is the only way these senseless accidents and resultant deaths could have been prevented."

Collisions between motor vehicles caused relatively few deaths during April, with only eight fatalities resulting from this type of accident, with only one accident of the multiple-death variety.

Six children were among the 12 pedestrians killed during the month, with one child being struck down after she alighted from a school bus.

The month's 46 deaths brought the four-month traffic toll for the state to 181, as compared with 145 during the comparable period of 1953.

Roseau Girl Scout Will Attend Camp at Cody, Wyoming

Georgia Lee Mitchell, Roseau Valedictorian, One of Four from State

The Senior Girl Scouts of the Northwestern Minnesota Council will be represented at the 1954 All States Encampment by Georgia Lee Mitchell of Roseau troop No. 3, was announced by Mrs. Gunder Legvold, council president. Georgia will be one of four representatives from Minnesota at the event, which will be held next July and August at the Buffalo Bill Youth Camp near Cody, Wyoming. Campers will come from every state in the Union.

Official notification of Georgia's acceptance was received from Girl Scout national headquarters in New York City, which holds the encampment for Senior Girl Scouts experienced in camping and outstanding in leadership qualities.

Mrs. Legvold said that this will be the fourth All-States Encampment and the largest, as the number of girls who will attend will be nearly 200. The encampment is the gift of Glenn E. Nielson, president of the Husky Oil Company, and Paul Stock, independent oil dealer, both of Cody. They provided funds that cover the basic costs of operating the camp.

The site of the encampment is in Shoshone National Forest near Yellowstone Park, about 40 miles from Cody, and provides unique opportunities for the Scouts to explore the countryside, take trail trips, camp out overnight in the Rocky Mountains, and study the wild life of the area.

In selecting Senior Scouts for the Encampment, much consideration has been given to their skill and knowledge of camping techniques as well as to their qualities of leadership, knowledge of Girl Scouting, and ability to represent their own communities.

Georgia Mitchell is one of 40 Senior Scouts in Roseau and has been active since she was in the sixth grade in school. Her major interest in school is in music, and she is valedictorian of the class of 1954 of Roseau high school.

MOTHER vs. INFECTION

Maybe most of those cuts and scratches would heal without any medicine. But who can tell when a simple scratch is going to develop into a serious infection?

Mother is alert to every possibility of danger for her children. Guarding them against infection is part of her daily responsibility.

Incidentally, that accounts for Mother's constant concern for her children's religious training. She knows that there are "infections" which destroy our moral and spiritual well-being.

Every Sunday, with her husband and her children, you'll find Mother in Church. For the Church is one of the few things that Mother considers even more essential to the well-being of her family than that bottle of antiseptic in the medicine closet.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Week's Events in Newfolden

Edith M. Lindbeck, Newfolden

Girls' State

Anita Rokke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Rokke, has been chosen as the Girls' State candidate from the Newfolden Auxiliary Unit No 427. Shirley Hagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hagen, is the alternate.

This is the first time the Newfolden unit has sent a girl to Girls' State, and the members are very proud to be able to do so this year.

The candidate must be a local girl and a member of the junior class in high school. An "all-around" girl, she must be in the upper third of her class scholastically and then is chosen by a committee on qualities such as leadership, personality, etc.

Girls from all over our state spent a week in June at the University campus in St. Paul in order to become better prepared to meet the responsibilities of good citizenship and to encourage their fellow students to participate actively in government.

Congratulations, Anita!

Newfolden Senior Class Play

The delightful comedy, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will be presented by the senior class of Newfolden High School Friday, May 14, at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Dramatized by Jean Kerr, this three-act play is taken from the biographical best-seller written by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough.

The drama describes the true adventures of the writers when, as teenagers in the 1920's they took their first trip to Paris. Their experiences, both on board ship and in Paris, are hilarious!

Both Miss Skinner, an American stage actress and daughter of the famous actor, Otis Skinner and Miss Kimbrough are still active in the fields of literature and entertainment today. They have written several books. An article by Miss Skinner appears in the current Readers' Digest.

Following is the cast: Cornelia Otis Skinner, LaRue Fricker; Emily Kimbrough, Shirley Nelson; Leo McEvoy, Kenneth Noreen; Dick Winters, Arlo Waller; Otis Skinner, David Gustafson; Mrs. Skinner, Margaret Ranum; Steward, Gerald Elseth; Purser, Gorman Hallick; Stewardess, Marion Everson; Admiral, Roland Amundson; Harriet St. John, Hansena Olson; Winifred Blaugh, Arlyve Pederson; Inspector, Vernice Bakke; Therese, Grace Erickson; Madame Elise, Joan Swanson; Monsieur de la Croix, Don Hjelle; Window cleaner, Duane Krohn.

Tickets for reserved seats are on sale for 75c. Regular admission charges will be 50c for adults, 35c for students, and 25c for children. Plan now for a truly enjoyable evening on May 14!

SWEATER, SOCK SETS

Matching sweater and sock sets are a popular style note in boys' wear this Spring. Argyle patterns in soft, lightweight wools are a favorite, but the pattern and color range is wide and includes horizontal-stripes and diamond pattern motifs—also very popular with the well-dressed young man. It's a completely new note in boys attire.

Where else does quality mean so much?

Mother knows the value of good health. That's why she wants everything the family eats and drinks to meet high standards of quality.

Like four generations of Americans she chooses Coca-Cola as her favorite soft drink—serves it to her family—offers it to guests when hospitality calls for refreshment.

Mother trusts its quality with good reasons—for Coke is pure as sunlight. The water that goes into Coca-Cola is treated and made neutral to taste to protect the delicate flavor of the drink.

Choice ingredients from the world's markets are tested for taste, strength and purity. Indeed, each frosty bottle of Coca-Cola is "a blend of good things from nine sunny climes."

Coke is everyone's refreshment—at home or at work, at gatherings of friends, on the playgrounds of the nations. Have a Coke today.

IT HAD TO BE GOOD TO GET WHERE IT IS

YOU ARE INVITED . . . to visit our bottling plant between 7 p. m. and 9 p. m. to see for yourself why you can taste its quality when you drink Coca-Cola.

SAFETY CAN BE TAUGHT

Practically every incorporated Minnesota village and city belongs to the League of Municipalities. League Secretary C. C. Ludwig says one of the principal topics at every meeting is Safety. Two basic safety measures at hand in every community, yet not too generally used, Mr. Ludwig believes, are driver training programs in schools and the organization and enthusiastic support of school patrols. Inter-community plans permitting one mobile traffic officer to serve two or more municipalities is also a possibility.

So sparsely settled are some sections of Australia that the map of this island continent shows a number of individual homesteads by name, as if they were towns and cities.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Veterans with personal problems or questions should consult Leo. L. Haley, Contact Representative, Room 210-211 Post Office Building or Box 978, Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Q: I applied for disability compensation, and the VA turned me down. I filed an appeal. Would I be entitled to a hearing, so that I could appear in person and argue my own case.

A: Yes. You would be entitled to appear, without expense to the Government, at a formal hearing. You also could bring with you whatever witnesses, recognized attorneys or representatives you may designate.

Q: I'm a World War II veteran taking a correspondence course under the GI Bill. My entitlement is due to run out, but I've completed more than half the course. Will I be allowed to finish, even though I won't have any entitlement?

A: Yes, provided that your eligibility ends after you have completed satisfactorily more than half the lessons required by the course. The extension, however, will be limited to the number of lessons that $125 will buy.

Q: Is it possible for a World War II GI-Bill trainee to change his course, even though the cut-off date has passed?

A: It is possible to change while in training, but only for reasons satisfactory to VA. Such reasons might include not making adequate progress in your present course through no fault of your own, wanting to change to a course more in keeping with your aptitudes, or if the new course is a normal progression from the one you are now taking.

Q: Does VA make direct GI loans to help veterans start a business?

A: No. Direct GI loans may be made by VA only for the purpose of buying or building a home or farmhouse, and then only in certain areas where private capital is not available.

Sealed Grain on Farm May 1 to Be Assessed

Pennington county assessors, in common with those in other Minnesota counties, last week were instructed to assess all sealed grain found on farms as of May 1, 1954, in a notice received from the office of G. Howard Spaeth, state commissioner of taxation, by Gunnuf Gunstenson, Pennington county assessor.

Large quantities of grain are sealed or re-sealed on county farms under the loan program of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Administration. Gunstenson stated that full and true valuations of stored grain have been set for assessment purposes as follows: Wheat, $2.10 bushel; flax, $1.50; barley, 60 cents; and oats, 30 cents.

On this basis, said Gunstenson, the tax on a bushel of barley would be about one cent on the basis of the average mill rate, with one-half cent for oats.

The letter from the tax commissioner's office reads in part as follows:

"Based upon information received from the office of the Agricultural Stabilization Service in this area we have this year advised Minnesota assessors to list the sealed grain which they find on farms as of May 1st.

"The basis of this decision lies in the fact that farmers are given sixty days after the maturity of a loan before they are required to deliver and surrender their security during which time they have the option of keeping or surrendering the grain. Futhermore, as we understand it, the ASC does not take title to the grain until it has been inspected as to quality and has been delivered at a designated storage facility. We are informed that any notice of intention to deliver sealed grain is regarded by the ASC as merely advisory in the planning of storage space."

'U' of M. Alumni to Assemble May 14 in Minneapolis

Dr. Fred L. Hovde, Head of Purdue University, to Address Graduates

One of the University of Minnesota's most distinguished alumni, Fred L. Hovde, president of Purdue university, will be the main speaker at the Minnesota institution's annual alumni reunion banquet Friday, May 14. The dinner, at 6:30 p. m. in Coffman Memorial union on the Minneapolis campus, will be the biggest and concluding event of the reunion celebration May 13 and 14. The reunion, for all graduates and former students of the University, is sponsored by the Minnesota Alumni association.

President Hovde received his bachelor's degree in chemical engineering at Minnesota in 1929 and therefore is a member of the class which will be observing its silver anniversary at the reunion.

Presiding at the banquet as toastmaster will be Bradshaw Mintener of Minneapolis, general counsel and vice president of Pillsbury Mills. Mintener also is a member of the 1929 class, having received his bachelor of laws degree from the University that year. The guests will be welcomed at the banquet by Theodore Christianson of St. Paul, president of the Minnesota Alumni association. Christianson, a 1937 law graduate of the University, is an associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court.

Dr. J. L. Morrill, president of the University, will present the University's Outstanding Achievement award to several alumni at the banquet. This recognition is given only to alumni of the University, for exceptional accomplishment in their chosen fields of endeavor.

Plummer Juniors to Present Class Play Friday Night

Entire Class to Share in the Presentation of "Take Your Medicine"

Every member of the junior class of Plummer high school has a role in the class play, "Take Your Medicine," which is to be produced Friday, May 7th, at 8 p. m. at the Plummer community hall.

It's the first time that all juniors have had a part in their annual production.

Setting for the play is unusual for action takes place in a hospital room. In place of the usual living room properties, the stage is to be set with hospital beds, charts, oxygen tents, and other apparatus.

Four girls who play the part of nurses are Charlotte Polson, Yvonne Delage, Corlan Sorenson, and Alice Paradis. Charlotte Waldal plays the part of a student nurse.

A doctor's part is portrayed by Robert Malwitz. When his identity is confused, a considerable amount of trouble arises that provokes many comic situations.

Bed patients are played by Dale Craft and Russell Huotari. An ambulant patient is Florence Howard.

Gayle Skjervan is the ingenue of the play; Floyd Howard, a hospital orderly; and Doris Sorenson, a dictatorial spinster. Lowell Toulouse, still another patient, appears in the play's surprise ending.

Visitors to the hospital in "Take Your Medicine" include John Helley, Daniel Kush, Lorene Champagne, Joan Draeger, Roland Gagner, Lynor Halvorson, Clarus Mickelson, Duane Nelson, Margaret Paradis, and Marion Ulrich.

The play director is Miss Katherine Barzen.

2 Women from Red Lake Reservation Die in Stalled Car

Apparently Asphyxiated Early Sunday Morning on Way Home from Clearbrook

Two women apparently were asphyxiated in a car stuck on a road near the Red Lake Indian reservation early Sunday, while a man in the vehicle was unaffected.

Dead were Katherine Barrett, 70, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Louis Barrett, 43. George English, about 67, escaped injury. All were from the reservation.

Authorities said English, driving his own car, and the women, in a car driven by Louis Barrett, were returning to the reservation Saturday night from Clearbrook.

English's car stalled and he got a lift with the Barretts. Their auto got stuck about 7:30 p. m.

Barrett left the car to walk to the nearby house of a relative. The motor was left running.

Barrett returned to the vehicle several times during the evening to check on its occupants and found them chatting.

When he returned to the car at 5 a. m. Sunday, the women were dead and English was sleeping.

Ohio Educator to Be President of N. D. University

A 48-year old Ohio educator will succeed Dr. John C. West as president of the University of North Dakota upon the latter's retirement June 30.

He is Dr. George William Starcher, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, with 27 years experience in university teaching.

His selection, announced Friday by the State Board of Higher Education, was from a field of five prominent educators. All five applicants for the post were interviewed in Grand Forks last week by the board.

May 17 Deadline for Girls to Enrol for '54 Scout Camp

Itasca State Park Again Is Site of Established Camp for This Summer

Girl Scouts of Northwestern Minnesota have laid extensive camping plans for the coming summer. Day camps for Brownies in the second, third, and fourth grades will be set up in several different towns, and are scheduled to take place during the month of June.

The council has again secured the Squaw Lake site in Itasca State Park for its established camp this summer. Surrounded by beautiful evergreen and birch trees, the site offers opportunities for the study of nature, cook-outs, games, songs, crafts, waterfront activities and many other events which make camp life interesting. Four large dormitories, which house 20 girls each in small rooms, are equipped with running water.

Staff for the camp is now being hired and anyone interested in a camp position is invited to call the council office, telephone 1433.

Mrs. Ted Mills, camp chairman for the council, has urged all girls who want to attend camp to get their registration blanks and fees into the council office as soon as possible. She added that May 17 is considered the deadline for Thief River Falls girls to register. Other members of the camp committee are Miss Ethel Bennett and Ted Mills.

Here Are Ways to Honor Your Mother

STORY OF MOTHER'S DAY

This is the beautiful story of how Mother's Day came into being.

Miss Anna M. Jarvis arranged a memorial church service to her mother in 1908. It was recognized at once as a most fitting tribute and started a movement among the churches of Philadelphia to set aside a day to honor Mothers each year. Responding to requests Miss Jarvis suggested the second Sunday in May, her mother having been born on that day, and chose the carnation, her mother's favorite flower, as the floral symbol.

By 1914 Mother's Day was officially designated as the second Sunday in May by congressional resolution, signed by President Wilson. Flowers of all types now are used to mark the day which is kept throughout the English speaking world. This year it falls on Sunday, May 9.

50 YEARS AGO

On July 1, 1902, Congress adjourned without completing action on the Red Lake bill which would have opened the Eleven Townships area east of Thief River Falls for settlement. Mayor Frank Kratka returned from Washington full of explanations why the bill had failed to pass the lower house but equally full of assurance that it would be approved in the next session. And he went to work with determination and vigor to see to it that favorable action would be taken.

The 1902 session of Congress had failed to act on the bill because speaker of the house, Congressman Joe Cannon, objected to the appropriation of $250,000 necessary to carry out its provisions. This was to be in the form of an advance by the government, to be paid back as the reservation lands were sold. But a quarter of a million dollars was a lot of money for Uncle Sam to be putting out in those days and Joe Cannon held the line.

Early in August Mayor Kratka decided to try to secure a new agreement with the Indians that would overcome this objection to the previous bill. In the August 7 issue of the News this new intention of the determined Mayor was reported. Next week he would go up to the agency to explore the possibilities of securing a new treaty.

Two weeks later the News stated the Indians were agreeable to the proposed amendment to their previous treaty. "Mayor Kratka returned from his trip to the Red Lake Agency last week where he met most of the chiefs and Indians" the News reported. "He reports that they are all willing that an amendment be made to the treaty for the cession of the Eleven Townships, which will provide for the Indians receiving their payment for the lands as it is paid by the settlers. Mr. Kratka has notified Major McLaughlin and it is expected that he will soon make arrangements to come here and fix the matter up with the Indians."

There were occasional progress reports during the weeks that followed and in the November 27 issue a local item stated that "F. H. Kratka expects" to leave Saturday for Washington to continue the work of opening up the Red Lake reservation."

By this time there evidently had developed some opposition to the spending of the city's money for the purpose of maintaining a lobbyist in Washington for in the same issue there was a report of a mass meeting where the problem was discussed. There were differences of opinion but a motion in favor of sending Mayor Kratka back to Washington finally was approved unanimously. The lobbying had already cost the city $3,000. The skepticism of some of the citizens is understandable.

At its December meeting the council acted favorably on the Kratka-to-Washington proposal. The problem of spending city money for this purpose was met by authorizing the Mayor to appoint a secretary at a salary of $750 a year. Mayor Kratka appointed his daughter on New Year's Day of 1903 and he was off to Washington again. "There is every reason to believe the bill will be passed at this session" the News said hopefully.

And so it was, and the action came speedily. In the March 5 issue of the News a banner headline proclaimed the fact that the Red Lake Bill "was passed by Congress last Saturday.". At a Commercial Club meeting a committee was named to arrange a suitable homecoming for Mayor Kratka. He returned the following Tuesday, but the complimentary banquet, at his own request, was not held. His "mission accomplished" report pointed out that a new treaty with the Indians would be required. He anticipated no difficulty in overcoming this hurdle but it nevertheless was a problem to be reckoned with. And during his absence the anti-Frank Kratka bloc in the city became quite vocal.

Congress had acted speedily for the opening of the Eleven Townships. A Washington dispatch dated January 20 stated Senator Clapp had that day introduced a bill. He and representative Frank Eddy would attempt to have this bill made a part of the administration Indian appropriation bill. Within a week it was reported out of committee in the Senate. In another week it had been made a part of the Indian appropriation bill in that body and on February 14 it passed the Senate. In another two weeks it had passed the Senate. In another two weeks it had passed the house. That was quick action. But it was not the bill the Indians had approved. While it was more liberal in some respects and probably would have netted more money to the Indians, it contained the objectionable school-land provision. And once again Mayor Kratka's efforts were in vain. The Indians would have nothing of it.

Dr. William Watts Folwell, in his History of Minnesota, tells the story of this rejection by the Indians as follows:

". . . In the Congressional session of 1903 a measure was passed, without debate or objection, as a section of the Indian Appropriation bill of the year. The new plan, instead of having the government buy the land for a definite purchase price, made the United States a trustee to take over certain Indian lands to be relinquished, to dispose of them, and to pay the proceeds to the Red Lake Indians. The act required the consent of the Indians, and McLaughlin was again appointed to negotiate with them.

"In councils held in the spring of 1903 his eloquence was without effect. The Indians did not like the idea of payments conditioned on sales, much preferring the cash deal they had made the year before.

' "Give us the treaty we made with you; that is what we want,' said the chiefs. They utterly rejected a proposition contained in the act that they should donate to the state of Minnesota for schools twenty-two sections of land worth fifty-seven thousand dollars."

In the meantime the group of citizens who had opposed spending public funds to pay expenses of Mayor Kratka in Washington had organized under the name "Municipal League". As long as there was hope of favorable action they were moderate in their demands. When it became known that the "mission accomplished" had become "mission failed again" they became more certain than ever that their case was just. The summer of 1903 was not a happy one for Mayor Kratka.

About 94 million tons of bituminous coal were produced in Pennsylvania in 1953, an increase of 5 million tons over 1952, and more than 20% of the national total.

Including last year's production of 133 million tons, West Virginia's 8-year total output of bituminous coal since the close of World War II totals 1,194 million tons.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Successful 9th Dist. Convention Is Held by VFW and Auxiliary

The Ninth district Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary held one of their best attended conventions in recent years in Thief River Falls Saturday evening and Sunday, with numerous national, state and district officers in attendance.

Features of the convention were a dance in the local VFW hall Saturday night, with business sessions Sunday morning and afternoon and a noon dinner Sunday in St. Bernard's dining hall, served by members of St. Bernard's Guild.

Roy A. Jorgenson, member of the local VFW post, served as master of ceremonies at the dinner, at which visiting officials were introduced, in addition to Harlan Huseth, commander of the Thief River Falls post, and Mrs. Agnes Israelson, Ninth district president, who welcomed the group to the city and presented the key to the city to Ann Kennedy, state president of the VFW auxiliary.

Among the officials presented were Ray F. Kesler, department commander, together with Edwin Ofstie and Harold Nyman, vice commanders; and Joe Bobletter, chief of staff; Tom Letness, national council member; Chris Fischer, national department inspector general; Oscar Hopstad, Ninth district commander; and other district officers.

In their business session Sunday afternoon, the VFW delegates went on record in favor of continuing the VA hospital program without change, urged that more doctors be secured for the VA hospital at Fargo, and endorsed Crookston as the scene of the 1955 state encampment.

In the annual election of officers, Joseph Moen of Crookston was promoted to district commander, other named including Quentin Werpy of Ada and Arnold Ringstrand of East Grand Forks, vice commanders; Mike Rabbi of Bemidji, quartermaster; Chan Frieje, Detroit Lakes, judge advocate; Art Stortroen, Fergus Falls, chaplain; Roy A. Jorgenson, Thief River Falls, surgeon, Frank Detinger, Detroit Lakes, trustee; and Rudy Lee, East Grand Forks, club committee chairman.

The new commander, Joseph Moen, announced the appointment of Roy Rawley of Crookston as district adjutant, and Chris Fischer, Crookston, as officer of the day. State Commander Kes-

Owner of Stewart Hotel for Past Five Years Dies Tuesday Evening at 46

C. & C. Honors Mrs. Sagmoen, Dick Burtness

Recognizes Two Local Residents for Their Recent Achievements

The Civic and Commerce association, at its luncheon meeting last Thursday in the Rex Cafe, paid tribute to two local residents who have recently gained distinction.

They are Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, one of 28 Minnesota women cited by Hamline University as outstanding citizens, and Richard Burtness, Lincoln high school junior and active dairy farmer, who this week in Minneapolis was presented by the Future Farmers of America with its State Farmer degree on the basis of his farm activities and leadership qualities.

Mrs. Florence Anderson introduced Mrs. Sagmoen as a woman who has given unstintingly of her time and efforts to promote community activities. She was presented with a gift of silverware by Elmer Bratsch in behalf of the C. & C.

Mrs. Sagmoen responded briefly, saying that many other women deserved the honor as much as she, and also thanking the local people who had proposed her name for recognition.

Dick Burtness was presented by Stanley Nelson, his high school agriculture instructor, and spoke a few words on his farming activities, saying that he had built his own Holstein herd from one calf to seven animals.

Ralph A. Luhman, who conducted the meeting in the absence of President Art Christianson, called on Philip Hess of the trade promotion committee for a report on the Auction Dollar sale, and on Bill LaFave, who gave details of plans for financing the 50th anniversary celebration here this summer and fall. He said that, in addition to booster buttons, special plates adorned with local scenes of pioneer days would be sold for $1.50.

Secretary J. M. Roche announced that the next meeting of the C. & C. Thursday evening, May 20, would be devoted to a discussion of plans for the annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 8.

9th District GOP Chairman Is Reelected

District Convention in City Wednesday Hears Talk by Val Bjornson

Nearly 100 delegates from 15 counties, in addition to almost as many alternates, attended the biennial Ninth district Republican convention in the Eagles auditorium in Thief River Falls last Wednesday. Morris Nelson of Fosston, chairman of the Polk county GOP committee, presided as convention chairman.

Fred Behling of Moorhead was reelected district chairman, with Mrs. Milo Baldwin of Frazee as chairwoman; Alvin Christofferson of Thief River Falls as vice chairman; Mrs. Charles Vandersluis of Bemidji, vice chairwoman; Mrs. Parker Erickson of Moorhead, secretary; George Stone of Baudette, treasurer; and Ernest Windmiller of Fergus Falls and Mrs. Carrie Herbranson of Warren, members of the state executive committee.

Principal speaker at the convention was Val Bjornson, state treasurer and aspirant for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator in the September primary.

Discussing the farm problem, Bjornson expressed his belief that the readjustment in support prices of agricultural products should be gradual, and he stated that the need for putting farm commodities back into normal channels of trade calls for the best thinking of all the people.

Recalling his own conversation with President Eisenhower in Washington last week as to Minnesota views on the farm program, Bjornson repeated earlier insistence that the sharp drop in dairy price supports has been "overly abrupt" and that the six basic commodities given price supports are "stacked for the South." He raised the question of "just why Minnesota's junior senator quit his Agriculture and Labor committee assignments—the very fields in which he professes such fervently vocal interest continually."

Bjornson traced Democratic party shaping of farm legislation and the "flip-flop" which came in complete reversal by Agriculture Secretaries Brannan and Anderson as to their earlier espousal of flexible price supports as a "permanent system."

"No wonder there is confusion," said Bjornson, "as these quick change artists argue just as vehemently now for rigid supports as they used to, some time back, for flexible type."

Declaring the senatorial campaign's "all-embracing issue" to be "what the Eisenhower administration is trying to do, nationally and internationally so far—the elimination of 'economic hobbles' in gradual restoration of a free economy; the continued clean-up of Communism, corruption and waste; reversal of the trend toward 'big government' and 'Washington whip-cracking,' with a return to more rights for states, for locali-

Lincoln High School Earns 16 'A's in Area Music Festival Here

Win County 4-H Play Contest

More than 1,875 students representing 32 high schools thruout Districts 30, 31 and 32 of Region 8 assembled in Thief River Falls last Friday and Saturday for the annual state area music festival held in Lincoln high school.

The streets of the city were alive with teen-agers, especially on Saturday when the bands and large vocal groups were being auditioned.

The judges awarded 108 top ratings of "A" to students from 24 schools, with Lincoln high school receiving 16 "A" ratings for its soloists and groups, the largest number awarded to any school. Fosston high school earned 14 top ratings, followed by Roseau with 11, East Grand Forks, 10; Crookston, nine; Bagley, eight; Hallock, seven; and Ada six. The other schools received three "A" ratings or less, in addition to which 125 "B" ratings and 12 "C" were awarded.

Lincoln high school groups receiving top ratings included the band, girls glee club, mixed chorus, madrigal singers, girls' sextet, cornet trio and flute quartet.

"A" ratings also were given to the following Lincoln soloists: Gail Brown and Durelle Newbury, sopranos; Gene Bratsch, bass; Karen King, piccolo; Linda Wold, cornet; Kathleen Walker, tuba; Janet Nelson, drum; and Ara Peterson and Janet Nelson, piano.

Heard Saturday were 17 bands, four orchestras, 18 glee clubs and 13 choruses, the auditions continuing thru the evening. Only a small number of local residents turned out to hear the young musicians perform.

Serving as judges at the festival were Dr. Bruce Howden of St. Olaf college, Northfield, instrumental; Dr. H. D. Harmon of Moorhead state teachers college, bands, glee clubs and choruses; Dr. Arnold Caswell, University of Minnesota, vocal numbers; and Dr. Paul Ivory, also of the U. of M., piano selections.

Four Aspirants for Two Posts in School Election on Tuesday

When the filing period for candidates for the local board of education in School District 18 came to a close last Thursday afternoon, four aspirants were in the field for the two positions to be left vacant July 1 with the expiration of the terms of Andy Williamson, clerk of the district, and Fred Koop of rural Thief River Falls, neither of whom filed for reelection.

The annual school election will be conducted in the municipal Auditorium next Tuesday evening, May 18, between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock.

Candidates for the two positions include R. S. Eidevik, manager of the local office of the state employment service; Mons Engelstad, farmer in that portion of Rocksbury township included in the Thief River Falls school district; Oscar Hoglin, carpenter and at present employed by Stordahl Truck Lines; and John Whisler Jr., area supervisor for the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Appointed to serve as judges of election are Russell (Huck) Olson, Mrs. Marjorie Kiland and Wm. Frolland, while alternates include Miss Laura Lund, J. M. Roche and Leonard Goulet.

Local School to Offer Adult Dairy Course

Board Acts Favorably on Recommendation of Education Department

Carrying out recommendations recently made here by Harry C. Schmid, state director of vocational training, the Thief River Falls board of education at its May session Monday evening, took action to establish an adult agricultural course in dairy improvement, and possibly other courses along related lines.

Celebration Plans Are Now Taking Shape

Pioneers to Be Honored at Banquet as Feature of Event June 18 to 20

Arrangements for the fiftieth anniversary celebration to be held here June 18, 19 and 20 are progressing satisfactorily, according to Kendall Gustafson, general chairman. At a meeting to be held at the Rex Cafe Friday evening plans will be discussed for the banquet to honor the first settlers. Committees in charge of the Saturday and Sunday programs will also meet this week.

Honoring the first settlers presents a problem because of some difficulties in determining who among the remaining early settlers should receive recognition. When the reservation opened in 1904 other lands had been settled, some of them many years. Few of the first settlers remain however, even those who homesteaded on the reservation, and the problem may not be as difficult as has been anticipated.

All township clerks in the county have been invited to meet with members of the general committee Friday evening to arrange for a careful check of pioneer residents in each area. At this meeting the question of classifying the early settlers will also be discussed.

Morris Howick of the program committee states that a troupe of professional water performers have been secured for the water carnival program Saturday and Sunday. The Florida Ski Capades do many sensational acts on water skis, shoes and saucers and will provide many thrills for the spectators.

Extension Program Achievement Day on May 4 Attracts 150

Achievement Day for the Pennington county extension home program was held Tuesday, May 4, in the city Auditorium. Over 150 women attended the event.

Main speaker for the program was Miss Athalen Scheid, extension clothing specialist from the University of Minnesota. In her talk on "Dressing well on a low budget," Miss Scheid outlined ways of saving money when buying clothing, to get the most for the amount of money spent.

Other speakers on the afternoon program were Mrs. Calvin Toomey, president of the extension home council; Marge Olsen, county home agent and Bill Penning, county agent. Musical selections were given by Mrs. Clarence Weckworth of River Falls township, and the Bethany Ladies Chorus, both accompanied by Mrs. Klemens Gigstad of St. Hilaire. Chairman was Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, township counciller for St. Hilaire.

Exhibits on display portayed the lessons which the women had studied during the year. Different types of pressure cookers from the lesson on pressure sauce-pan meals, were featured, as were foundation garments on loan from local stores. Mrs. John Funnesdahl of Norden township demonstrated the use of sewing machine attachments, and samples made at that lesson were also on display. Over a dozen chairs made at reupholstering workshops were shown, and received favorable reaction from the group. Craft items, hand-painted wooden trays and hand-etched glassware, were also on display.

Lunch was served at the conclusion of the program.

Committees for the afternoon event were: Program: Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, chairman; Mrs. Carl Finstad and Mrs. Andrew Kisch; exhibits: Mrs. Hugh Swanson, chairman, Mrs. Norton Nelson and Mrs. Ernest Swanson; lunch: Mrs. Odin Hanson, chairman, Mrs. Kermit Maidment and Mrs. Charles Sorenson. Publicity Mrs. A. D. Hanson.

Lessons for the coming year were announced Tuesday. They will be "Using dairy products and eggs," "Clothing accessories," "Using meat," the less used cuts and methods of preservation and "The care and repair of home furnishings." Open meetings will be given on freezing foods, business affairs of the family, and water systems for the home and farm. Any women in the county who would like to join a Homemaker group, should contact the home agent or the township counciller in her township. The new study program will begin in the fall.

Radio Relay Route to Fargo Planned

To Make Possible 'Live' Television Broadcasts

Bell Telephone system plans for a radio relay route to give North Dakota its first network television have been made public in an application filed with the Federal Communications Commission.

The long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph company said the proposed route would stretch some 227 miles from Minneapolis to Fargo, North Dakota.

The new facilities would be used initially to extend network TV service to the Fargo area with a service date of about October 1, 1954. Later, telephone service channels would be added to the route.

It seems that new inventions are looked upon with more or less suspicion when first used and so it was with the wind straw stacker.

Farmers feared that some of the grain would be sucked through by the powerful fan and into the straw stack. This belief was quite general and there were meetings held where this matter was discussed, but after a trial run it was proven that the fear was unfounded. The wind straw stacker was in general use after 1901.

More people arrived in the Rosewood community during the '90s, including August Nordlund, James Johnson, a young lad who came to live with his uncle Peder Sorenson, Charley Swanson who lived east of the Axelson place. The neighborhood boys hunted rabbits on his farm. August Johnson operated a blacksmith shop on his farm, and did emergency repair work. Henry Thoen and Jermund Fossen families arrived about this time. All of the above families did not live on "Tryssil Ryggen" but they were part of the community life.

The political pot boiled regularly as election years came around. I remember the campaign of 1896, when William McKinley and William Jennings Bryan were the two principal candidates for president. Bryan campaigned on the free silver issue, which brought about many arguments in our nighborhood, but fortunately, the neighborhood settled down to the ordinary stride again.

One of the usual occasions was going to Thief River Falls with a load of feed grain to be ground at Kretzschmar's mill. The roads often were all mud and generally we made slow progress. I remember one time a few miles west of town, we met a man carrying a large sack on his back and this was Ole Steen carrying mail to Tweet post office, located on the Tweet homestead in Norden township. Ole carried this mail for several years, sometimes on foot, sometimes on horse back and generally by horse and cart.

At the mill we unloaded our grain sacks and then unhitched the oxen on the hay market which was located where the J. C. Penney store now is.

We traded the eggs and butter at the O. P. Johnson store, on the corner of Main Avenue and Third street where the Kelly Hardware is now located. Emil Zeh was the genial clerk in the grocery department.

We went to the Langseth store for calico and other dry goods. This store was where the Elks building now is located. From there we went diagonaly across the street to Rasmus Oen's hardware store to get repairs for the mower, a few nails and other small items.

Also on the list for a visit was Joe Rulcau, who operated a card room and a soft drink and cigar store where the Falls Shoe Repair Shop is now located. Joe had a parrot that was educated in lumber jack language and knew all of the bad words. Whoever got the parrot when Joe passed on must have had many surprises.

State PTA Units Number 200,376 Members in April

One-third of Members Are Men, Says President of Minnesota Congress

A new record of state membership in Parent-Teacher associations was set in April when a total of 200,376 members was reached by the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers, it was revealed this week by Mrs. John P. Livingston, Duluth, president of the state Congress. The number of local associations increased from 881 to 918.

This is an increase of nearly 15,000 in membership over the previous year, it was estimated by the state office of the Minnesota Congress, and consistent with the steady growth from year to year since the war.

"The ratio of men to the total membership is particularly gratifying," Mrs. Livingston said, "as they constitute a third of the total. Men are taking a much more active part in the affairs of the PTA as officers and chairmen at local and state level than ever before."

Mrs. Livingston attributes the growth of the PTA in recent years, not only in the state but to a national membership of eight million, to a rapid increase in school population, but more specifically to the great interest that many younger parents are taking toward the education and welfare of their children.

"The PTA provides the two-way bridge between the home and the school that parents and teachers have learned is essential for a common understanding of the problems of a child," Mrs. Livingston said. "With its 'action' program, the PTA offers positive help toward improved education, better health and safety standards, and a strengthening of religious and family ties."

The 'action' program of the PTA is directed toward concrete accomplishments, Mrs. Livingston pointed out. As one recent example, she cited the passage of the School Bus Drivers' Examination law by the 1953 Minnesota legislature as a direct result of concerted PTA action.

Six Admitted to U. S. Citizenship at Hearing Friday

Judge Paul A. Lundgren Presides with Legion Auxiliary Cooperating

Six persons were admitted to United States citizenship last Friday afternoon in an impressive ceremony conducted in the district court room in the Auditorium.

Judge Paul A. Lundgren presided over the exercises, while the candidates were interrogated by Clifford Milburn of the Fargo immigration and naturalization office. Mayor Agnes Israelson welcomed the new citizens, and Mrs. George Baken, retiring president of the American Legion, presented each of them with an American flag. Miss Floydeen Lilstrom sang "God Bless America."

Four of those admitted to citizenship are natives of Canada, with the other two coming from England. Those from Canada include Violet Agnes Boman, Jack D. Israelson, Michele Carol Gibbs, age 9; and Velma Merle (Mrs. Robert J.) Erickson. The remaining two from England were John and Doris Fassl.

At the close of the ceremony, all present were guests of the Legion auxiliary at lunch served in the Woman's club room.

Mrs. G. Erickson at Tuberculosis Parley in St. Paul

"Review of the old, preview of the new"—both were important parts of the tuberculosis meeting for Minnesota's volunteer workers, according to Mrs. Geo. L. Erickson, who attended the sessions May 6 and 7 at Christmas Seal headquarters in St. Paul. More than 200 were present from all parts of the state.

This year is the 50th anniversary year of the National Tuberculosis association, Mrs. Erickson said. Guest speaker from the national organization was Clarence Kehoe, New York City, who is director of the nation-wide Seal sale.

Figures from the national organization show that in 1904, when the NTA was born, TB was the leading cause of death in this country. Now it is in sixth place.

Since Denmark had the first Christmas Seal sale, a Danish dinner and program were part of the state observance of the golden anniversary. Special tribute was paid to Minnesotans, who were among the founders of the National Tuberculosis association.

Handling Silage

Thousands of Minnesota farmers are beginning to appreciate the values of grass in sufficient livestock feeding. But many farmers are very satisfied feeding grass silage and seem to get good silage each year. I think that this points out that there are conditions that favor grass silage spoilage. If you are consistently getting poor quality grass silage you may need a major change in the management of your silage operation. Some of the things which cause spoilage are poor methods of storage, putting silage up too wet or too dry, not having the silage packed enough; and other factors.

However, if you are getting fair silage quite often, but once in a while you have a bad year, though no apparent reason, preservatives might help you. They cost from 50c to $1.50 a ton of silage and pay off in many ways.

They reduce possibilities of spoilage, allow you to cut forage crops directly, make better tasting silage—thus, animals eat more—and reduce feed value losses.

According to Rodney A. Briggs the University's extension agronomist, there are two types of preservatives—first, those such as corn and cob meal, ground grains, beet pulp and molasses, which add sugars to insure proper fermentation and second, chemicals such as sodium metabisulfite and sulphur dioxide gas which stop fermentation.

Of course, it's possible to make good quality silage without a preservative—but you must have high proportion of grass in the mixture, an airtight silo, and well-packed silage with the right amount of moisture. Trouble is it's almost impossible to assure all these factors—thus, preservatives as an insurance.

Briggs says it's especially important to use preservatives with legumes because they lack enough natural sugars to promote the proper fermentation that produces good silage.

If you have questions on grass silage I might be able to help you, so drop in and talk it over sometime.

Check Pocket Gophers

Because of their feeding habits and ability to live under many different conditions, pocket gophers have become a real menace—especially in hay-growing areas. Yet, the little fellows are easily checked and prevented from doing costly damage. For free, illustrated folder on pocket gophers, come in, phone, or write the county extension office. Four girls enrolled in Junior Clothing met at the Adam Lendobeja home Friday evening, for a clothing project meeting. The girls were given pointers on the "Selection and Fitting of Patterns" by Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, adult leader. During the lesson four dummies were constructed in a size 12 for a girl, teen-ager, junior and misses size. These dummies were used to help the girls determine which size was best suited to their figure.

The girls who attended the meeting were Shirley and Phyllis Beiswenger, Joyce Helgeland, and LaVonne Diehl.

The following 4-H'ers from Smiley will take part in the "Search for Talent Contest" which will be held in St. Hilaire gym May 13, at 8 p. m. Joyce Helgeland, piano solo; Shirley and Phyllis Beiswenger, vocal duet; Sharon Knutson, piano solo; and Orrin Helgeland, vocal solo.

Use More Milk

Let's think this week about how much milk we need. It's taken for granted that children need milk to build strong bones and good teeth, but many folks forget that adults also need milk to help maintain their bones and teeth. When calcium of which is by far the best and cheapest source, is deficient in the body, bones will break easily.

Since most American diets are low in calcium, everyone would benefit by increasing the amount of milk consumed. Extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota recommend these amounts of milk every day for members of the family: children through teen age, 1 quart; adults 2½ to 3 cups; pregnant women, a little more than 1 quart; nursing mothers 1½ quarts; elderly persons, 1 quart.

This amount of milk need not be consumed as a beverage, but may be used in cooking, or in the form of cheese and in frozen desserts.

How do you rate?

Here is a recipe that I think you might like to try. It is for glazed honey doughnuts, the ones that look so good in bakeries.

Milk 1 cup; shortening, 3 tablespoons; salt, ½ teaspoon; liquid honey, ½ cup; yeast cake compressed or equivalent; all purpose flour, 4 cups sifted; beaten eggs, ½ cup; cinnamon, 1 teaspoon; nutmeg, ½ teaspoon.

Scald milk, add shortening, salt and 1 tablespoon honey. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in crumbled yeast, add 1 cup flour and beat well. Set this sponge in a warm place for 1 hour, or until mixture is full of bubbles. Combine remaining honey with eggs and spices and stir into sponge. Add remaining flour. Turn out onto floured board and knead 1 minute. Place dough in greased bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place (85 degrees F.) until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Turn dough out on floured board and roll ½" thick. Cut with floured doughnut cutter and let rise until light (about 1½ hours). Drop with raised (top) side down into deep fat and fry at 360 degrees F for 1 minute on each side. Drain, then cover with honey glaze.

Honey Glaze for Doughnuts:

Unflavored gelatin, ¼ teaspoon; water, ¼ cup; liquid honey, 1½ tablespoon; confectioners sugar, ½ cup; salt, ¼ teaspoon; vanilla 1 teaspoon.

Combine gelatin and water, scald honey, and heat over hot water until warm. Add sugar, salt and vanilla, stir until smooth. Keep the glaze warm over hot water, dip the doughnuts in it, then place them on a rack to dry.

This recipe makes 25 doughnuts.

"Above all," Bjornson said, "I found on my quick trip to Washington that this administration shows more of frankness in presenting every type of problem to the American public, on the honest premise that 'kidding' people about some painless way out of difficulties simply postpones the direct approach necessary in solving such problems."

The delegates adopted the following resolutions:

Commended the Administration for its accomplishments.

Commended Gov. C. Elmer Anderson for his administration of state affairs.

Commended the Administration and the national Department of Justice for the way they exposed corrupt and subversive elements in the government.

State Reports on Infestation of Tent Caterpillar

Area between Red Lakes and Cass Lake Seen as Trouble Spot This Year

Surveys and estimates of the forest tent caterpillar infestation for 1954 indicate a moderate to heavy infestation in the area north of the Twin Cities, east of Mille Lacs lake and north to the mid-Superior area. There may be light to moderate damage in the remainder of northern Minnesota with spots of heavy infestation in Becker, Ottertail and Wadena counties, between Cass Lake and the Red Lakes.

Through some misunderstanding, information has been released that defoliation would not be as severe as predicted earlier. Residents are urged to prepare for spraying in those areas which are threatened with heavy damage, as a delay can result in considerable loss.

The division of forestry, department of conservation, has been cooperating with the state entomologist in collection of egg masses and cocoons from which information is gathered to indicate the severity of the infestation. A considerable amount of field work is carried on during the late winter and spring to determine the amount and area of infestation.

Depending upon the weather, a program of air and ground spraying is being planned to kill the worms and reduce the defoliation. The spraying must be done 7-10 days after the worms have hatched or about one week after tree leaves have begun to unfold. The popples, birch, basswood and elm are the favorite kinds of tree food, but the worms will attack others.

People are asked to contact the county agent, forest ranger, or representatives of resort associations and civic organizations for information and advice. Letters may be written to the Office of State Entomologist, 312 Coffee Hall, University, St. Paul Campus, St. Paul 8, Minnesota.

SMILEY . . .

The May meeting of the Helperette club was packed with activity and left the members weak with laughter after the program. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Anderson Wednesday afternoon. Instead of the usual meeting procedure of odds and ends, the president Clara Olson, arranged an impromptu program put on by the members themselves. Mrs. Mark Olson played an accordian solo; Mrs. Lloyd Iverson gave a reading "Heap O' Lurn"; a comedy monologue "Friday Night in Town" by Mrs. Jim McCrum; a laugh filled "Novelty Wedding" without a word being spoken by Mrs. Harlan Knutson at the make believe organ, madly playing a wedding march, Mrs. John Ranum a wordless vocalist, Mrs. Andrew Kisch as the minister, Mrs. Gust Hallberg, ring bearer, Mrs. Carl E. Olson as flower girl, Mrs. Archie Anderson, the jittering bride and Mrs. Bill Grundhaus, the exhausted groom. It was quite out of the ordinary, to be sure. The wedding—that is, Miss Olson pinned candy corsages on the following mothers in observance of Mother's Day. Mrs. John Ranum, oldest mother present, Mrs. Harlan Knutson, youngest mother, Mrs. Bill Grundhaus, newest mother, Mrs. Carl E. Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

The Minnesota Congressional campaign front is showing signs of increasing activity, and both major parties are engaging in maneuvers that indicate a more than ordinary concentration of interest in this area of the 1954 election picture.

Republicans hold a narrow five-vote margin in Congress as of now, and national observers are inclined to feel that the Democrats stand a good chance of taking control of the lower house. The Republicans only hope for maintaining control is to pick up additional seats in states like Minnesota to offset likely losses in other areas.

Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Laborites continue to feel that their chances are good for increasing the size of their Congressional delegation, or, in any event at least, to hold on to the four seats they now have.

Third and Sixth Crucial

Both sides make no secret about the fact that the two districts most likely to be closely contested are the Third, which includes North and East Minneapolis and Anoka, Isanti, Chisago, and Washington counties, and the Sixth, which is situated in the east Central portion of the state. Both are currently held by DFL'ers.

The Third is likely to produce the hottest fight. DFL incumbent Roy W. Wier, now completing his third term, will again be opposed by Ed Willow, also of Minneapolis who last week formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination. In 1952, Wier defeated Willow 115,008 to 105,320, a margin which GOP'ers feel can be closed now that Willow has had the benefit of a prior campaign.

In the Sixth district the Republicans last week endorsed O. J. Jerde, member of the St. Cloud Teachers College faculty, for the GOP nomination to oppose DFL incumbent Fred Marshall of Grove City. Marshall is also completing his third term. In 1952 he defeated his GOP opponent by a margin of 7,500 votes.

Constantine v. Blatnik

The Eighth district, which includes the Iron Range and the City of Duluth, offers an interesting clash. John A. Blatnik, the DFL incumbent, was first elected in 1946 and has since been re-elected by large majorities, winning in 1952 by a margin of 91,465 to 54,756.

Blatnik's opponent this year is likely to be Ben P. Sonstantine, St. Louis county probate judge and former Eveleth mayor. Constantine's declaration of interest in opposing Blatnik has drawn considerable comment because he formerly was associated with the DFL, at least in the first campaign of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. Prior to his appointment by Governor Luther Youngdahl as probate judge he served, also under appointment by Youngdahl, as commissioner of the Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation commission.

Primary Fight in Ninth

An intra-DFL fight seems assured for the Ninth district situated in the Northwestern portion of the state. Curtiss T. Olson, of Roseau, who was the DFL nominee against GOP incumbent Harold C. Hagen, of Crookston, in 1920 and 1952, has announced he will be a canditate again. Hagen won last time, 70,402 to 45,874.

Olson will be opposed in the primary by State Representative Coya Knutson, of Oklee, one of the two women now serving in the state legislature. This should be an interesting primary fight, with both contenders having many friends and supporters within the DFL.

Another Clash in Seventh

The DFL is bracing itself for another primary fight in the Seventh district, which is made up of the Southwestern counties. This is the district that the DFL feels offers its best chance for picking up another seat, although H. Carl Andersen, of Tracy, has been a long-time incumbent, winning over James W. Youngdale of Benson in 1952 by a vote of 87,400 to 52,144.

In the 1952 election Youngdale was repudiated by the top leadership of the state DFL because his views were regarded by DFL officials as unacceptable. Youngdale is expected to try again this year. The Party has endorsed Judge Douglas P. Hunt of Montevideo, husband of the Party's national committeewoman. A Youngdale-Hunt race would most likely produce some fireworks in view of the Party's organization's strong feeling about Youngdale's candidacy.

Prowlers, Crookston to Play Ball Thursday

Coach Ralph Skjod's baseball Prowlers, after absorbing a 5 to 4 loss from Red Lake Falls on Thursday afternoon and shutting out Bagley, 7 to 0, on Monday afternoon, with Jack Poole hurling a no-hitter, will have a busy schedule this week.

On Thursday afternoon, at 4:15 p. m., the Prowlers meet the Crookston Pirates on the Fair Grounds diamond; on Saturday, May 15th, the locals travel to Alvarado for an important game with coach Charley Picken's club; and on Monday, May 17th, the Prowlers engage in doubleheader, playing Cass Lake at Cass Lake at 2:30 p. m., and then meeting Coach Horace May's Bemidji Lumberjacks at Bemidji at 5:30 p. m.

Coach Darold King's highly-regarded Red Lake Falls Eagles, taking advantage of lack of control by the locals' two right-handers, Sid Vraa and Joey Poole, and a couple of crucial errors, defeated the Prowlers, 5 to 4, here on Thursday afternoon. In the 1st inning, with two men away, Louie Demarais and Duane Emard raced in with a pair of Eagles tallies when catcher Jack Poole, after fielding a dribbler in front of the plate, made a bad throw to first base. Red Lake Falls added a pair of runs in the 3rd inning, with Ernie Baril's solid base hit being the big factor in giving the Eagles a 4 to 0 lead.

The Prowlers came up with a pair of runs in the 4th frame when Sid Vraa and Jack Hoppe, after getting walks, came around on infield outs and a wild pitch to score. The top of the 7th found Red Lake Falls notching their fifth tally when Dave Kankel, after drawing a walk, stole second and then from third, scored on an error. The Prowlers came back in their half of the 7th to score two runs and have the tying run on third base with two men out, but the Eagles' stylish right-hander, Ronnie LaChance, struck out Glen Carlson for the game-ending out.

Playing here on Monday afternoon against Coach Dick Lawrence's Bagley team, the Prowlers registered a 7 to 0 shutout, with young Jack Poole hurling a seven inning no-hitter. Jack struck out eight and gave up four bases on balls. The Prowler attack, which collected eight hits off righthander Bob Setterberg, was paced by Joey Poole's two center-field doubles.

Thief River Falls trapshooters organized last night at a meeting the auditorium and a league is now in the process of being formed. Directors named to elect officers and complete arrangements for sceduled shooting were Henry Granum, Tony Dorn, Ole Ekeren, Stanley Ranum, Frank Rinkel and W. E. Dahlquist.

At least six teams will make up the league, these teams to be sponsored by The Northern Chevrolet, the Pharmacy, Wilson Bros., Johnson Brothers, Baumann-Oen and the Times. In order to make provision for the large number who have indicated a desire to participate it may be necessary to increase this to eight teams.

The opening official shoot will be Thursday evening, May 20. The traps will be open for the shooting of qualifying rounds tonight and Thursday night and the first three nights of next week. Erling Torgerson has been elected treasurer-secretary of the league.

Valley Loop Opens Sunday; Argyle to Play Thieves Here

Viking, Red Lake Falls, Crookston and Alvarado Other Teams in League

The Red River Valley baseball league—a six-team circuit this season—will begin play on its 1954 schedule on Sunday afternoon. The schedule openers will find Argyle meeting the league champion Thieves at Thief River Falls; Viking playing Bun Holz' Crookston Pirates at Crookston; and Bob Poizler's Red Lake Falls Lakers meeting Alvarado Farmers at Alvarado. Game time for all of Sunday's games will be 2:30 p. m.

All of the teams in the league have been handicapped by the inclement weather, and as a result the various team managers—Swede Lund of the Thieves, Bun Holz of the Pirates, Charley Picken of Alvarado, Bob Poirier of Red Lake Falls, Bill Peterson of Viking, and Jim Hotten of Argyle—are in doubt as to the lineups they will field on Sunday.

Lund announced that right-hander Gene Leslie would take the mound for the Thieves in their opener against Argyle at the Fair Grounds here on Sunday, and that he, Swede, would be behind the plate. Sid Vraa at shortstop, Joey Poole at second base, Shorty Perkins at third or first, and the outfield of Al Williamson, Jack Hoppe, and Jerry Stevens will perhaps be in the starting lineup.

Game & Fish Division Reports on 1953 Kill

Final figures on the 1953 calculated kill of game and fur-bearing animals were released today by Frank D. Blair, director, Minnesota division of game and fish.

Based on report cards returned by 39,831 out of 163,477 big game hunters, the calculated deer kill was 60,486.

Estimated kill of migratory waterfowl for 1953 was 1,300,878 based on returns from 7,070 questionnaires out of a total of 13,500 sent to duck stamp purchasers scattered over the state. Estimated kill of geese was 17,025; and of coot, rail and gallinule, woodcock and jacksnipe, 77,014.

The estimated kill of upland game birds, based on 25,933 small game report cards returned out of a total of 314,194 licensed small game hunters was as follows:

Ruffed grouse, 711,255; pheasants, 593,280; sharp-tailed grouse, 74,780; Hungarian partridge, 20,314; and quail, 2,046. The ruffed grouse was again king, representing 50.74 per cent of the total calculated kill of upland game birds.

Estimated kill of upland game mammals for 1953 was as follows:

Gray squirrel, 214,390; fox squirrel, 130,578; cottontail, 133,302; snowshoe hare, 75,591, and jack rabbit, 73,158.

With 1,950 trappers reporting out of a total of 17,141 licensed, the estimated catch of furbearers was 714,733 with value of pelts estimated at $1,521,262.60.

Muskrats topped the furbearers list with 540,425 taken. Others were mink, 55,853; smaller weasel, 33,702; raccoon, 28,445, red fox, 20,174; skunk, 10,909; greater weasel, 8,570; beaver, 6,996; gray fox, 4,790; bobcat 1,969; civet cat, 1,626; badger 861, bear, 299; lynx, 70; and opossum, 26.

A total of 153,638 duck stamps was sold in 1953.

Operation Walleye

Come Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, most of the city's pike fishermen will be en route north and east, with destinations being Springsteel Island, Warroad, Long Point, Morris Point, Wheeler's Point, all on Lake of the Woods; Clementson at Rapid River; Washkish and Shotley brook on Upper Red Lake; and few heading for Cass lake and Winnibigoshish lake.

We made a trip up to Lake of the Woods on Sunday, and we discovered that the lake proper is still "tight" with ice, and unless the weather moderates greatly in the next few days, it is probable that the pike fishing up there will be restricted to the bays and Rainy river. We were told that conditions this year are comparable to the conditions that prevailed in 1950, and in that year the season was hampered by ice and cold weather.

Oscar Peterson, a resort owner at Morris Point, and Roy Cyrus, a commercial minnow dealer, told us that Four Mile bay was open, and that about 100 boats could fish the water around Morris Point, but unless a brisk south winds sets in before Saturday, it's doubtful if any boats will be able to get out into the lake.

Gust Ogren, who has a resort at Wheeler's Point, advises that the Rainy river has been open for some time, and that fishermen will be able to "work" the river all the way out to the blinker on Oak Island.

Judging by the opinions expressed by the city's "experts" we have concluded that the pike fishing at Washkish and Shotley brook, on Upper Red Lake, will be better than the fishing at Lake of the Woods. This was the case in 1950, and it will perhaps be the case again this year. Upper Red Lake has been open for a couple of weeks, and the spawning run at Washkish will be completed this week.

The advance units of the Schuster - Langevin - Carlson "bring-em-back-alive" expedition will be leaving town on Friday, with their objective being Gust Ogren's camp on Rainy river. The party is well-organized, having made preparations for all emergencies, from snake-bite to sea-sickness; but they run the risk of being "ambushed" at the Nite Hawk at Roosevelt. If the party can get to Ogren's, and on the boat, they'll catch fish for Sauger Schuster, Sandpike Langevin, and Burbot Carlson are expert guides and capable hook-and-bobber men. Get the landing net!

Tennis

"Big Time" tennis will make its first appearance in the northwest tonight (Wednesday) when, in the fieldhouse of the North Dakota University, Jack Kramer's professional troupe—Richard Gonzales, Frank Sedgman, Pancho Segura, and Bobby Riggs—play a series of matches.

All of these players, Gonzales, Sedgman, Segura, and Riggs are former Davis Cup performers. Sedgman, the Australian star, is a former British, American, and Australian champion.

The program tonight will start at 8.00 p. m.; and admission prices are very reasonable. Reserved seats on the main floor of the fieldhouse will be $2.00 for adults, and the non-reserved seats, or general admission for adults, will be $1.65. College and senior high school students will be able to purchase non-reserved balcony seats for $1.10; while tickets for junior high school students and grade school students will be 50 cents.

Miscellany

What's this we hear about a local golfer getting phenomenal results from following the instructions given by Ben Hogan in his book, "Power Golf." Fact is, the golfer is reported to have posted a pair of 40's this past week, and collected a bit of the coin of the realm.—And we hear that Red Bergland, recognizing that Stan Larson is one of the city's top-flight golfers, has offered Stan a well-paying job at the creamery. Stan's duties, if he takes the pob, will be to drive holes in cheese.—Coach Quent Jones' track boys did well at the Bison Relays at Fargo on Saturday, picking up 8¾ points. Art Johnson threw the discus 136 feet, 9 inches for a first place in that event; Bob Helgeland had a fourth place in the discus and tied for fifth place in the 180-yard low hurdles; and Even Jones had a fifth in the mile run. Coach Jones will take a squad of about twenty-five to the Beaver Relays at Bemidji on Friday.

NO DAMAGE RESULTS FROM TWO BLAZES THIS WEEK

No damage resulted from two blazes that brought out the local fire department this week. Included were a fire in a rubbish pile in the rear of the Elks building, and a chimney fire at 308 Arnold av. N.

Mines of the Sinclair Coal Co. of Kansas City, Mo., in 1953 produced more than 8½ million tons of bituminous coal by surface methods.

Sportsmen's Club to Offer Host of Prizes in Predator Contest

The Pennington County Sportsmen's club at its May session last Wednesday night approved plans for a predator contest, as outlined by a committee consisting of Don Toomey, chairman; Otto Rupprecht and Jack Houfek.

The contest, which is now in progress and will continue until November 3, will be divided into two events, one for club members over the age of 17, and the other for juniors under 17, who need not be members of the club.

Adults will be given five points credit for each pair of horned owl feet, and one point for a pair of crow's feet. Juniors will receive the same credit, and also will receive one point credit for tails of pocket and striped gophers and ground squirrels.

These evidences of the kill must be turned in at the Sportsmen's Store or Ole's Northern Supply. More than 60 local business firms will donate prizes to be awarded the leading contestants.

Others named to assist the contest committee were Al Christofferson, window display; Bob Carlson and Kenneth Borsheim, assembling prizes; and Huck Olson and Douglas Tegtmeier, publicity.

The membership prize of a .22 riffle supplied by John Anderson and Charles Smith was awarded to Seymour Nelson of rural Thief River Falls. Membership drive awards were won by Jack Mosbrucker, who signed 120 members; E. J. Rustad, 63, and Otto Rupprecht, 31.

Lunch was served by Clyde Owens, M. C. Gulbranson and Chas. Smith.

People Urged to Plan Better Communities

We may want "bigger and better" communities in Minnesota, but a University of Minnesota population authority believes we'll be better off working for "better" ones — because it's going to be hard to get 'em "bigger." The reason — our "people exports" are too heavy.

According to Lowry Nelson, rural sociologist at the University, Minnesota "exports" a large part of her natural yearly population increase to other states. In addition, our farm population loses almost twice its annual yearly gain to cities and small towns. Thus, we're not likely to grow much, population-wise.

Causes, of course, are complex and have to do with other states' reasons for growth — industrialization, milder climate and other attraction.

In a recent 40-page publication, "A Century of Population Growth in Minnesota," Bulletin 423, issued by the University's Agricultural Experiment Station, Nelson, Charles E. Ramsey, assistant professor in sociology and Jacob Toews, research assistant in sociology, take a long look at the state's population possibilities.

Here are some of the things they pointd out:

Our most rapid population growth took place after the Civil War and pouulation has continued to grow, but at a decreasing rate. An exception to the "decrease trend" was the thirties, when the depression apparently held up migration but didn't greatly decrease our birth rate.

Our birth rate is near the national average and our death rate somewhat lower than the average. Migration from farms to towns and cities is seriously upsetting the ratio of the sexes—creating a lack of men in the cities and a big surplus in rural areas. One bit of evidence is the large proportion of single men in rural areas.

Bulletin 423 is free at the county agent's office or by writing the Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1. It contains numerous charts and ten pages of tables showing national origins by counties and population figures for cities and counties.

Its authors believe it will be of real value to community leaders in cities and rural areas.

State Grading in St. Peter Area to Cost $115,000 Mile

Low bids on 16 trunk highway construction projects, totalling $2,589,061, were announced Monday by State Highway Commissioner M. J. Hoffmann. Bids were received on improvements to more than 90 miles of trunk roads, including 67.4 miles of bituminous surfacing, 15.4 miles of grading and 7.7 miles of bituminous base. Included in the grading work is a 9.3 mile section of T. H. 22 in Nicollet county between North Mankato and St. Peter on which the low bid was $1,075,173, or $115,610 per mile for this very heavy grading. The cost for average grading is usually less than $20,000 per mile. Other projects, none in this area, upon which bids were received call for work on two bridges, one cattle pass, traffic signals and a street lighting system.

Grafton, N. D., to Get Radio Station

Announcement was made last week by E. J. McKellar, president of a Moorhead broadcasting company, that his firm, owners of KVOX, Moorhead, had been granted a permit Wednesday morning by the Federal Communications commission to operate a radio station at Grafton, N. D.

The permit allows, after a 30 day interval, construction of a 1,000 watt station operating on a frequency of 1370 kilocycles, Mr. McKellar said. This would give reception in a 125-mile radius during the broadcast hours from 6 a. m. until midnight. No call letters for the contemplated station have been set as yet.

No Mass Trials of Polio Vaccine Set for State in 1954

Results of Inoculations in Other States Will Not Be Available in Time

There will be no mass trials of the new Salk polio vaccine in Minnesota this year, a state department of health official said Friday.

Results from inoculations given to at least 10,000 children in other states will not be known until early June and this will be too late for Minnesota to use the vaccine, said Dr. Dean S. Fleming, chief of disease prevention and control for the department.

Dr. Fleming said that it would take five weeks to give three inoculations to Minnesota youngsters and that, by that time (mid-July), the polio season would be well under way.

"We would not be able to tell whether a youngster developed polio because of the vaccine or from natural causes," Fleming said.

The Minnesota board of health decided earlier in the year not to participate in a $7,500,000 program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to test the vaccine on more than half a million youngsters this spring.

Minnesota health department officials were of the opinion that the vaccine had not been tested on enough human beings and that it should not be used in Minnesota until three inoculations had been given to at least 10,000 persons without harmful effects.

Saturday Is Last Day for Lutheran Clothing Drive

Al Swenson, Co-ordinator of the Lutheran World Relief clothing drive in Minnesota, has announced that Saturday, May 15, will be the last day of the spring appeal. The Lutheran churches of Minnesota are joining once again with others from all over the United States in this effort to help the suffering of the millions over seas without homes or country. The clothing collected in this drive will be sent to the Near East, Free Europe, and Korea.

All types of good, used clothing, with the exception of ladies' hats and high-heeled shoes, should be brough to local churches, where it will be packed and sent on May 15 to Larson Transfer Co. 2010 21st Ave. So., Minneapolis. From here it will be shipped to the main warehouse of the Lutheran World Relief in the East for shipment overseas.

Last years drive netted over 300,000 pounds from the state of Minnesota alone which was one of the highest totals in the nation.

Barbering Runs in Oklee Family

Another member has joined the ranks of the vast Miller dominion of barbers, says the Oklee Herald.

He is Kenny Miller, son of Mr and Mrs. Nap Miller of Oklee who last week returned from Moler Barber College in Minneapolis to begin a 15 months apprenticeship in his father's shop in Oklee.

Kenny has six uncles, two brothers and several other relatives who are barbers.

Extensive Winter Evergreen Injury Reported in State

Dry Soil Together with Cold January and Warm February Are Blamed

An increasing amount of winter injury to evergreens throughout this state is becoming evident in browning and drying of needles as the season advances.

Reports of the extent of the damage have come from L. C. Snyder, head of the horticulture department and David French, assistant professor of plant pathology, University of Minnesota and Walter Trampe, nursery inspector, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Food.

Though some injury may be expected every winter in Minnesota, damage this past winter has been more severe than normal, the specialists say. All varieties of evergreens have been affected, but pines, arbor vitae and low junipers seem to be injured more than spruce. Damage is greatest on the south and west sides of buildings and in exposed sites.

Reasons for the greater injury to evergreens this year include the very dry fall, which may have reduced normal root development and storage of reserve food. However, a more important cause, according to the specialists, was probably the open winter with colder than normal temperatures in January and the very mild February with abundant sunshine. With the ground frozen solid and air temperatures high in February, transpiration exceeded moisture intake with resultant drying and browning of needles.

Extent of recovery should be evident by the middle of June after new growth is started, the specialists point out.

PLANNING SCHOOL EXPANSION

Along with several other expansion problems they are confronted with, local school officials are giving consideration to the possibility of extending the Area Vocational school program, and that is encouraging. For most of our young people the high school is the end of the line as far as their schooling goes. For the many who do not go on to college there is an ever increasing need for training in the practical skills that can be converted into actual earning power.

In this field of vocational education our youngsters have not been afforded equal opportunities with the young people of the large metropolitan areas where there are both public and private trade schools. It is the purpose of the area vocational schools to equalize these opportunities thruout the state, and we have an obligation, as we have an opportunity, to make specialized, practical training available to the area we serve.

In an effort to approach the future needs of our school system in an intelligent way our school officials have arranged for a study which has been made available under the direction of the University of Minnesota. This study is now being made and it should be helpful in planning for the future. We sometimes are too close to our own problems to see them in their proper perspective. Getting the opinions of men unbiased by personal considerations and equipped by experience and training to analyze the needs of our school district will at least provide material for discussion.

MORE MONEY FOR ROADS

President Eisenhower signed into law last week an appropriation bill that will greatly increase the contribution of the federal government for highway construction. These funds will be made available on a matching basis, which means that local units of government, hoping to take advantage of these larger grants, should give consideration now to long range future planning that will make such participation possible.

The bill will make available to Minnesota a total of more than 20 million dollars, of which nearly six millions will be for roads on the federal aid secondary system. This system includes many miles of the most important county roads and will give to the counties that are in a position to match federal funds an opportunity to speed up the improvement of their primary system.

THE ULTIMATE ANSWER

Secretary of agriculture Benson has announced a plan to sell surplus butter to friendly foreign governments at bargain prices and the knowledge that something actually is being done to move this troublesome excess product into world markets is encouraging news to the industry. Frank Stone, president of Land O'Lakes, said this seems to be the best way to dispose of the butter. In Wisconsin, Donald McDowell, director of the department of agriculture, stated that while this was not the ultimate answer, it is a step in the right direction.

Now that this first step is being taken the industry should continue seeking the "ultimate answer" that Mr. McDowell speaks of. That is the important thing. The ultimate answer will be found only in a planned program and a planned program is sorely needed by the industry. We will not just drift into a satisfactory "ultimate answer."

THE SEAWAY VICTORY

By a one-sided vote the House of Representatives approved the St. Lawrence Seaway bill Thursday and so, after decades of congressional debates, a major victory has finally been won by the proponents of this great project. The authorization now secured does not provide for the entire development. It is limited to the first section of the improvement, but with the first section provided for it will now be pretty much routine procedure to secure favorable action on the remainder of the job.

Northern Minnesota will be greatly benefited by this improvement. As a principal port on this great inland sea Duluth already rates high in terms of tonnage as a shipping point. The improved channel will make Duluth a big-tonnage port in international shipping and the city will take on new importance in relation to the vast area to which such a port will bring more favorable transportation facilities.

Thief River Falls is in a position to share in the benefits that will come with increased trade in and out of Duluth. There already is a large volume of traffic through here from the top of North Dakota to the head of the Lakes. As Dakota, with its river power, its lignite and its oil develops industrially that traffic through here should increase steadily.

We now are in a favorable position on the main line of the Soo railroad north and south. With the developments now in the making it is entirely possible that in the foreseeable future we may also be a key point on a busy main line east and west.

We lost this year's pie-counter bet that the ice would be out of the river by April 10th. Now, for another sure thing, for coffee and doughnuts we guess the lilacs will be blooming on schedule by Memorial Day.

We are happy to pass along to the parents of our grandchildren the opinion of one prominent psychiatrist to the effect that juvenile delinquency often can be traced to parents who hesitate to correct their children for fear of causing "serious inhibitions." We'll put our chips on the youngster who has learned to respect authority. Respect does not mean fear.

Here in this great dairy state of Minnesota 58% of the people favor the sale of colored oleo, according to the Minnesota Poll. That is discouraging information for the fellow who thinks in sentimental terms about loyalty to one of the state's great industries. But for the fellow who seeks a practical solution for the problem of selling more dairy products, this is a good thing to know. Regardless of our personal views the problem is not going to be solved by sentimental appeals alone. It is a simple thing to put Alice into Dairyland but we will not find the solution to the dairy problem in Fairyland.

GULLY . . .

By Mrs. Arnold Brevold, Gully

Fire razed the Gully Farmers Co-op Oil Association Garage on Friday evening. The weather was almost perfect for fire fighting, damp and very little wind although it appeared for a time that the whole east side might go, an alarm was sent to the Gonvick fire dept, taking a few minutes, because of "busy" signals on the dial telephone lines and the call having to go thru. Foston and Bagley, but within a few minutes the Gonvick fire dept. was here and just in time for the roof on the shed near by was already in flames, this contained the tire and lubricating oils. The Fosston Fire Dept. arrived minutes later to further help in saving the adjoining buildings. The newly built Post Office and council room building which stands to the south was threatened and anything of importance was moved out this was also true at the Produce Station and the Co-op Store. People living near by especially to the south east kept a constant vigil at their homes because of flying sparks.

The Board of Directors for the Oil Company were holding a meeting in the old post office building across the street and Ole Kvasager manager, who was also at the meeting had checked the heating plant at the garage only minutes before the blaze started, he found this in good order and very little heat there, therefore the blaze could not have started from the furnace, but otherwise the origin is undetermined. When first noticed the fire was near the large overhead door, but because of oils present the fire spread so fast and had such heat, even so Ole Kvasager managed to get in and grab the book of accounts receivable, which was posted up to date until five o'clock that same evening, he also tried to get the cash register drawer out but found he couldn't make it so grabed what currency he could but the entire stock records were lost and those in charge would appreciate anyone having cards or any information on their earnings or stock if they would bring that information in so a new set of stock records can be set up.

The building which was approximately 60x40 was only 16 years old and the fact that it was covered with metal siding kept the flames more in the building, the loss has been estimated a from $35,000 to $50,000. Two oil tank trucks were also lost. A truck has been borrowed from Climax, a small building has been moved to the spot temporarily with a telephone already installed and they are operating thus until further plans are completed.

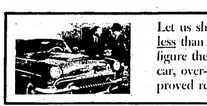
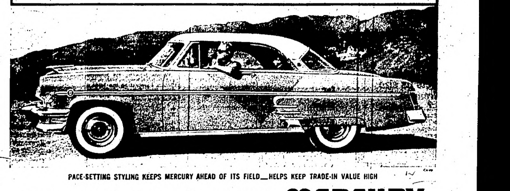
WHY IT MAY COST YOU MORE TO BUY A "LOW-PRICED" CAR



Let us show you how some cars price-tagged less than a Mercury can cost more—when you figure the deal we can make on your present car, over-all operating cost, and Mercury's proved record of high trade-in value.



PACE-SETTING STYLING KEEPS MERCURY AHEAD OF ITS FIELD—HELPS KEEP TRADE-IN VALUE HIGH

This new Mercury proves that extra power doesn't have to cost you extra money—when you buy, or while you drive. A new 161-hp V-8 can give greater economy than previous engines, which were famous for economy. And Mercury's famous stamina has been increased still further by new engine design, and new ball-joint front wheel suspension. This means longer engine life, less tire wear, lower upkeep.

But the biggest bonus of all is Mercury's higher trade-in value. According to authoritative independent surveys of used car prices, Mercury leads all other cars in its field. This indicates that your Mercury will probably return a higher percentage of your original investment at trade-in time. This, plus Mercury's famous record for economy, brings its true cost down in many cases below so-called "lowest-priced" cars.

We'll be glad to give you facts on this amazing economy story, and you'll be pleasantly surprised with the deal we can give you on your present car. So see us—and drive a Mercury.

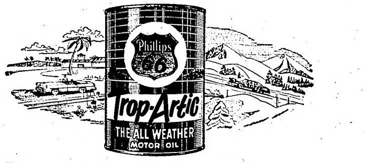
World's First!

Phillips 66 presents the first All-Weather Motor Oil which has proved it meets the most exacting standard ever established for automobile lubrication... Mil-0-2104, Supplement 1 level.



The toughest standard ever set up for automobile lubrication is the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 test. New Trop-Artic is the first all-weather motor oil to meet the requirements of this test. It is an oil which will serve you winter and summer . . . an oil so good it can double the life of an automobile engine!

Compared to ordinary motor oils, new Trop-Artic reduces ring wear 40% or more. It cuts oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons and bearings cleaner . . . longer-lasting. It saves you money by increasing gasoline mileage. This has been demonstrated in tests representing over 150,000 miles of driving.

Trop-Artic is truly an all-weather oil . . . S.A.E. 10W through S.A.E. 30. Therefore it flows instantly for easy starting at sub-zero temperatures, and yet it retains the film strength necessary to prevent engine wear under high temperature driving conditions. It isn't just heavy duty. It's double duty.

Any car, in any climate, at any time of the year will perform better with Phillips 66 Trop-Artic. It is a worthy companion to Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel, the new high performance gasoline recently introduced by Phillips. This year of all years it pays to stop at the station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

Thirteen neighbors brought good luck to Warren Johnson after his serious illness at Round Lake, when they processed 30 acres of oats and a field of flax for him.—Lawrence Koolstra, near Worthington, was ill when the spring work should have been under way, so his neighbors put in 90 acres of small grain for him.—Rudy Wenstrom, St. James, has been hospitalized, so all of his neighbors got a big field all ready for corn planting.—Richard Godejohn, farmer near Fergus Falls, died in February; in April a score of neighbors did Mrs. Godejohn's plowing and seeding.

Report on Viking News of the Week

By Mrs. Orville Peters, Phone 4F30

The Lutheran parsonage in Erskine was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday, April 30, 1954 at 8:30 in the evening when Miss Loretta Aileen Sherva, daughter of Mrs. Clarice Sherva of Newfolden became the bride of H. Gene Halvorson, son of the Rev. P. E. Onstad officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride wore a baby blue suit with navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of red tea roses and white carnations.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Halvorson, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. The bridesmaid wore a grey checked suit and a corsage of red roses and white carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Roy Halvorson home for the close relatives attending. The bride and groom were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

Mrs. Arthur Grorud gave a reading. Barbara Fosberg then presented Miss Samuelson with a gift which was a bedspread from the L.D.R. girls. The group then joined in singing "Happy Future" to Solvig.

The chair in which the honored guest was seated was decorated and above it hung inflated balloons with rice in them. Various games were played after which a luncheon was served. Solvig Samuelson has been the leader of the L.D.R. for a number of years.

A friend of yours dropped in again yesterday

You don't even know his name. But he's a friend of yours just the same—an old friend. He's a fellow who has to have everything exactly right. And that's good, both for you and for us.

Professionally, your friend is a chemist. He's been on the job a good many years. In that time, he has made frequent visits to our bottling plant in one of the fleet of traveling laboratories of The Coca-Cola Company. He provides important assistance to us by bringing us information on the latest refinements in operation and production.

Understand, we believe here at the bottling plant that we continually exercise every precaution to assure you Coca-Cola pure as sunlight, delicious to taste, and of proven quality. But, still, we're glad to have your friend drop in as often as he will. He helps to make our operation more certain.

When the laboratory on wheels rolls up to our plant, things begin to hum. Your friend takes right over.

He checks such things as water supply and water purification; factors of carbonation; temperatures, syrup storage rooms and equipment; syrup handling; the taste and refreshing qualities that must be part of all the materials and ingredients of Coca-Cola.

He makes other checks, too, extensive and thorough. Each one is aimed at preserving the quality you trust—quality recognized for sixty-eight years. The pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coke has become a national custom, inviting people everywhere to enjoy the wholesome goodness of this product.

Well, there's a friend for you. He's the double check, the double assurance that each frosty bottle will bring you the delightful taste of Coca-Cola, the refreshing charm of Coca-Cola, the sparkling purity of Coca-Cola.

Chairmen Named for Crippled Children's Clinic in City May 22

Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen and Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson, both of Thief River Falls are chairman and co-chairman of the local committees in charge of arrangements for the orthopedic field clinic scheduled for Saturday, May, 22, at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. Hours will be 8 a. m. to 2 p. m., according to an anouncement from the Crippled Children Services of the state department of public welfare.

The twelfth of 13 clinics to be conducted by the crippled children services, the Thief River Falls clinic is for children of Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties who have or may be developing crippled disabilities. If it is a child's first visit to an orthopedic clinic, his parents are advised to get a referral from their family physician.

An orthopedic surgeon and a pediatrician will examine the young patients, ranging in age from a few months to 21 years. Advice on job training and education available to persons with physical handicaps is provided by a counsellor from the state division for vocational rehabilitation.

Other agencies cooperating in the program are: Gillette hospital for Crippled Children, state Christmas Seal organization, Minnesota-Dakota Orthopedic society, Northwestern Pediatric society, Minnesota State Medical association and local medical societies.

State to Test Use of Red Stop Signs

Will Use Reflectorized Signs on Certain Routes

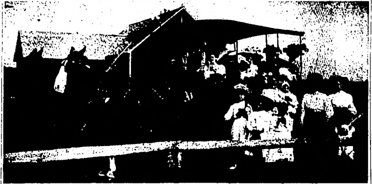
Several heavily traveled highways and road junctions are being selected by the state highway department for experimental tests of the effectiveness of new types of highway signs and traffic control devices this year, as a part of the department's continuing efforts to find improved methods of reducing traffic accidents.

Among the innovations to be tried out by the department on state trunk routes will be utilization of red reflectorized stop signs along certain key routes to be selected by Highway Commissioner M. J. Hoffmann and his engineering staff. Hoffmann also announced that during this experimental period, for evaluating any additional element of traffic protection which the red stop signs might afford, governing bodies of cities and counties which may wish to undertake similar trial programs will be authorized to install the reflectorized red stop signs on test locations, in place of the standard black and yellow "stop" sign which has heretofore been "standard" by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

In authorizing the test of the red stop signs, Minnesota is following an experimental pattern recently adopted in 12 other major states and under study by 15 additional states. The test is to determine principally whether the distinctive red "stop" sign will result in better motorist obedience and subsequent reduction in the number of accidents. Another phase of the program includes the installation of larger reflectorized signs, with larger numerals, at important road junctions junctions and on road junctions and on certain test routes of primary importance.

More and more wise home-owners are stocking their coal bins in the summertime, to take advantage of lower prices and assured supply.

First Lutheran Church Ladies Aid Met In Rocksbury Home



Members of the Ladies Aid of the First Lutheran church, formerly the Augustana Lutheran Church, met occasionally at the homes of their rural members, and this picture was taken on one of these occasions many years ago. This time the meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Erickson in Rocksbury township, parents of Rev. Charles W. Erickson, pastor. The picture was loaned to us by Mrs. Nelson Armstrong of St. Hilaire and in the picture she is the young miss standing closest to the fence. Slightly behind her and to her right is her sister, now Mrs. Axel Carlson of Clearbrook, and immediately back of them is her mother, Mrs. John Fellman, holding her baby son, Carl.

At the extreme right is Mrs. Otto Klingberg. Mr. Klingberg operated a blacksmith shop here. And at the left of the driver is Mrs. Leonard Peterson, wife of the superintendent of the city water and light department. Other old-timers may identify themselves in the picture.

The transportation on this occasion was provided by the Ranum Livery Stable, located in back of where the post office now stands. This snappy 22 passenger motor model was well ventilated and lots of head room for the three-bushel hats.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The "Write" Prescription

Noticed three half-finished letters lying on the counter down at Jones' Drug Store last week. "Writing three at once, Doc?" I asked.

"No," Doc said, "you are—you and the rest of the town. Those are for the boys from our town who are at the National Guard encampment.

"Everyone who comes in adds a line or two, and when a couple of pages are filled, I mail them. That way the boys hear from folks who might not write otherwise. They sure do enjoy it."

From where I sit, little things can add up pretty big. A few short notes make a letter. Boys from our little town help build up a strong National Guard to protect our freedom. Even freedom is made up of a lot of things—living where we like, voting the way we think is right, choosing between coffee, tea, or beer at dinner. And anything that adds up to freedom gets my stamp of approval.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

When Should He Decide?

"Dick is planning to be an electrical engineer," remarked his mother with some pride to a visiting friend. "We helped him decide what kind of work he should enter because it is so important these for children to plan ahead. He's alawys been fascinated with radios and television, and engineering seems just the right thing for him."

"But isn't he a little young to be making such a big decision about his whole future?" asked the friend. "After all, he's only twelve or thirteen, isn't he?"

Just when should a child make a plan for his long-range future? As with so many questions about child rearing, there is no simple answer to this problem, but there are a good many things to bt considered besides the importance of looking ahead and deciding early.

Interest patterns may change greatly during early and middle adolescent years. It does no harm for a youngster to be thinking about a specific field of work at the age of fourteen or so—but it would be most unwise for his parents to be sure that this decision will last, and it would certainly be unwise, too, for them to take this early plan so seriously that if the boy changes his mind, they are disappointed.

Choices are influenced, too, by the fields of work with which the young person is familiar. The early years of adolescence are a good time to help the youngster learn about opportunities and requirements in many different occupations.

It is hard on your adolescent, too, if you assume that naturally he will follow in his father's footsteps. The boy is caught then between his own interests, which may point in quite a different direction, and maintaining family tradition or being loyal to his parents.

Some youngsters will choose early, will stick to their choice. Others will need more time, may do more shifting, and come to a final choice gradually. Here, as in other areas, children are different.

* * *

"Get off from there, Bruce — don't climb on that chair," shouted Mrs. Jackson from the kitchen. But Bruce, an active two and one-half year old, obviously was engrossed in his game. He climbed on the footstool, then onto a dining room chair, and then jumped off. "Mommy, see me jump!" he called. His mother called back, "How many times have I told you not to jump on those chairs. Now get off, this minute!" "No, I can't, cause I'm jumping. I'm a "pair-shoot" man coming out of an airplane."

This negative reply and continued "bad" behavior brought Mrs. Jackson from the kitchen to take over the situation. "Into your room with you, Bruce," she said crossly. "You know better than to jump on the good furniture."

"Won't he ever learn to behave!" thought the young mother as she went back to her work. What she didn't realize, though, was that young Bruce was behaving — like a two and a half year old. He reacted to her negative directions just as most other children would have reacted — with a negative response. How could she have done it directly?"

Instead of just ordering him to stop, she might have said something like this: "Bruce, I know you like to jump, but chairs are to sit on. Lets' make a better place to jump. Here, I'll help you build a good jumping place with your big wooden blocks." Here we have a positive statement, which suggests a positive response. In addition to being positive, the comment also includes redirection — suggesting a better place to carry on the activity, and reinforcement — the mother's willingness to help the child get started in the new activity.

This kind of compromise, which permits the child to continue with his chosen activity but adapts it to the adult view of a desirable situation, is often possible if adults will take that extra minute to consider what is going on and what meaning it has to the child. When something about the child's behavior needs to be changed, a compromise which lets the youngster cooperate is much happier for everyone than a disciplinary battle.

Leroy Anderson Loses Battle With Fire Truck

Leroy Anderson, who had the misfortune of having a double fracture of the Thumb on his right hand, still feels fortunate that it was only a thumb. Anderson, whose main occupation is driving a school owned transportation bus, works part time in the service station of the Johnson Oil Co. On Tuesday, right after lunch, Roy was battling with one of those stubborn truck tires that do not want you to remove them from the rim. Roy tried both pounding and prying without making any gain so he thought of the idea, dangerous as it is, of using air pressure to remove it. It did not move slowly as Roy expected it should, but let go with a bang which hit the ceiling and blew the tire to smithereens. Roy seemed to have a premonition that was playing with danger and was leaning backwards a little when it blew, otherwise he may have been seriously hurt. Roy wears a cast and is unable to do his duties. Ted Kimbrough is substituting as bus driver.

Dear Readers:

Beginning today you will have a new correspondent. I present to you, Mrs. Ed Stennes. To the people of Strandquist she does not need an introduction as she is well known here.

Mrs. Stennes has taken part in and been one of the leaders of the various women's groups in our town ever since they came here to live and has been active in any work she has taken part in, so I believe that she is well qualified to carry on this job with the aid and cooperation of the public.

I have really enjoyed this job and the visits I have made every Monday forenoon, and it is not without regrets that I am turning it over to someone else because, truly speaking from the heart, I have had the best bosses in the whole world. Five editors have had to put up with my news items every week and they have never complained or bawled me out once during these six years.

Growing interest in a school auditorium-gymnasium was evidently brought to the attention of the Board of Education at its last regular meeting, in the form of a petition signed by a large number of citizens requesting that the Board should make plans for construction of a gymn. in addition to the school building. This subject has been brought to the boards attention on several occasions but has been stalled off mainly on account of being watchful of the Tax dollar. This year, however, is the last year a tax levy will be made for the building bonds issued back in the PWA days.

The State's report, after last year's inspection, (which was published) was very complimentary on improvements which have been made in the school, including the general cleaning up of the village hall, but were still very critical in regards to sending physical education classes out of the main school in winter weather, do their exercising, and return to the school for showers.

Building an addition, as requested in the petition will require a lot of planning. Being the only school in the NW part of the state not having a modern gymnasium we have the opportunity of inspecting the neighboring additions and possibly gain by some of their mistakes.

At the annual meeting, May 18th, a vote will be taken as follows: "Shall the Board be authorized to engage an architect to prepare the preliminary plans and estimated cost of constructing a gymnasium?"

This is a vote to get the sentiment of all the people of the district.

The first glance you take at Andrew Boen this week you'd swear he had been in a fist-fight with some one, but after a few words of explanation we understand that one of his pet bulls got pretty rough, leaving him with a large shiner over his right eye. But Andrew doesn't feel a bit sad about it, he says he's never had a black eye before so he's rather proud of it. We can't help but think though that he'd better be very careful, because a gash in place of a shiner wouldn't be so good.

District 56 News

Howdy! It's a long time since you heard from us, so I guess we had better catch up on the news! Since the snow went away we put up our high jump. There's a lot of competition here trying to beat one another. We have been playing ball outside, too. It's a pleasant change from playing jacks indoors. Karen ripped her coat on a nail one day. I guess we girls will have to get busy and play carpenters.

Doings of week at Rosewood

Elaine Hellquist, Rosewood, Minn. Phone 191-J

The 4-H party held on Saturday night was very much enjoyed. The play "Wide Awake Willie" was very good, but the play "Womanless Wedding" was hilarious. Larry Kron with his Celery and radish roses bouquet was a lovely bride with Darrel Swenson as the handsome groom the ushers Leland Copeland and Jerry Sabo lit candles and rolled out the carpet with much dignity. Wayne Dahl and Bobby Anderson as flower girls strewed cabbage leaves. Curtis Bottem and Donovan Ranstrom as bridesmaid wore gowns bore no resemblance. Robert Dahl was the weeping rejected lover and Richard Anderson with tall black hat and Sears Roebuck catalog was the preacher. Two duets by Jeannie Nelson and Ardis Anderson and a song by Alice Mathiason and Dorothy Anderson, with Mother's Day readings by Judy Anderson and Carolyn Copeland completed the program. Selmer Haugen served as auctioneer for the novelties.

Over the last few years the demand growth for products using chemicals supplied by coal has been so great that present coal chemical facilities are inadequate to meet the demand, but the knowledge that coal is one of the most plentiful sources of chemicals has spurred research to find better methods of recovering these valuable chemical derivatives.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Advice for Starters

Arnold Wiebusch, assistant county agent in soil conservation in Goodhue county, has these tips on starting a soil conservation program: "Plan a cropping system that brings a sod crop into each field often enough to protect the soil. Then plan for a livestock program that will utilize the increased grain and forage you raise as soil builders and holders. Grow the right kind of crops for each type of land—level, rolling, or heavily sloping. That's good land use."

• • • • •

Ventilate Your Soil

Last year, many farmers reported "negative" responses to fertilizer. Fertilized plants didn't do much better than untreated plants. But don't confuse fertilizers if they didn't work for you—other soil factors may be involved, says Charles Simkins, Extension soils specialist at the University of Minnesota. "Most of our crops grow best in well-drained and ventilated soils," he says. "Wet, poorly drained soils do not allow much air and oxygen below the first three or four inches. Lack of oxygen suffocates or poisons plant roots. It may be necessary to tile or dig drainage ditches. Deep-rooted legumes, such as alfalfa and sweet clover, often will improve tilth and drainage on poorly ventilated soils."

• • • • •

Speeds up "Slow" Farm

Until 1947, when he "stepped on the gas," as he puts it, Henry Kubat of Owatonna had what he calls a "slow" farm. His land was poorly drained and the soil was wet and cold. As a result, planting had to wait two or three weeks later than his neighbors'. But in 1947, he signed up with the Steele County Soil Conservation District and farm planner Orville Risser showed him how to improve his "slow" land. First, came ditching and tiling for drainage. Then, good rotations and green manure crops. Now Kubat's getting as high as 110 bushels of corn per acre from land that once grew only worthless slough-grass.

Here's a Good One

Learn from the mistakes of others—you won't live long enough to make them all yourself. Applies particularly well to bettering and saving our land and timber resources, doesn't it?

Commercial benzol ultimately may be obtained from coal by hydrogenation, although at present it is achieved from coking coal.

They're always talking about me! They say all sorts of things I can't understand: Isn't she cute? Just a year old. Looks like her mother, doesn't she?

I wish I knew what it all means. But they always smile when they talk about me—so it must be complimentary.

Frankly, I haven't a worry in the world. My Mamma and my Daddy always seem to know what's best for me. I'm sure they want to do everything possible to make mine a wonderful life.

I just hope they realize how important it will be for me to go to Church School. But, of course, being the wonderful parents they are, they'll realize that little souls must grow up just like little bodies. And they'll not only provide for my religious training—they'll set the Christian example that a little "princess" like me simply has to have.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

50 YEARS AGO

Unhappy Summer

The summer of 1903 was not a happy one for Mayor Frank Kratka. While Congress had acted favorably on a bill to open for settlement the Eleven Township area of the Reservation east of Thief River Falls, this bill did not follow strictly the lines of the treaty entered into with the Red Lake Band in 1902 and it therefore required a new treaty. The Indians would not accept the changes. They were especially hostile to the provision that they should donate to the State of Minnesota for schools twenty-two sections of land worth $57,000.

And so Mayor Kratka's second long stay in Washington as a lobbyist proved to be futile and he was subjected to much criticism for having spent the city's money on a hopeless cause. Thruout the summer, however, he and others who had worked with him, continued their efforts to get a new treaty approved. An attempt was made in the closing days of the Minnesota legislature to get the state to relinquish its rights to school lands in the area to be ceded. This, too, apparently failed. There were appeals to President Theodore Roosevelt for more favorable interpretations of the law. Nothing happened.

Bitter Election Contest

In August another city election was approaching and in its issue of the 20th The News indicated how hot had become the argument.

"Thief River Falls will hold a city election this Fall," said the News, "and while this matter has been the subject of considerable talk upon the street, it has not been discussed in the News, but this paper will take part in the coming fall election and will not be afraid to express its views upon all subjects.

"—The members of the present city council all announce that they will not be candidates for re-election, and the reason given is that they do not desire to again hold a public office and be subject to the kicks and flings disposed upon them by a few irresponsible people who have nothing to do but impugn the motives of others. Circumstances however may alter their decision and they may again go before the people seeking vindication.

"This is undoubtedly true of C. L. Dobner, the president of the council, who has been subject to more criticism than any other member of that body, and whose friends insist that he shall again go before the people and prove the fact that he has their confidence.

"—For the office of Mayor F. H. Kratka will probably again be a candidate, and who will make run against him is unknown, but he undoubtedly will have opposition as a result of this contest (a suit to force him to pay back to the city monies advanced for his expenses in Washington) will probably have much to do in influencing Congressman Steenerson in the selection of a postmaster for Thief River Falls."

The arguments in that stormy summer of 1903 were not limited to the failure to get the reservation opened. There were arguments about railroads and railroad right-of-way and other problems incident to the government of a booming, lumberjack town at the turn of the century.

Halvor Is Doing Things

Then came a new ray of hope. In its September 3 issue the News flashed a banner head reading, "HALVOR IS DOING THINGS," and in large type readers were told of a coming special session of Congress. The St. Paul Dispatch was quoted to the effect that Hon. Halvor Steenerson "has drafted a new Red Lake reservation bill, which he will introduce early in December when congress meets, and it is one that will meet with approval of the Indians, congress, the department of the interior as well as the citizens of Thief River Falls and the prospective settlers upon this land."

"Mr. Steenerson has also secured a promise from the secretary of the interior that Major McLaughlin will be sent here to make a new treaty with the Indians," the Dispatch gave assurance.

Progress Reported

On September 10 the News said, "Steenerson is hopeful." The following week it reported, "McLaughlin is coming." Then nothing further until November 5 when a conference between Chief Kedenadin, head chief of the Red Lake band, with a delegation of other Indian notables, had conferred with Steenerson. The prospect became brighter. That same issue stated that Kratka had been reelected Mayor by four votes. (The election was contested and the count reversed).

By November 19 "Halvor's" bill had been introduced. How it was substituted for a Senate bill and passed is told by Dr. William Watts Folwell in his History of Minnesota. Says Dr. Folwell:

Favorable Action At Last

"There was a special session of Congress in the fall of 1903. On November 19 Senator Clapp introduced a bill to provide for the extinguishing the Indian title to a part of the Red Lake reservation. It was, as usual, referred to the committee on Indian affairs. On December 11, in the regular session, Clapp reported the bill without amendment. It came up in ordinary course and was passed without debate or division.

"What there was in that bill that was unsatisfactory to the House committee on Indian affairs is not known, but on February 5, 1904, the committee reported a complete substitute, which was printed in the Congressional Record. It was drawn in such a way as to render further negotiation with the Indians unnecessary.

"Representative Steenerson briefly explained the bill and said that the Indians would get more for their land by the trustee method than the million dollars offered them in 1902. The new bill recited the McLaughlin agreement of 1902 in full and added as an amendment the abortive proposition of 1903, freed from the objectionable items.

"It contained the liberal provision that the sum of $25,000 be allowed the 42 families for their improvements; and for their cost in removing themselves and their dead. As no attorney or friend of the Indians appeared with objections, it may be assumed that it had been informally ascertained that the new bill would be satisfactory to the Indians.

"The act provided that the land should be sold in parcels of 160 acres, not more than one parcel to an individual and for not less than $1 per acre. There was to be little opportunity for gobbling large amounts for speculation."

And so, after several fruitless attempts, involving many negotiations, the opening of the eleven townships for settlement was finally approved.

WOMEN SEEK STYLE FIRST

If you are typical of women who buy men's apparel, you are first attracted to merchandise by new fashion and style ideas. This was determined by a study last year of a cross-section of more than 900 women shoppers in men's stores. Next strongest appeal is brand-name, said the survey. Price ranks third.

The typical female men's wear shopper insists on the "pure," or "100 percent," wool guarantee.

France in 1953 produced just over 60 million net tons of coal, an amount produced by U. S. miners in about two months.

"Best Seller" for 3 good reasons

Buick now outsells all other cars in its price class and above

YOU'VE probably noticed it right in your own neighborhood.

Bright new Buicks appearing here, there, everywhere. And more and more of them in recent weeks.

Know what's happening?

Folks in growing numbers—(and maybe you'll be joining them soon!)—are finding Buick styling, performance and value far too wonderful to pass up.

So Buick is selling at a record pace—outselling all other cars in its price class and above.

Matter of fact, latest figures for the first quarter of 1954 show that, in total national volume, Buick is outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three."

A look and a ride and a peek at the price tag will be all you'll need to know what's back of this best-selling success.

There's styling in Buick that's the greatest beauty advance in years—the very look of tomorrow—and with the spectacular panoramic windshield that's part and parcel of this dream-car look.

There's performance in Buick as never before—with record-high V8 power, with the sensationally smooth whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow,* with the buoyant ride of all-coil-springing, with a new precision of control and handling.

And there's value in Buick that's hard to match—with prices starting near the "low-price three"—prices that buy more Buick beauty and power and thrill and sheer automobile than smart money ever bought before.

How about you?

Are you ready, willing and waiting to be shown that this best seller called Buick is the buy of the year for you, too? Drop in this week, or give us a call, and we'll arrange a demonstration.

Soil Preparation

Your success in growing flowers, vegetables or fruits often depends on sufficient organic matter in the soil. Sources of organic matter include barnyard manure, green manure, leafmold, peat or compost. When materials of this type are incorporated in the soil, it's possible for the soil to hold more moisture and have better aeration. Sandy soils can be held together and heavier soils can be loosened with organic matter.

• • •

When the soil is dry enough in the spring so it can be worked without sticking to your shoes or implements, spade or plow it to a depth of 7-8 inches.

• • •

Before plowing, apply well rotted manure at the rate of 3 or 4 bushels per 100 square feet. Compost or leafmold can be applied at the same rate, but peat should be used 5-6 bushels per 100 square feet. Sheep or poultry manure is often used 1 bushel per 100 square feet.

• • •

Commercial fertilizer supplies nutrients but no organic matter to the soil. Any complete fertilizer may be used at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 square feet. Examples of complete fertilizers are 6-10-4, 8-8-8, 8-10-16 or 5-10-5.

• • •

Organic fertilizers may be plowed or spaded down. Commercial fertilizers are usually raked into the upper two inches of soil after spading is completed. Avoid too much packing of soil in the raking or harrowing process. Keep the seed bed loose and free of lumps for seeding.

• • •

Green manure crops like rye can be sown about September 1 and plowed down the following spring.

June Noted as Dairy Month in Minnesota; To Pick Dairy Princess

Minnesota will join the rest of the nation in saluting her dairy farmers during Dairy Month in June with a series of special events, Myron W. Clark, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture said today.

Purpose of Dairy Month, according to Commissioner Clark, is to "increase consumption of the greatest health-giving foods known to man and to recognize the vital roles played by the 15 million Americans who receive their livelihoods from the dairy industry."

One of the highlights of the states' tribute to the dairy farmer will be the selection of dairy princesses from various communities. Twelve regional winners will be chosen who will be candidates for the state dairy queen's crown.

Regional winners will be decided at contests held in Rochester, Lewisville, Anoka, Morris, Browerville, Little Falls, St. Cloud, Detroit Lakes, New Prague, Cloquet and Thief River Falls. Actual selection of the state's first dairy queen will be made at the Minnesota State Fair.

The princess contest, which will become an annual affair, is sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and is open to any girl who fulfills these requirements: bonafide state resident, between the ages of 16 and 25, single and never been married nor a professional model, available, if selected, to attend various events as the official representative of the state dairy industry.

Contest directors admitted there was one problem that must be solved between now and the queens' coronation: her official name.

Commissioner Clark said he is prepared to present a $100 savings bond to the person who submits what the contest committee considers the best name. Wisconsin calls their queen "Alice in Dairyland," which the commissioner feels is a good one, but he is certain Minnesota can top it.

Entries should be sent to the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, 2239 Carter Avenue, St. Paul with 25 words stating why the sender thinks the name is appropriate for the dairy queen.

Governor C. Elmer Anderson will be the guest of honor at a special Dairy Month kick-off luncheon, given by Twin Cities businessmen on May 27 at the Curtis Hotel. The luncheon will be attended by dairy industry representatives from communities around the state.

Several Minnesota cities are planning Dairy-Day celebrations to be held during June, Clark said. Special features of these festivals include calf shows, parades, addresses by dairy specialists, ice cream-eating tourneys and other events designed to publicize dairy foods.

One of the Millers-Saints night ball games will be named "Dairy Night," with spectators and players both eligible for prizes of butter, cheese, milk and ice cream.

Commissioner Clark said that he is appointing 87 county committees who will assist him in the organizing of Dairy Month programs throughout the state.

Ball Park Lights in Red Lake Falls Ruled Defective

Red Lake Falls' $12,000 ball field lights were unavailable for use last week as a result of an order issued April 14 by Elliott Cleland, state electrical inspector of Brooks.

Cleland ordered the Northern States Power Co to cease delivering power to the park until wiring weaknesses in the system are remedied. The lights were installed in the summer of 1950 by Glader Bros. of Mobridge, S. D. at a contract price of something over $12,000.

Cap and Gown Day Slated at 'U' of M.

Honors Convocation Is to Be Thursday Morning

Approximately 2,560 students graduating from the University of Minnesota this June will put on their academic costumes for the first time Thursday, May 13, to take part in traditional Cap and Gown Day ceremonies.

Main feature of the day will be the annual honors convocation at 11:30 a. m. in Northrop Memorial auditorium with University President J. L. Morill recognizing honor students. The program will begin soon after 11 a. m. when senior students will join the faculty in an academic procession up the mall from Coffman Memorial Union to the auditorium.

From special seats, members of the class of 1904 will "review" the seniors as they march by.

Thomas A. H. Teeter, dean of the University Summer Session, will deliver the main address at the convocation. His talk is entitled "The Saga of the Summer Session." Teeter will retire in June after 32 years on the faculty.

Liberal Group in Drive to Control 1955 Legislature

The Liberal Legislators Campaign Committee, composed of the 47 liberals who caucused together at the 1953 legislative session, perfected their organization last week naming their officers.

Rep. Henry Appledorn of Pipestone was named chairman, and Reps. Lawrence Yetka, Cloquet; Frank Gallagher, Savage; and Thomas Letnes, Nielsville, were elected vice-chairmen.

Addition of these names to those of Rep. D. D. Wozniak, St. Paul, campaign secretary; Rep. Karl Grittner, St. Paul, recording secretary, and Rep. Walter Day of Bagley, treasurer, completed the committee's organization.

The committee has been active since the first of the year planning strategy for the 1954 campaign. A similar Republican legislative committee has been formed, each determined to win control of the 1955 legislative session.

"BENCH-MARKS" OF MINNESOTA GROWTH

Percentagewise Minnesota's greatest population growth came in the decade between 1860 and 1870, 155.6%; urban gain was 336.1%, rural gain 136.8%. In no other decade has the state gained as much as 100% total, though the urban population increased 110.2% between 1870 and 1880 and a fabulous 197.8% between 1880 and 1890; rural gains during those periods were 71.3% and 37.2%. In no decade has the state lost population, though from '20 to '30 the gain was only 7.4%, from '30 to '40 8.9%, from '40 to '50 6.8%. Between 1920 and 1930 rural population declined 2.2% against a 19.6% urban increase, and from '40 to '50 rural population declined 1.9% against an urban increase of 15.6%. The percentage of native born is steadily increasing.

In 1953, imported heavy residual fuel oil was equivalent to an estimated 33 million tons of coal, and it is the importation of this residual from foreign refineries that the coal industry, the railroads and others are requesting Congress to limit.

Statewide Group Seeks Adoption of Amendment No. 2

Measure Is Designed to Remove Double Liability from Bank Stockholders

Organization of a statewide committee to seek approval of constitutional amendment No. 2 at the November general election was announced today.

K. O. Sattre, president of the Blue Earth State Bank, Blue Earth, is general chairman of the group, the Committee for Amendment N. 2. He is a former president of the Minnesota Bankers' Association and a former state banking commissioner.

Placed on the ballot by the 1953 Legislature, Amendment No. 2 would authorize the Legislature to remove a double liability imposed on stockholders of the state banks of Minnesota.

Minnesota and Arizona are the only states with the double liability under which a stockholder is liable for his shares and also liable to the bank's creditors for an equal amount. Double liability for national bank stockholders was abolished in 1937.

Sponsors of the amendment assert the double liability is a threat to the dual system of state and national banks, complicates banking procedures for the public and hampers extension of needed banking services to additional communities.

Frank H. Delaney, St. Paul, is chairman of the group's executive committee. A member is R. C. Johnson, Stephen.

The production force in bituminous coal mining in the U. S. dropped about 35,000 men in 1953 to an estimated 300,000 reflecting greater output per man through mechanization as well as a decrease in total annual production.

Fertile, Minn. Man Author of Novel Published in N. Y.

Norwegian-born Einar Rognebakke, a carpenter and cabinet maker who resides in Fertile, Minn., has turned author in his middle years. Publication of his novel, "Nature on the Road," was announced last week by Vantage Press in New York.

Rognebakke has told the dramatic story of a widow with three small children who is determined that they will never suffer—the deprivations and frustrations that had been her own lot. To achieve this end, she scrimps and saves, turns ruthless in business dealings. Ida Murshelm, the woman of the story, repels her friends and creates enemies through her agressiveness and savage drive.

Ida's unending bid for material gain halts suddenly when her daughter is brutally killed.

Government Bins to be Erected on 3 Sites in County

75 Grain Tanks will be Located in City and 21 in St. Hilaire

Three sites have been selected for the location of 96 government grain bins to be erected in Pennington county, it was announced this week by Pat Culkins, office manager of the Pennington County ASC committee. On the Wedul property east of the city and north of highway 59 there will be 30 wood and 45 steel bins providing a total capacity of 430,000 bushels. The other 21 bins will be on Great Northern property north of the elevator at St. Hilaire and they will have a capacity of 105,000 bushels.

The contract for the erection of the wood bins has been awarded to the Timmerman Lumber and Manufacturing Company of Hibbing, Minnesota. The steel bins will be erected by the Henry Carlson construction Company of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Erection of the bins is expected to start within the next few days, and it is anticipated that they will be completed about June 15th.

CCC loan and purchase agreement grain now stored on farms throughout the county will be delivered to these bin sites, and delivery of all farm-stored grain is expected to be completed before the beginning of the 1954 harvesting operations.

The erection of these storage sites became necessary after it was evident that warehouse storage space was not available. The ASC office will not be in a position to issue delivery instructions to any producer prior to the time of the completion of the bin sites, Mr. Culkins stated.

5th N. W. Dairy Day Is Set for Tuesday June 8

Upwards of 300 Dairy Animals Expected to Be on Display in This City

The Northwest Dairy Improvement association has announced that the fifth anniversary of Northwest Dairy Day will be held in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 8.

In the four years of Northwest Dairy Day's existence, it has grown to be the largest dairy show in Minnesota, with some classes of dairy calves exceeding those of the state fair. Boys and girls from ten Northwestern Counties of Minnesota each year groom their best dairy animal for competition in this prize showing. The 1953 show had 254 entries and this year's fifth anniversary Dairy Day's entries expect to hit the 300 mark.

Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, and the board of directors have arranged a special program for the fifth Dairy Day with valuable prizes to every boy or girl who has an animal entered in the show. Their prizes now total about $3,000, which includes a purebred calf to be presented to last year's grade grand champion winner.

The winner of the purebred champion award will receive an all-expense trip to the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa. The other contestants will receive show halters, jackets, dairy scales, grooming kits, and dairy record kits, depending on the number of years they have entered animals in the show.

Each year a Dairy Day Princess Contest is held to select some young lady to represent Northwest Dairy Day in functions throughout the area. In addition, this year's Dairy Day Princess will compete in a state contest for the title of Minnesota Dairy Princess and represent the Minnesota dairy industry in functions all over the country.

County Agents in the ten Northern Counties are now passing out entry blanks and information. Any 4-H or FFA boy or girl who would like to enter this year's show should contact their county agent in any of these counties: Norman, Mahnomen, Clearwater, Polk, Roseau, Pennington, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake and Lake of the Woods.

A flower border will add color to the outdoor living room.

* * *

The flower beds should be located where they will get at least six hours of full sunlight daily. A well sheltered spot facing a southerly, southeasterly or southwesterly direction is preferable.

* * *

A background is essential for effective display of a flower garden. The green background which the shrubbery border provides is ideal. Walls, fences, hedges and buildings are also good as a background. The flower border will be more attractive if it ties the shrubbery border and the lawn together.

* * *

If the shrubbery border is composed of small to medium shrubs, the flower border should be at least 4 feet from the shrubbery. If the shrubs are medium to large, it would be better to have 10 to 20 feet between shrubbery and flowers.

* * *

The bed should be at least one foot wider than the tallest growing plant, if the height is figured at its maturity. The bed should be at least 5 feet wide, but not over 12 feet. The amount of spare time you expect to have for gardening will tell you how large it will be practical to make the bed.

* * *

A rich, friable, deep soil worked to a depth of about 2 feet or more will give the best results. Good drainage is a necessity, but necessary moisture should be held tenaciously by the soil.

* * *

Make your plans on paper before you plant so you can get the best combination of colors and textures, as well as continuous bloom. Frequently gardeners are dissatisfied with the results when they have not followed a plan.

Still Life View on Main Avenue Many Long Years Ago

Here is a picture from the Borry collection with the Borry studio in the background to prove it was taken on Main Avenue in front of where the Prior Electric now is located. And the shadow indicates that it was getting close to lunch time with no lunch in prospect for either Dobbin or Mr. Ox. But by speeding along they probably will get home in time for supper.

Masons to Vote on Purchase of Mercy Hospital Property

The board of trustees of the Thief River Falls lodge of Masons has purchased an option on the Mercy hospital property and the question of whether or not this should be acquired and rebuilt as a temple for Masons of this community will be decided at a meeting of the Lodge Thursday night. The trustees acted on the recommendation of the building committee and acquired an option from the Northwestern Hospital board at a purchase price of $13,500.

Judge Paul Lundgren and members of the Trustees appeared before the Council at their regular meeting last night in support of their application for permission to remodel the building if the option is exercised. The permit was granted.

Use Tree Planting Machine at Oen's

The Henry Oen farm 2 miles south of town was the site of the first tree planting demonstration conducted with the recently purchased tree planter, reports County Agent Penning. The Northern State and Union State banks purchased this machine to be used by the farmers in the county. Interested farmers wishing to use the tree planter should contact the Soil Conservation Service of the County Agent, as they are responsible for the operation of the machine.

On the Henry Oen farm the tree planter was used to plant a farm shelter belt. Mr. Oen and sons made arrangements for delivery of approximately 900 trees, a mixture of evergreens and hardwoods, from the Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service. The land, to be used for the shelter belt was summer fallowed to kill the weeds, prepare the soil, and facilitate the use of the tree planter.

Don Lawrence, Farm Planner from the Soil Conservation Service, mentioned that the tree planter was a real labor saver. With this machine it is possible to plant 500 trees per hour whereas, it is a full days job for one man to plant 500 trees by hand.

In 1953, the nation's 7,000 bituminous coal mines produced 453 million tons of coal.

Of all U. S. demands for competing fuels and power, 42% are met by coal.

Rotarians Sing Norsk and Visit Fogger Factory

Rotarians sang Norwegian songs at their meeting Monday, Syttende Mai, directed by Robert Lund and to the accompaniment of Lloyd Bennes on the piano and Justus Larson stroking a violin. Mr. Larson was especially impressive in a solo interpretation of Ole Bull, playing with equal facility in both Norwegian and English.

A discussion on who should build the float to be entered in the 50th anniversary parade next month was concluded when Frank Tunberg volunteered to take the assignment. All other applicants withdrew.

William Kvalsten, president of the D & P Manufacturing Company, spoke briefly on the progress his company is making in the manufacture and sale of a fogging attachment that may be applied to power lawn mowers and other combustion engines. Following the meeting the members visited the factory on Third Street at Knight and saw the appliances being manufactured and packaged for shipment.

Argyle Takes Opener with Thieves Sunday

Held to Four Hits, Locals Lose Cold Weather Game 11 to 6

The defending Red River Valley champions, the Thieves, dropped their season-opening game on Sunday afternoon when, in a chilled and wind-swept game played on the Fair Grounds diamond, they lost a 11 to 6 decision to Argyle, being held to but four hits by right-handers Bill Beck and Jerry Labine. The locals will continue playing in their "home" park this week, meeting Viking here on Sunday afternoon, with game-time at 2:30 p. m. Viking defeated the Crookston Pirates, 10 to 6, at Crookston on Sunday.

The Thieves, on a pair of errors, opened the game's scoring on Sunday when Al Williamson sprinted across with a run in the 1st inning. Argyle evened the score in 2nd inning when Louie Erickson, on first base on a walk, scored when Ivan Lindstrom tripled off Jerry Steven's glove in left field.

Two hits, a sacrifice and an error gave Argyle a pair of runs in the 4th frame; and three hits, including a double by Beck and triple by Howard Hemstad, and a Thieves' error, sent three Argyle runners across the plate in the 5th inning, giving the visitors a 6 to 1 lead.

Three Argyle errors, a hit batsman, and a ground single by Swede Lund drove in three runs for the Thieves in the 7th inning. In the 8th inning, trailing by a 6 to 4 score, Jerry Wagner and Bob Helgeland were given walks. Labine replaced Beck on the mound for Argyle and he was greeted by a single by Al Williamson, scoring Wagner, with Helgeland stopping at third base and Williamson advancing to second on the throw to the plate. Sid Vraa was given a walk to load the bases with none away. Joey Poole sent a line drive to centerfielder Gordy Olson, and Helgeland, attempting to score from third, was nipped at the plate, Olson to Beck to Erickson. Gene Leslie grounded out, pitcher to first base, ending the Thieves' rally.

Argyle piled up some "insurance" runs in the top of the 9th, clubbing Swede Lund's offerings for two singles and two doubles, which, with a pair of walks, accounted for five runs. The Thieves added a run to their total in the last of the 9th when Lund opened with a double and came around to score on a pair of infield grounders.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

The continuing Army-McCarthy controversy has served to distract political interest from most other issues, and politics—like most other aspects of government — are marking time while the hearings grind on.

Politicians are beginning to speculate as to whether the controversy will have a strong effect on this years' election trend, and as of now there is no clear-cut answer to their speculations.

It is noteworthy in this connection that both of the state's Senators have not elected to become directly involved in the controversy, although it would be easy enough for one or both of them to move headlong into the melee.

Thye Issued Warning

Way back in June of 1950 Senator Edward J. Thye joined a group of his Republican colleagues in the Senate in issuing a "declaration of conscience" which condemned Senator McCarthy's methods of investigating charges of Communist infiltration in the government.

Thye took occasion recently to state that he believed his signing of the 1950 declaration showed sound judgment on his part. Thye has in this way put himself on record against McCarthy's excesses, and this would strongly indicate that, in any final showdown between McCarthy and the Eisenhower administration, Thye will be on the President's side.

Humphrey on Committee

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey has also been careful not to move precipitously on the McCarthy matter. He has deplored the controversy as "a spectacle unworthy of the high purposes and great responsibility of the Congress." In his recent Newsletter, he said, "It represents the culmination of the abuse of irresponsible investigating tactics . . . Distracted and dazzled by this political extravaganza, the American people, yes, the Congress itself, are failing to face up to the great issues that beseige us at home and abroad."

Both Voted for Funds

Minnesotans strongly critical of McCarthy have complained of the action taken by Thye and Humphrey in voting for the Senate appropriation to continue the McCarthy investigations. Humphrey last week explained that this action had nothing to do with the Senators' feeling about McCarthys' activity as an investigator.

The sub committee, he pointed out, has many other activities which must be supported, and that the continuing investigations in fields other than subversion save the federal government many millions of dollars each year.

Won't Campaign Here

Senator McCarthy is not likely to come into Minnesota during this year's campaign, at least if he does it will not be at the official invitation of the state GOP. Even prior to the opening of the hearings state Republican leaders had indicated that they were not eager to have the Wisconsin Senator campaign here.

But there are no doubt additional chapters to be written in this controversy, and the final echoes are not likely to be heard for many weeks or months, and McCarthyism in one form or another is almost certain to appear in the campaign.

Symington Scheduled

Because of his membership on the sub-committee hearing the controversy, Senator Stuart Symington's appearance at the Jefferson-Jackson day dinner in St. Paul on June 5 is likely to stir a good deal of interest. He is scheduled as the principal speaker for the event, which is customarily a DFL Party clambake, and, in the election year, serves to kickoff the Party's campaign.

Pioneeer Days in This Area

By Oldtimer

The early settlers did not have access to a dentist so when the teeth ached various remedies were used to relieve the pain. One of the neighbors bought a forceps and set himself up in the tooth pulling business. He would walk through the community looking for customers. I had a great fear of him, although he was a good man, and whenever I saw him coming I headed for the brush. I therefore missed the experience of having my teeth yanked out that way.

Another practice quite common among the pioneer mothers was to bleed the patient to relieve aches and pains. A special, device, spring operated, was used and it would pierce the skin in several places at one time. It seems incredible that this operation was performed time and again without infection setting in. In the Scandinavian language this operation was known as "koppa".

Spring time was also fishing season for the settlers. They would take turns and two or three would go each time travelling through swamps and brush to Thief River near the Skomedahl homestead. I remember once when my father was on a fishing trip. My mother was milking the cows in the evening and a small brother and I were left in the house. We were looking out of the north window when a black bear showed up a few yards from the house. He was eating the green rye and continued on his way but there were two scared boys. The fish seemed to be plentiful and the fishermen always came back with a good catch. They were divided among the neighbors so they all feasted and the next week another fishing party would make the trip.

It is time that we make another trip to town because the Arbuckle's coffee bag is about empty and the supply of Old Tom is also low. This time we have to walk because the teams are busy in the fields. A crock of butter in one end of a grain sack and eggs in a pail in the other end to balance the load. The sack was slung over the shoulder and we wade through water and mud.

Arriving in town we find that the price of eggs is five cents per dozen and the butter nine cents per pound. We trade the butter and eggs for groceries at the Bothum Brothers store on Main Avenue and if my memory is right it is where the Johnson Grocery now is located. We go to the John Aos store for dry goods and to the Charley Evenson hardware for necessary items of hardware including the mail. the sack is lighter going home.

During the busy season this was a usual trip to town by the Rosewood neighbor boys.

You can increase the amount of milk per family uses by adding milk to well liked foods. Skim milk powder may be added to meat loaf, hot dishes and breads, thus increasing both the food value and the flavor. By using foods that already require milk, such as creamed foods, you can add even more milk to your families diet.

Here is a recipe for "Scalloped Potatoes" cooked in the pressure sauce pan. We used this recipe in the Pressure Saucepan lessons last fall, and it is very popular with Pennington county homemakers.

Scalloped Potatoes

(Pressure Saucepan* Method)

Two quarts potatoes, pared and sliced thin; 3 cups milk; 2 tsp. salt; pepper and butter to taste; cheese or crumb topping if desired. Bring milk to boiling in pressure saucepan. Put in potatoes, stir until boiling. Cover cooker. Exhaust cooker and bring to 5-lb. pressure. Remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes without opening. Water cool to reduce remaining pressure. Open cooker, add seasoning and stir gently. Transfer to baking dish to brown. The potatoes will be done when removed from cooker, but most people like them browned, finishing in the oven for as long a time as desired or convenient is recommended. Russet potatoes hold their shape well. If other varieties are used, time and amount of milk may need to be adjusted. Salt is added last to reduce tendency to curdle. The amount of milk may be decreased to 2½ cups for a little thicker sauce.

Tree Planting Machine Goes Into Action on Oen Farm

A tree planting appliance donated to the farmers of this community by the Northern State and Union State banks of this city, went into action on the Henry Oen farm south of the city last week. George Werstlein and Elmer Bratsch, representing the banks, were on hand to see the machine in operation and Don Lawrence of the Soil Conservation Service is in the planter's seat with Bill Penning, county agent, taking a lesson. Harry Oen and son Gary are responsible for the rows being straight. With the aid of the machine more trees can be planted in an hour than one man could plant in an entire day the operators and the spectators agreed. The machine is available upon application at the office of either the county agent or the soil conservation service.

Top-Placers

John Brill, Lakefield farmer and widely known conservationist, was honored recently at the Northwest Sportsman's Show as 1954's Minnesota Master Farmer-Conservationist. Four district toppers also were honored in local celebrations—Andrew Andersen, St. Vincent, Kittson county, northwest district, William Stevermer, Easton, Fairbault county, southeast; George Hofelman, Luverne, Rock county, southwest; and Reuben Kuusenen, Hibbing, West St. Lewis county, northeast.

Land-Saving Leader

The owner of the farm on which "Plowville '54" will be staged next September 17-18 has given the event a good, strong operating base. The owner's name is Walter Cyrlacks and his 240-acre farm near Lake Benton has many operating conservation practices. They include a six-year crop rotation, contouring, terraces, waterways, rotation hog pastures—all aided by a wise fertility program.

District Hits High Gear

"Plenty busy" is what farm planner Bob Feldt of Redwood Falls will be as the Redwood County Soil Conservation District puts its show on the road. Coming up is 500 acres of contouring on 12 farms. Although Redwood county is mostly level, there's plenty of rolling land along the rivers, subject to erosion, reports County Agent J. L. Swedberg.

Also on Feldt's calendar are plans for 12 farmers who will seed down 20 acres in grassed waterways. Far fewer wet spots, too, after Feldt's checklist is all crossed out—plans call for about 100,000 feet of tile and 10 miles of open drainage. And 20,000 trees are ordered for planting. Sounds like an ambitious program—a real benefit to Redwood county.

Jonesmen Favored to Win District; Came in Second at Bemidji

Coach Quentin Jones' Prowler track team will be favored to make a successful defense of their district title on Saturday when, in the Memorial Stadium at Grand Forks, they participate in the 31st district track and field tournament. Last year the locals surprised East Grand Forks to edge out the Green Wave, 53½ points to 52½ points, with a fourth place by Frank Mead in the broad jump, the final event of the meet, providing the winning points.

Participating in the 12th annual Beaver Relays at Bemidji on Saturday, the Prowlers scored a total of 36½ points to gain the runner-up honors to the Bemidji Lumberjacks, who won team honors with 47½ points. The Relays, which were handicapped by unfavorable weather conditions, found two records being broken. The Prowlers' Art Johnson, with a toss of 139 feet, 3½ inches, set a new mark in the discus throw; and Bagley's Jordan, running the mile in 4:29.1 bettered the record established last year by Cass Lake's Roger Harper.

Following Bemidji and Thief River Falls in the point scoring were: Park Rapids, 15; Mahnomen, 12½; Wadena, 12; East Grand Forks, 9½; Roseau, 9; Bagley, 9; Crookston, 9; Warren, 5; Frazee, 5; Barnesville, 4; Cass Lake, 3; Coleraine, 2; and Fertile, 1.

Prowler point-winners in addition to Art Johnson, who also won a 4th place in the shot put, were Bob Helgeland with a 3rd in the low hurdles and a 4th in the discus; Dick Odegaard with a tie for 3rd place in the high jump; Grant Gulseth with a 3rd in the discus; Evan Jones with a 2nd place in the mile run, and Merril with a 5th in the mile; Pete Froehle with a 3rd place in the shot put; Lyle Guttu with a 4th in the pole vault; and the Prowler relay teams, which scored a 3rd in the half-mile relay, a 2nd in the mile relay, and a 3rd in the sprint medley relay.

Red River Valley Baseball League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Alvarado	1	0	1.000
Viking	1	0	1.000
Argyle	1	0	1.000
Thief River Falls	0	1	.000
Crookston	0	1	.000
Red Lake Falls	0	1	.000

Results of Sunday's games:
Argyle, 11, at T. R. Falls, 6.
Red Lake Falls 8, at Alvarado, 13.
Viking, 10, at Crookston 6.

Schedule, Sunday, May 23rd
Viking at Thief River Falls
Alvarado at Argyle
Crookston at Red Lake Falls

It was chilled opening day for the Red River Valley baseball league on Sunday, and all three of the games were marred by high scores and erratic defensive play. Gayle LaFond's Argyle team, with pitchers Bill Beck and Jerry Labine scattering four hits, defeated the league champion Thief River Falls Thieves, 11 to 6, at Thief River Falls. Charley Picken's Alvarado Farmers, with a big 8th inning, defeated Bob Poirer's Red Lake Falls Lakers, 13 to 8 at Alvarado; and the Viking Oilers surprised Bun Holz' Crookston Pirates by scoring a 10 to 6 win over the Pirates at Crookston.

Sunday's schedule will be featured by the game at Argyle, with Alvarado meeting Argyle in a contest between a pair of undefeated clubs, and the winner will continue to perch on the top rung in the league standings. Another important tilt on Sunday's schedule will find Viking playing the Thieves at Thief River Falls. Last year, in a game played here, the two teams battled through eighteen innings before Viking edged out a 2 to 1 triumph. Viking, by winning Sunday's game, will continue to share the league lead.

The final game on Sunday's bill will find the Crookston Pirates meeting the Lakers at Red Lake Falls, with both teams seeking their first victory.

Many Pay Fines for Fast Driving

Many speeders paid fines in municipal court here during the past week. Judge H. O. Chommie charged $10.00 and costs for 65 miles at night and higher amounts for higher speeds.

Paying $10 and costs were Robert Sylvester of rural route 5; Valair D. Carpenter of rural route 1, and Leonard Stalbock of Stephen. Others fined for speeding were Robert Mauer, Crookston, $25.00; Bobbie Filipi of Warren, $15.00; Virgil Varil of Crookston, $25.00; Clifton Casavan of Red Lake Falls, $15.00 and Robert Casavan of Red Lake Falls, $15.00.

Loren Voldness, arrested by city police, was found guilty on a charge of careless driving Thursday after pleading not guilty and was fined $25.00 and costs. Ray Dokken of Grand Forks was fined $10.00 and costs for failing to heed a school bus stop signal.

Judge H. O. Chommie cautions drivers receiving overparking tickets to appear as directed in order to avoid an additional penalty. For inexcusable failure to appear promptly an additional fine of $5.00 is being assessed he says.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It Was Lousy; It Was Terrific

"It was lousy" was the comment of those of us who opened the pike fishing season on Lake of the Woods on Saturday and Sunday; "it was terrific" was the comment of those fortunate and wise anglers that were at Waskish for the season opening. Except for a couple of instances, such as Orvis Olen's fine catch of walleyes, ranging from three to eight pounds, made at the junction of the Winter Road and Rainy rivers; and Oscar Ellingson and the Nelson brothers near-limit catch of walleyes at Wabanica; Morrie Howick's catch of a 9½ pound walleye at Wheeler's Point; and Engval Lund, Jerry Wirt, and Ken Hanson, catching fifteen walleyes at the Morris Point gap after fishing from seven in the morning to seven in the evening on Saturday, the fishing at Lake of the Woods produced more "blanks" than fish. That "natives" told us that the fishing up there will get better in the next ten days. That should be true, for it's doubtful if it could get worse.

But while the Lake of the Woods anglers were grumbling and grousing about the weather, the wind, and the fish; the fishermen at Waskish were enjoying a "bingo" opening. It is reported that on Saturday afternoon the anglers had to hide behind trees while baiting their hooks, for so avid were the pike. Limit catches of walleyes in an hour or less were common-place. The reports from Shotley brook were as extravagant as those from Waskish.

By the way, we have to report that Bud Sauger Schuster caught a 4½-pound walleye at Wheeler's Point, and that fish won first, big fish, and most fish honors for his party. The boys claim that it was unfortunate that Schuster should have caught that fish, for it's a walleye that will grow and grow and grow. Latest reports are that the pike was a five-pounder by Sunday night, and now it's a six-pound walleye. Before the season is over that fish will be in the eight-pound class.

The Lake Trout anglers have been doing all right. Elner Swanson and Lou Hetland returned on Sunday from Crow lake, and they reported that the trout were "up" and that it was quite simple to catch their limit. The lake had "gone out" on Friday, so Elner and Lou were there at the right time, just as the ice breaks up. Tommy Fuller, Wendy Olson, Leo Travnicek, and their party left for Crow on Saturday, and we'll wager that they will come back with trout, even if Leo has to catch them all.

The District's "Top" Ball Game

On Thursday afternoon, with game-time at 4:15 p. m., high school baseball fans will be treated to the best in district baseball when the Alvarado team plays the Prowlers on the Fair Grounds diamond. Last Saturday afternoon Alvarado defeated the Prowlers, 8 to 2, at Alvarado, and the locals will be anxious to avenge that defeat tomorrow afternoon. Incidentally, the Prowlers will be handled by Swede Lund tomorrow, for coach Ralph Skjod and Joe Mrkonich will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis where they will be in attendance at the University of Minnesota football clinic on Friday and Saturday.

Tomorrow's game should be a duel between a pair of the district's top-flight hurlers, with Sid Vraa meeting Alvarado's Dwayne Ekman. Both boys, righthanders, are "power" pitchers, having better speed than average.

It's a Dangerous Sport

We didn't know that there were injury hazards to golf, but we noticed that Jimmy Anderson was wearing a bandage on his left thumb. When asked for an explanation, Jimmy replied he had been out golfing with Phil LeGault and when he, Jimmy, attempted blast out a long drive he dug his club into the ground, spraining his left wrist.

Miscellany

The incredible Penticton V's after trailing three games to one, came back to win Canada's Allan Cup, defeating the Sudbury Wolves, 3 to 2, on Saturday night. The win gave the come-back V's the senior hockey championship of Canada by a four games to three, with one game tied, margin. The Pentictons are the team that eliminated the Winnipeg Maroons in the semi-finals.—Billy Bye, former Prowler and Minnesota football star, has signed a contract to play with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers again this season. Bill was with the Bombers last season, but after performing brilliantly in one game he was side-lined for the year by severe leg injury.—Harry Bud Grant, who played at end for Winnipeg last year has decided to return to the National Football League, having signed a contract with the Green Bay Packers.

TURN TO PAGE 5 FOR ADDITIONAL SPORTS

Baseball Prowlers Win One, Drop Three

Coach Ralph Skjod's Prowlers will attempt to get back into the winning column on Thursday afternoon when, in a game slated for 5:15 p. m. at the Fair Grounds, the locals meet Charley Picken's Alvarado team in an important 31st district baseball game. The Prowlers trounced the Crookston Pirates, 24 to 1, in a game played here last Thursday afternoon, but since that game, playing three games "on the road", the blue and gold dropped three decisions.

Playing at Alvarado Saturday afternoon, the Prowlers, exhibiting some lax defensive work, lost to Alvarado, 8 to 2.

Coach Skjod's squad engaged in a double-header on Monday, playing the defending regional champions, Cass Lake, at Cass Lake in the afternoon game, and meeting coach Horace May's Bemidji Lumberjacks at Bemidji in an evening contest. Cass Lake, behind the four-hit pitching of righthander Ron Gangelhoff, scored a 4 to 1 win; and the Lumberjacks, after spotting the Prowlers a 2 to 0 lead in the first two innings, rallied to edge out the locals, 5 to 4. The Prowlers had an opportunity to "break up" the game in the 6th frame when they loaded the bases with two men out and Jack Hoppe at the plate, but the southpaw slugger lofted to the second baseman.

Following the game here against Alvarado on Thursday afternoon, the Prowlers will play the Crookston Pirates at Crookston on Monday night, May 24th; and on Wednesday night, May 26th, the locals will play Red Lake Falls in a night game at Red Lake Falls. The 31st district tournament is scheduled for Red Lake Falls on May 29th, 31st, and June 1st.

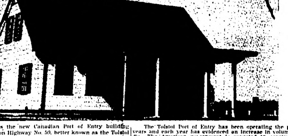
New Canadian Customs office on Highway 59 at Tolstoi Opened



Pictured here is the new Canadian Port of Entry building north of Lancaster on Highway No. 59, better known as the Tolstoi Port of Entry. The new $30,000 building was officially opened on April 1st. The Custom and Immigration personnel have their offices here and living quarters are provided upstairs. The present Custom agent is Lloyd Foy who has received the permanent appointment.

The new building is modern in design and practical in every detail. The interior is well designed for the purpose intended. The Canadian government is building a $15,000 residence near this new port building.

The Tolstoi Port of Entry has been operating the past three years and each year has evidenced an increase in volume of traffic. The American government is expected to construct a new building on this side of the line in a matter of a few years.

The State of Minnesota has surveyed the relocated highway leading to the border and announced that bids will perhaps be let this summer for the reconstruction of these 9 miles. The Canadian government has already improved a large section of 59 out of Winnipeg and by old standards this entire road is now in excellent condition.

Motorist at Fault in Most Mishaps

Drivers Responsible in 95 Per Cent of Cases

In only five per cent of the 50,829 reported traffic accidents on Minnesota's streets and highways last year was the principal cause something other than the motorists' actions themselves, according to a summary of motor vehicle accidents released by the Minnesota highway department.

The report shows that pedestrian violations were responsible for three per cent of the accidents, while circumstances beyond the driver's control were charged with only two per cent of the reported accidents.

The remaining 95 per cent of the accidents, or 48,288, were due to action—or lack of necessary action—on the part of motorists. Some of the leading causes, on a percentage basis, were:

Failure to grant right of way to another vehicle or to a pedestrian—24%.

Disregarding traffic controls—11%.

Exceeding safe speeds or posted speed limits—12%.

Improper passing—10%.

Following to closely—8%.

Improper turning—7%.

Driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was tagged as the principal cause of five per cent of the accidents, while defective equipment was the prime factor in three per cent of accidents involving all types of vehicular equipment. However, defective equipment was blamed for 11 per cent of the 1,111 accidents involving truck-tractor and semi-trailer combinations. Failure to grant right of way and improper passing were the two chief causes of accidents involving these types of vehicles, as well as all other forms of trucks.

President Signs Measure for St. Lawrence Seaway

Projects Will Permit Ocean Vessels to Come as Far as Toledo, Ohio

President Eisenhower signed the St. Lawrence seaway bill Thursday in a White House ceremony.

"Now work can begin on the great project," the President declared as he put his signature to the measure which sets in motion a plan to bring ocean trade into the heart of the American continent.

With more than a score of Congress members and Canadian Ambassador A. D. P. Heeney looking on, Eisenhower used nine pens to sign the bill.

Eisenhower said he was very happy to sign it and that he was particularly glad the Canadian ambassador was present.

The signing ceremony was announced by the President himself at his news conference Wednesday. Invited guests at the White House affair included 43 congressmen.

The bitterly contested seaway legislation finally cleared Congress after a 30-year struggle.

The measure authorizes the United States to join Canada in building a waterway deep enough to let ocean ships sail from the Atlantic as far inland as Toledo, Ohio, by going up the St. Lawrence River to the Great Lakes.

Engineers figure it will take about six years to complete the project. There is talk about extending the ocean channel all the way to Duluth, Minn., at the end of Lake Superior, but this will require further congressional action.

The seaway idea has been endorsed by every president beginning with Woodrow Wilson. Eisenhower has supported the project on grounds it would help both this nation's economy and its security.

The seaway bill will eliminate a navigation bottleneck in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River which now allows passage of ships with only 14-foot draft or less. The project would deepen this to 27 feet and add necessary locks and canals.

Installations of new electric generating power in the U. S. in 1953—power largely generated by coal—were the greatest since Edison invented the incadescent lamp, and totalled 9,200,000 kws of capacity, bringing the country's installed electric generating capacity to 93,500,000 kws at the start of 1954.

Norfolk and Western Railway last year hauled almost 45½ million tons of bituminous coal, over 71% of its total freight tonnage.

Baltimore, Md. estimates it has saved $80,000 by using 8,300 tons of fly ash from coal in Liberty Dam, the East's first fly ash concrete dam.

Hagen Announces Intention to Run

Congressman Will Seek Seventh Term

U. S. Rep. Harold C. Hagen of Crookston today announced his candidacy for re-election to the United States Congress. Hagen, now having six terms of seniority and second ranking Republican on the twenty-five member committee, is Vice Chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, and is Chairman of the Special Subcommittee on Civil Service. He also has acted as chairman of many other special committees.

In his announcement, Rep. Hagen stated that he was seeking re-election so that he could continue his fight for 100% parity for basic farm produce, as he feels that the welfare of the farmers and of agriculture is the foundation of our country's prosperity and welfare.

He further stated that he wants to bring to a successful completion the necessary comprehensive flood control and water conservation program for the 9th District area.

ATOM POWER IS HERE

One of the nation's big steel corporations has announced its intention to start adjusting its production to atomic power. It recognizes "—the tremendous importance nuclear physics will play in the nation's industrial progress," and "our company intends to occupy an important position in that transformation."

There are many indications that we are now on the threshold of a new era. And it is a little disturbing to know that another great industrial revolution is in the making.

This is especially true for those of us who recall the kerosene lamp and transportation by the kind of horsepower we generated with oats and hay. The realization that we are now moving forward again, probably farther forward than we advanced with the coming of the combustion engine, is bewildering.

ALL BY OURSELVES

There now is less talk about recession and depression, and the reason there is less talk probably is because there is less depression to talk about. The general outlook is brighter. It is so hopeful, in fact, that President Eisenhower last week cautioned against being too optimistic. While he finds most of the indicators to be favorable, some are still unfavorable.

Very well Mr. President. We will curb our optimism and merely look forward with confidence. And, incidentally, it is easier to look forward with confidence because the present recession is leveling off without emergency action by the government. That is pretty convincing proof that we can still take necessary adjustments in stride. It awakens a long dormant hope that some day we will be able to take a few steps and maybe even walk again without the aid of crutches.

SOME FLEXIBILITY NEEDED

When President Roosevelt attempted to increase the number of Supreme Court justices from nine to fifteen, so that he could appoint judges favorable to his political views, his own party refused to go along with him. That probably is the reason why a proposed constitutional amendment that would limit the size of the court to its present number, passed the Senate last week with scarcely an argument and little publicity. It is not a partisan question.

But maybe the proposal didn't receive enough consideration. There is nothing sacred about the figure nine. The size of the court has been changed before. Conceivably the time might come when it should be changed again. Perhaps instead of arbitrarily fixing the number of judges at a certain figure it would be better merely to slow up the procedure for changing that number.

We probably are justified in fearing hasty action in such matters but there is much to be said against making our institutions so inflexible that changes are impossible. A constitution can easily become too restrictive and be a barrier to progress.

70,000 KILLED IN 1975?

Last year the death toll from traffic accidents in our country went up to 38,500, and more than two million persons were injured. Many schools could have been built for what was paid out for property destruction. The manager of the accident prevention department of an association of insurance companies estimates that by 1975 the annual death toll will be 70,000 if the present traffic accident rate is not reduced.

The records reveal that young drivers contribute more than their share to this gruesome total and some insurance companies are centering their stepped-up research for highway safety on better driving education for youngsters. But young drivers are not responsible for all accidents nor are all accidents due to lack of driving knowhow. Most of us know how to drive safely. Most drivers do drive safely. But too many will drive safely only as they are forced to, and only by strict law enforcement can there be reasonable safety on the highways.

And the law enforcement agencies cannot do the job alone. We all share in the responsibility and only with good cooperation can the enforcement agencies hope to get good results.

The Great Northern is entering the "piggyback" field of truck transportation by rail. It is establishing an experimental service between the Twin Cities and Duluth, hauling truck trailers by fast freight on flat cars. This is an experiment that is of interest not only to shippers but also to all who use the highways.

For the first four months of this year contracts for new construction exceeded by 8% last year's all-time record for this period. The biggest increase came in residential construction. That doesn't sound like we are headed for a depression.

A Duluth judge refused to try a case involving two service men until they were brought before him dressed in civilian clothes. By wearing their uniforms they were disgracing veterans who had served with honor and distinction, he thought. But how, before trying them, could the judge determine that they were not worthy of the uniform, and if he found them guilty before they were proven guilty hizzoner himself was not measuring up to the lofty standards of his own profession.

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS

BY COLONEL JOHN McCRAE

In Flanders' fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place: and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.
We are the dead.
Short days ago we lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you from falling hands we throw
The Torch—be yours to hold it high:
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders' fields.

Phosphate Boosts Pasture Yields

Phosphate fertilizer is a proven production-builder on rotation and renovated permanent pastures. Have you thought about how you might use phosphate this year? University of Minnesota experiments on farms in 21 phosphate-hungry counties in western Minnesota have increased yields of all crops in their rotations and the beneficial effect has lasted three or four years after first years treatment. If your farm is in an area that is low on potash this element should be added to the phosphate.

Also, small grains and flax ripened more uniformly on phosphate-treated areas than on test plots left untreated and phosphate speeded up corn maturing from six to eight days over the usual time.

Livestock sensed the improvement, too—cattle preferred hay grown on phosphated ground to that from untreated areas.

Measurements show the phosphorous content of alfalfa used for hay or pasture was increased about 21 per cent above alfalfa grown on untreated land.

Other tests show protein production was 47 pounds higher per acre on phosphated areas than on untreated ground.

Phosphate improved the legume-grass stands in all cases and with all types of hay and pasture crop. The increased legume and legume-grass acreage increased the soil's organic matter and available nitrogen to provide a better fertility balance with "residual" phospate that remained in the soil after the first year's application.

Starting a Garden?

There are some fine points to starting a new garden. Want some tips from an expert at the University of Minnesota? Then, come in or phone for a free copy of Extension Folder 161, "Your Vegetable Garden," by Orrin C. Turnquist, Extension horticulturist at the University's Institute of Agriculture. Besides many helpful tips, you'll find a mapped plan for 20 by 30 foot garden and a handy table of inside starting and outside planting dates for vegetables.

Be Careful Hitching Tractor

You belong on the tractor seat —not on the ground between the tractor and the implement you're hitching to—in any hitching operation, Glenn Prickett, farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota points out that you won't have to dismount the tractor to hitch to a wagon or any light-tongued implement if you install a hook that lets you lift the tongue while you're safe on the seat. Discs, manure spreaders and other hard-to-hitch-on-to implements should be jacked up to the right height after you stop the tractor a few inches away. Then, you can safely back in to hitch. The safe way may take a few seconds longer, but that's a tiny price for freedom from painfully mangled hands and hospital bills.

THE RACE OF LIFE

Life is much like this race. It is a handicap, a struggle against odds, a contest to be won.

This race begins in the cradle when the "little man" bangs his first rattle against the crib. It continues when he takes his first step, rides his first bike, carries his first books to school, and comes home with his first girl friend.

Preparation for living is all-important. Our children have so much to gain, so very much to lose. They will need robust health, a well-rounded education, but most important of all, they will need moral and spiritual strength. They must learn to interpret God's will concerning their lives.

Take your children to Church, so that their future destiny may be guided by God's word. And by example, show them how the most important race of all can be won—the race of life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Should Increase Use of Dairy Products, States Secy. Benson

By Ezra Taft Benson
Secretary of Agriculture

One of agriculture's biggest problems is also one of the easiest to solve.

The solution lies not with government or its officials but with millions of Americans who can and should drink an extra glass or two of milk each week and eat a few additional pieces of butter.

At present the dairy industry is confronted with production and marketing problems that stem from increasing output, declining exports and a reduction in per capita consumption. It is important to see that these troubles are not perpetuated.

The government now has more than 1,320,000,000 pounds of dairy products in storage. These surpluses were acquired by supporting dairy prices at 90 per cent of parity. They are products that should have gone to consumers but instead went into government warehouses.

To make dairying a strong and independent part of our agricultural economy these surpluses must be disposed of and a proper adjustment made between production and consumption. The easiest way to do this is to increase consumption.

Since 1945 the annual per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream has declined 47 pounds. For the same period consumption of butter dropped the equivalent of an additional 45 pounds of milk.

Our people need to eat more dairy products. If the full dietary needs of the nation were being met, there would actually be a shortage of these products. Milk is good. It is the most nearly perfect of all foods for children, young people and adults. Milk is cheap. A recent study shows that the nutrients contained in a quart of milk would cost 42 cents if obtained from other sources.

In an effort to encourage the use of dairy products and in compliance with the law, I recently reduced the dairy price support level from 90 to 75 percent of parity. It is my belief that more realistic prices, coupled with a vigorous educational and promotional program stressing the value of dairy products, will go a long way toward reestablishing the industry on a firm and profitable basis.

I am required by law to fix dairy supports at a point between 75 and 90 percent of parity that will assure an adequate supply. In view of both the large surpluses and a production rate exceeding consumption, the Solicitor of the Department of Agriculture ruled I would have to set the supports for the coming year at 75 per cent.

There has been some complaints that under the President's new farm program, the reduction in dairy supports should have been gradual. Actually the President proposed gradual changes in moving basic commodities from a rigid to flexible support program and from old to modernized parity. There was no such recommendation on dairy products, which were already on a flexible basis.

There is considerable difference between the basic commodities and dairy products. The basics are storable and they are subject to production control. Dairy products are perishable. In fact they are the only perishable commodity on which price supports are mandatory. In addition, there is no control of production.

While it would appear that the dairy supports were cut 15 points, the actual reduction is 12 to 9 points. Because of wider marketing margins last year, 90 percent supports reflected 87 percent of parity to the farmer on butterfat and only 84 percent on manufactured milk.

As I understand the law, the full 75 percent of parity must now be passed on to the farmer; I will see that this is done.

Cap and Gown Day Ceremonies Held at Minnesota "U"

President J. L. Morill Recognizes Top-ranking Students at Convocation

Annual Cap and Gown Day ceremonies with the traditional honors convocation were conducted May 13 at the University of Minnesota. Approximately 2,500 senior students took part in the events.

University President J. L. Morrill recognized the University's top-ranking students at the 11:30 a. m. convocation in Northrop Memorial auditorium. The students are those with "B" average or above, scholarship winners, recipients of various awards and members of honor societies.

Before the program, senior students, wearing their caps and gowns for the first time, joined faculty members in an academic procession up the mall from Coffman Memorial Union into the auditorium. Alumni from the class of 1904 "reviewed" the parade.

Thomas A. H. Teeter, dean of the University summer session, delivered the Cap and Gown Day address, "The Saga of the Summer Session." He will retire in June after 32 years on the faculty.

Dean of Students E. G. Williamson was master-of-ceremonies during the convocation. Members of the senior class were introduced by Larry M. Smith, Big Fork, class president.

Among those honored was June Barstad, junior student from Thief River Falls, who was awarded a Social Service Council scholarship on the basis of scholastic excellence, leadership potential and future promise.

See Increased Hog Marketing at End of Year

Fewer Hogs Will be Sold Next Three Months Survey Shows

Iowa and Northern Illinois farmers will sell fewer hogs in the next two to three months than they did a year ago, a survey of nearly 600 farmers in the area reveals. On the other hand, considerably more hogs will be sold during the fall and winter this year than in the corresponding period a year ago.

The farms surveyed represent an area in which one-third of all hogs in the United States are produced. This second report on hog marketing intentions is based on a quarterly survey conducted by Iowa State College in cooperation with the Chicago Union Stock Yards. Projected marketings — based on pigs born, sows bred and stated breeding intentions — indicated that May, June and July sales of barrows and gilts from Iowa and Northern Illinois farms probably will be about one-fourth below a year earlier.

August sales of barrows and gilts will be in line with a year ago. The Chicago Stock Yards survey indicated that these sales will be augmented by sharply higher sales of packing sows in July and August, the result of increased spring farrowings. Hog marketings in the last four months of 1954 will be up sharply—probably by 30 per cent. The increased marketings will continue into early 1955.

Is She Really Ready?

"Oh, yes, my Betsy is all ready to start kindergarten in the fall," remarked Mrs. Wilson to her neighbor, Mrs. Lane. "Betsy knows the alphabet, and can print her name; she knows some number combinations, and she's beginning to read a little. I've done everything I can to get her ready for school."

Mrs. Lane was glad that they had reached her front door by then, for her ideas of judging her daughter Judy's readiness for kindergarten were somewhat different from her neighbor's. To get Judy ready, Mrs. Lane had taken her to the doctor and the dentist for complete physical and dental check-ups.

Through experience, she had helped Judy learn how to practice good safety regulations. She had helped Judy learn independence in dressing herself, taking care of her toilet needs, and finding good things to do with her time. She had tried to teach Judy to feel respect and to show common courtesies toward other people by setting her a good example.

She had taken Judy to visit school, to provide a chance for her to see what children did in school and overcome some of the strange feeling that a new situation might otherwise produce. She planned, during the summer, to invite children over to her home, one or two at a time, to play with Judy so that when school started, Judy would have friends in the kindergarten group.

Then, too, the Lanes had enjoyed Judy's preschool years with her. They had taken her on trips with them, and seen to it that she had a chance to learn about things that weren't available right at her back door—things like new animals in the zoo, the fire engine at the engine house, animals on farms.

The Lanes knew, too, that trying to teach children arithmetic or reading before they even started kindergarten was pushing development. They reasoned that Judy would be more ready to learn these real "school skills" when she reached first grade. Sensibly, they looked at the important physical, social, and emotional areas in judging Judy's readiness.

Governor Demands Crackdown on State Traffic Violators

A crack-down on traffic law violators will be a prime order of business for the 1955 Legislature Gov. Anderson said Wednesday after citing that public behavior on the highways has "gone beyond the point of reason."

"No longer can the speed demons, the show-offs, the immature, the incapable, the befuddled, intoxicated or dangerously slow drivers be extended the privilege of using our heavily-traveled highways," the governor said.

Speaking at his annual safety conference in Minneapolis, Anderson pointed out that never before in the state's 96-year history has "such a horrible record of slaughter" been written as in the early months of 1954.

The highway death total stood at 213 Wednesday, 53 ahead of this date a year ago. And the governor emphasized that the heavy, summer time vacation travel was still to come.

Despite education, warnings and stricter law enforcement, the governor said motorists are continuing to "take their own lives by their driving behavior." If these drivers cannot operate motor vehicles to keep their own and others' lives safe, Anderson added, "The harshest and severest of treatment must be the measure of last resort."

"We must not permit these people to drive," declared the governor. "We shall keep them from securing driving permits. If they have them, we shall take them away without yielding to sympathy or pressure.

"No longer can the state give an attentive ear to hardships on families and individuals deprived of the use of a vehicle used to violate the traffic regulations."

Anderson paid tribute to many safety campaigns undertaken by newspapers and radio stations and said that more were needed. But he added that such drives were more in the nature of long-range educational activities.

He said further coordination of law enforcement and educational activities could be expected with filling of the new post of state highway safety director within the new few days.

Jobless Benefits Declining; Spring Upturn under Way

Construction, Mining and Other Seasonal Work Furnishing Employment

Unemployment in Minnesota, as reflected by unemployment compensation payments, is declining and spring activities in the state have stabilized employment trends, says Commissioner F. W. Nichols, of the employment security department.

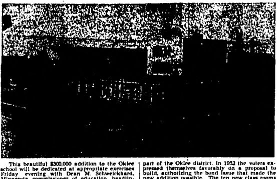
The early spring peak for job insurance payments was reached during the 7-day period ending April 2. Since that date, the activity has been declining steadily, the drop in initial claims by the first week in May, being about 50 per cent. The acceleration in the decline as warm weather advances is indicated by the fact that continued claims declined 18 per cent during the 2-week period ending May 7. Non-farm employment in the state continues above the 800,000 level.

"The drop is due, primarily, to persons returning to work in mining, construction and other seasonal activities," said Nichols. "We confidently expect that the present downward trend in claim activities will continue. But the return to work during the rest of the Spring and early Summer will be somewhat slower than in most previous years.

"Present trends, in the main, reflect the nation's transition from a war to a peacetime economy, which factor we have been feeling ever since October of 1953.

"Minnesota is now emerging from a period during which unemployment compensation has served the state's economy effectively, in providing jobless workers with earned buying power. The state agency has handled in stride the distribution of more than $12,300,000 since January in amounts that have averaged about $22 a week. These benefits have gone to persons who, except for their job insurance rights, would have been without buying power through no fault of their own. This money has gone to pay for groceries, for housing, for clothing and similar necessities. What is especially important is that the state goes into the Summer of 1954 with more than $128,000,000 in reserve, against future contingencies.

Oklee School To Be Dedicated Friday Evening



This beautiful $300,000 addition to the Oklee school will be dedicated at appropriate exercises Friday evening with Dean M. Schweickhard, Minnesota commissioner of education, headlining the program as speaker. The need for these enlarged facilities came as a result of a consolidation in 1947 when 16 rural districts became a part of the Oklee district. In 1952 the voters expressed themselves favorably on a proposal to build, authorizing the bond issue that made the new addition possible. The ten new class rooms and excellent auditorium, gymnasium and kitchen facilities have been used during the school year now drawing to a close.

Drive-in Theatre at Warren to Be Opened in June

It will have a 40x24 foot panoramic screen and the most modern light source. It will be as modern as any constructed and will have a snack bar.

Mr. Paulson will operate and manage the venture, still keeping his own business at Oslo where he owns and operates the Roxy theatre.

State Parks Chief Cites Vandalism

Says Youthful Visitors Should Be Supervised

Because of the approaching last days of school, "skip" days, and the first picnic outing of the season, U. W. Hella, director of the division of state parks, urged more care in the use of state park property and asked that school authorities exercise close supervision and control of the youngsters in their charge while on a school picnic in the parks.

"The parks are public property to be used by all citizens, and the young people should be especially careful because they are going to want to use these outdoor areas for many years. We do not want a repetition of some years in the past, when a few older students who should have known better caused considerable damage in Itasca Park and had to be taken to the Bemidji jail. In the Jay Cooke Park a group apparently pushed two 300 pound iron "saddles" which were to be used in the construction of the new swing bridge, into the river. Other minor damages and mischief causes loss in property and costs in replacement."

Teachers or parents in charge of the various school picnics should realize that childish pranks by a few gives all a bad name.

The oldest bituminous coal mining company in America, the Westmoreland Coal Company of Pennsylvania, celebrated its 100th anniversary this year (1954).

Today's U. S. bituminous coal mines collectively can produce more than 5,000 tons a minute.

"The Great Light"
60 MINUTE DRAMATIC FILM
FILMED IN GERMANY

Against the sobering background of Germany's physical and spiritual ruins, "The Great Light" unfolds the intriguing story of what faith in Christ means to those who sit in darkness. Karl Ludwig, disillusioned young German, is asked to join an underground movement with headquarters in an abandoned Medeval castle. But the power of the Gospel cuts across his plans, and peace will not come to his heart until he yields to that power.

This tremendous film has been shown throughout the English-speaking world, and is now being prepared for release in several foreign translations.

George Rasmussen, Jr. who came into existence in the last quarter of the last year of the eighteenth century can remember when the railroad was built and Strandquist became a reality. At the age of six, George had already become a lover of horses and was anxious to see these animals perform on the road building project. George Sr. who owned a good team of horses and had a contract to build a section of grade let little George come along one nice summer day. George Jr. watched his father for some time and then walked down the partly completed grade to see how a neighbor was getting along. This neighbor had a section of grade to build too, but in place of horses he used a spade, some plank, a wheel barrow and a strong back. George soon tired of watching this kind of work. He wanted to see more horses and strolled down the grade to observe the performance of several teams and their drivers. George was getting educated as a teamster. He saw and heard, on this railroad project, methods and expressions that differed from those used by his father. After a long trek back to his father's section it was time to go home and a mighty tired boy went to bed early that evening. A little earlier than it was expected George should awaken, his mother heard him up and about and using language which was rather new to the Rasmussen household. The wooden steed Santa had left last Xmas was the object of a verbal attack. "Jim, you ——— old ——— get into your harness!" "Whoa, can't you stand still for one ——— minute?" This went on til ma Rasmussen, put a stop to it, and demanded to know when he heard such language. Says Geo. "Thats the way to talk when you are working on the railroad." I believe George had to stand by the table while eating breakfast that morning.

Getting each year's supply of coal out of the ground involves handling a larger volume of material than the digging of the Panama Canal.

Almost two-thirds of the 6,075,106 tons of bituminous coal produced in 1953 by the Hanna Coal Co. of Ohio was extracted by surface mining methods.

50 YEARS AGO

Success at Last

"The Red Lake Bill is now a law" proclaimed the Thief River Falls News in its issue of February 18, 1904. It had passed both houses of congress. It did not require ratification by the Chippewa. It will be signed by the President.

And so after many years of effort, and several heart-breaking defeats, the community started making plans for the actual opening for settlement of the Eleven Townships area.

There would be an auction and lands would be sold to the highest bidders but at not less than $4.00 an acre, and not more than 160 acres to any one purchaser. The purchase price was to be paid one-fifth down and the balance in five equal annual instalments. Any lands not bid in at the auction could be bought at private sale at $4.00 an acre. Five years residence was required before title would be issued. Lands remaining unsold after five years could be bought at $4.00 an acre for immediate title. The auction would be held in Thief River Falls and it no doubt would bring 25,000 bidders. So hopefully stated the News.

Still Many Rumors

The following week President Roosevelt had signed the bill but there were rumors the department of interior was hostile and would not carry out the provisions of the act. Congressman Steenerson had promised the sale would be at Thief River Falls and not at the land office at Crookston. Senator Clapp, in a letter to friends, said he hoped the sale could be held in July.

A Washington dispatch dated March 7 in the March 10 News quoted Representative Steenerson. He had conferred with the secretary of the department of interior. No attention had yet been paid to the law but the matter of holding the sale would soon be taken up with the land commission. Steenerson had asked him to hurry.

The March 17 issue contained lots of news. There was a reproduction of a letter from Congressman Steenerson to D. N. Winton, in regard to the removal of the Indians living in the Eleven Township area, and two letters to Steenerson, one from the Secretary Hitchcock and one from the acting land commissioner. Many problems were discussed and Editor Eastman indicated considerable concern about how an auction could be conducted with at least 10,000 bidders on hand to take advantage of the bargains.

Worries About Weather

There were many things to worry about and the following week was devoted largely to concern about the weather. July might be a wet month and some of the prospective settlers might "gain the impression that the land was low and swampy, and go back to their homes with an unfavorable impression of this section, thereby doing Thief River Falls and surrounding country a great injustice."

But the dark cloud that might bring wet weather had a silver lining too, and Editor Eastman thought it would be just as well if the strangers didn't get too enthused about the prospect. They might bid too high. There might be some foolish enough to bid $25 or even $30 an acre. Between $4 and $5 would be a fair price for most of the farms he thought, and at this price the new settlers would have a better chance of success. So let it rain. Worry, worry.

Indians Agree to Move

Late in March D. N. Winton received another letter from Congressman Steenerson stating that Secretary Hitchcock had ordered Special Agent Thomas Downs to go "from the Indian Territory to Thief River Falls and make arrangements for securing the consent of the Indians on the reservation at an early date so that the land could be opened early in the summer."

And Col. Thomas Downs came immediately. By the end of the week he and J. A. Morrison, official interpreter, were meeting with the Indians who were to move. The Indians were agreeable "but would not sign any paper until their head men up at the lake approved the matter." They wanted pay for their improvements but "did not want any white man to superintend their removal." They wanted their dead removed and requested that this job be given to a white man. Editor Eastman anticipated no trouble and thought the reservation opening by July 1 could be considered an assured fact.

The head men up the lake did approve and by the middle of April Col. Downs had completed most of the appraisals. He had also received several proposals for the removal of the dead. Editor Eastman, with direct-from-the-feed-box information, said "July 1st will undoubtedly be the date of the sale." Col. Downs left town with the signatures of all of the Indians agreeing to leave the Eleven Township area by June 20.

How to Conduct Sale

Then came an argument about the mechanics of conducting the sale, whether there should be an open bidding or sealed bids. The News indicated that Washington was in a turmoil over the question. Land Commissioner Richards favored the open sale. The sealed-bid plan was favored by secretary of the interior Hitchcock. Some officials favored drawing by lots. A Washington dispatch dated April 20 reported conferences in progress but no conclusion. The confusion continued through another week.

But by May 12 there had been a decision. The land would be sold to the highest bidder at an open auction, Monday, June 13, was definitely the date of the sale said Mr. Eastman. Mayor Kratka had received word from Senator Clapp fixing Monday, June 20 at the date of the sale but Eastman knew that was wrong. He had his information from more reliable sources.

Rural Mail Boxes Occupy Spotlight During This Week

Postoffice Department Requests Patrons to Improve Mail Boxes

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has announced this week as "Mail Box Improvement Week." This will be the sixteenth annual campaign to improve these official mail receptacles.

The department requests that rural patrons in this area fill in and clear approaches and paint and repair their mail box equipment. Many boxes have become unsightly due to rust, unserviceable due to a leaky condition and for that reason fail to protect the mail from the weather. Doors and signals are missing, supports rotted, bent, or loose; approaches are rutted and in some instances dangerous if used when wet.

An inspection of the routes during the first week in May of this year revealed that 229 patrons failed to have their names on their boxes and in 26 additional cases the names were faded to the point that they were difficult to read. Errors are sometimes caused by failure to have mail boxes properly and clearly identified. This can be especially true when a substitute is serving the route.

Names should be inscribed on the box on the side approached by the carrier and should be in neat black letters about 1 inch in height. Name plate may be used. Names should be placed on the front of the box where several are supported by a plank and post arrangement or in the case of name plates and a small box, maunted on top.

The department has prepared a form for patrons desiring information regarding proper installation and maintenance of their boxes. These may be secured from the carrier or postmaster.

119 Children Given Examinations Here at Orthopedic Clinic

It takes many people to make a team!

An excellent example of team work was seen during the orthopedic clinic Saturday at the Lincoln high school, according to Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, local chairman.

The combined work of doctors, public health nurses, and better informed parents has helped the physically handicapped child to receive early attention. Through this "team-work," physical defects can often be corrected and almost always much improved.

A total of 119 children from eight counties reported to the high school for examination by the orthopedic surgeons and a pediatrician, Mrs. Sagmoen reports.

After seeing each child, the doctors recommended surgery, hospitalization, medical care or any special home treatment which would be beneficial. Nurses instructed parents on home care or exercises.

The clinic was open to boys and girls under 21 years of age who have or may be developing crippled disabilities. In most instances, those attending for the first time were referred by their family doctors.

Public health nurses and county welfare workers served as clinic assistants. Wm. Keenan, counsellor from the state division of vocational rehabilitation, advised young patients on job training and educational opportunities.

Mrs. Sagmoen and Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson of Thief River Falls headed the local committees.

3 Members of Hospital Board Are Reelected

Building Addition Now about 70 Pct. Complete, Architect Says Monday

With a smaller attendance than usual at their annual meeting in the auditorium Monday evening, members of the Northwestern Hospital association unanimously reelected three members of the board of trustees for three-year terms. The three whose names were submitted by Vivian Copp, chairman of the nominating committee, include L. B. Hartz, John Anderson and Lawrence Bjorkman.

Mr. Hartz, president of the association, conducted the meeting with the assistance of Norman Peterson, secretary, and called for reports by numerous persons associated with the hospital.

Robert J. Lund, in behalf of Treasurer Frank Rinkel, reviewed the financial report for the year ending April 30, showing gross income of $335,087, and expenses, including depreciation, of $334,650, leaving a balance of $437.

Judge Paul A. Lundgren, chairman of the building committee, reported that more than $72,000 had been paid on pledges toward the hospital addition, and that the federal government had paid $155,000 of its allotment of $415,000, with a second installment due late this summer. Approximately $110,000 has been expended on the $910,000 project, and both Judge Lundgren and Mr. Hartz emphasized the need of conducting an active campaign to collect outstanding pledges as well as to secure contributions from new residents of the community.

S. L. Stolte of Bettenburg Townsend and Stolte, architects for the hospital, stated that the new addition is progressing ahead of schedule and is now about 70 per cent complete. The present outlook, he added, is that the third floor of the addition will be finished by August

C. C. Informed of Plans Made for Dairy Day

Four Area Creamery Men Predict Record Exhibit of Calves at Show June 8

Four area creamery men, directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, who were guests of the Civic and Commerce association at a dinner meeting last Thursday evening in the Elks club rooms, predicted that more calves than ever before would be entered in the show at the fifth annual Northwest Dairy Day in this city Tuesday, June 8.

The speakers, who were introduced by Stuart McLeod, president of the dairy group, included Harold Elseth, manager of the Argyle creamery; Robert Qual, Grygla; Walter Scholin, Fosston; and Chester Traaseth, Bagley.

The men also reported fine cooperation from area banks and creameries in the solicitation of funds to finance Dairy Day. George W. Werstlein, also a director, stated that Red Lake county banks were giving their support.

Elmer Bratsch, treasurer, stated that $3,500 of the $5,000 goal had already been collected, including $1,800 from Thief River Falls business places and $1,700 from creameries and banks in eleven Northwest counties.

McLeod forecast that dairymen affiliated with cow-testing groups would enter about 30 cows in a special class, new this year, which will be judged by W. S. Moscrip, nationally famous Holstein authority.

The program closed with the showing of a color motion picture of the 1953 Dairy Day, the film having been shown previously at dairy meetings in Chi-

Polio Foundation Advances $7,500 to Pennington Chapter

A check for $7,500 has been received from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, to help provide care for polio patients here, it was announced today by M. C. Gulbranson, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the March of Dimes organization.

"This financial help comes as part of a general National Foundation arrangement to provide needy chapters with immediate emergency aid," Gulbranson said.

He explained that March of Dimes funds raised each January are shared with national headquarters finances research, epidemic services, professional education and emergency aid to chapters. This year, national hearquarters added another program, polio prevention, which consists of increased supplies of gamma globulin and studies of a trial vaccine against polio.

"We have in Pennington County," Gulbranson said, "a good example of how the local chapter and national headquarters work together to fight infantile paralysis. If we run in the red, the National Foundation will pull us out. Previous to the current advance, this chapter has been advanced $15,125."

Gulbranson said the local chapter would require even further aid from national headquarters during this year.

The local chapter is providing funds at present for the transfer of a polio patient to a respirator center in Omaha, where he will be cared for.

Anniversary Fete Planning Set Thursday

All Committees to Meet; Pioneer Residents Are Urged to Register Soon

Plans for the 50th anniversary celebration to be held here June 18, 19 and 20 will get a thorough recheck at a meeting of all committees in the office of the Civic & Commerce association Thursday evening starting at 7:30 o'clock. With only three weeks to go, all arrangements for the three-day program must now be completed, Kendall Gustafson, general chairman stated in calling the meeting.

While the general arrangements have been pretty well completed there still are many details that need attention. One of the important matters that will receive a great deal of study is the problem of financing. Costs for which commitments already have been made total several thousand dollars and the finance committee headed by William LaFave hopes to have enough money raised in advance to take care of all possible contingencies.

J. M. Roche, secretary, reports progress in the registration of "old timers" but urges that names be entered as speedily as possible. Township clerks are checking their own areas and seven of these reports are now in he states.

Qualifying as "Old Timers" are all those who actually established homes on the reservation during the years 1904 to 1906, and also all men and women seventy years or older who were residents in the Thief River Falls area fifty years ago.

1, with the remaining floors to be completed by September 1.

President Hartz then called on Harold W. Peterson, administrator of the hospital, and praised his efficient services during the past year. Peterson, in turn, thanked his associates and the board of trustees for their fine cooperation. He briefly described new items recently added to the equipment of the institution, and discussed some of the features being incorporated in the new building.

Peterson pointed out that too many patients being received at the hospital are not yet members of the Northern Blood Bank, resulting in much inconvenience and expense to them in arranging for needed transfusions. He also cited the benefits the hospital is deriving from its participation in the country hospital nurses training program sponsored by the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Ruth Organ, superintendent of nurses, also discussed the nurses training program of the University, as well as the practical nurse training course at the area vocation school in this city. She recommended a resumption of the in-service program for the nursing personnel, including lectures by members of the medical staff.

Bill LaFave, one of the prime movers in the organization of the Northern Blood Bank, reported that its membership has shown a steady increase in recent months.

Mayor Proclaims Friday, Saturday VFW Poppy Days

Mayor Agnes Israelson today proclaimed Friday evening, May 28, and Saturday, May 29, as VFW poppy days in Thief River Falls, and urged the cooperation of the public. Her statement follows:

"Whereas: The annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, has been officially recognized and endorsed by the President of the United States and Veterans Administration; and

"Whereas: V. F. W. Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans; and

"Whereas: The basic purpose of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is eloquently reflected in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living", therefore,

"I, Agnes Israelson, Mayor of the City of Thief River Falls, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies, Friday evening, May 28, and Saturday, May 29 set aside for the distribution of these symbols of loyalty."

Kelly Hardware Observing 25th Year of Founding

The Kelly Hardware of this city is celebrating a quarter of a century of service in the community with a 25th anniversary sale this week. The store was acquired by H. H. Kelly May 29, 1929 from George G. Williams who had operated it as the Williams Hardware. Since the death of Mr. Kelly in 1949 the business has been conducted by Mrs. Kelly and son Harlan.

The Kelly Hardware is an old store in terms of years but one of the youngest in the city in terms of modernization, the announcement points out. New fixtures have been installed recently and the store has been redecorated thruout.

40 Creameries and 25 Banks Help Finance 5th Annual Dairy Day

The fifth Anniversary of Northwest Dairy Day has become a truly great area event, with 25 banks and 40 creameries assisting in the financing of Minnesota's largest dairy show. This cooperation of business and the dairy farmer is encouraging 4-H and FFA boys and girls to raise better dairy cattle, and is teaching the importance of the dairy industry.

This year, Northwest Dairy Day, which will be held in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 8, holds promise of 200 entries as compared to last year's 254, which was an all-time high. In addition to the dairy calves, this year a new event has been added which will be known as an adult display class of dairy cattle. This class will be judged by W. S. Moscrip, president of the Minnesota Dairy Association and nationally known purebred cattle breeder.

The classes entered by the boys and girls will be judged by Ralph Wayne and C. L. McNelly, both from the University of Minnesota extension service and Ben Salmela of the Grand Rapids experiment station. There are five classes of dairy cattle shown in this event.

Approximately 20 contestants who have each year participated in the calf show at Northwest Dairy Day since its origin will be especially honored during this year's fifth anniversary event.

The ten counties of northwestern Minnesota which will participate in Dairy Day will also have three entrants each in the Dairy Princess contest, the winner to represent this area in the statewide Dairy Princess contest. The four former princesses will be present this year and given special honors.

Visitors are expected from all over Minnesota, as well as from North Dakota and Wisconsin, to attend this year's event, which undoubtedly will be the largest open-air show of its kind in the United States.

Robert Brinkman of Wannaska, who was last year's grade grand champion winner will be awarded a pure-bred Holstein calf at this year's show. In addition, there will be breed prizes and the award for the purebred grand champion will be a trip to the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Iowa.

The program's climax will be the annual Dairy Day banquet to which all participants are invited and at which time the awards will be presented. The banquet annually entertains about 300 visitors and contestants.

With the County Agent

By William Penning
Pennington Co. Agent

Successful chemical weed control depends on spraying at the proper time, at the proper rate and with the right chemicals.

I would say one of the most important steps in weed control is seeing that the sprayer is correctly calibrated with your tractor's speed and that the nozzles are operating efficiently.

The following chemicals will give satisfactory results if correctly applied.

2,4-D available as sodium salt and esters. The amine is most commonly used for selective spraying. Esters are for woody plants and hard-to-kill perennials where no crop is grown. Dunham recommends low volatile esters if sensitive plants or crops are nearby.

2,4,5-T also comes as sodium and amine salts and esters. Esters are most commonly used alone or with 2,4-D for woody plant control.

TCA is sold as sodium salt in both powder and liquid form. It kills quack or annual grasses—pigeon, barnyard and witch grass in flax, sugar beets and alfalfa—and does not kill wild oats. It may also be applied below corn leaves at lay-by time to kill late germinating weeds.

MCP comes as sodium and amine salts and esters. The amine is most frequently used for broadleaved weeds in flax. It comes in two concentrations—2 pounds per gallon and 4 pounds per gallon.

Dinitros includes formulations for selective and non-selective use. The selective formulations are used after emergence spraying and non-selective mainly for pre-emergence treatments and rapid but temporary kills of weedy topgrowth.

Dunham warns that 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T, MCP and TCA irritate skin and eyes, particularly before diluted for spraying, but they aren't poisonous.

Dinitros are not irritating but can be poisonous if absorbed through the skin. Avoid skin contact and inhaling spray mists. Don't work long in spray-wet clothing and wash soon after you've contacted dinitros.

Plants sprayed with weed chemicals aren't poisonous, but residues of any of the dinitros should be disposed of immediately so that they cannot be eaten by livestock or pollute water supplies.

Complete information on aerial spraying, chemicals, sprayer calibration and other weed sprayer matters is found in Extension Pamphlet 191, Weed Control in Minnesota. Get it from County Extension Office or write Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

"High-Priced" Mistake

Maybe you noticed the big "ad" Red Smith's Furniture Store ran in The Clarion last week.

One item caused some embarrassment around here. It read: "4-piece Bedroom Suite, regular price $119.50, bargain price $149.50." Guess I didn't "proofread" too well, and when our pressman asked for the go-ahead, I yelled, "Let 'er go."

All kinds of jokes about the mistake. One fellow asked if Smith's was holding the price line so tight it just snapped. Turned out fine in the end—Red sold that suite for the real sale price, of course.

From where I sit, it's lucky my carelessness didn't cost Red any business. I'm the one who's always "experting" on being careful—careful of our responsibilities, careful of our neighbors' rights. Even careful to respect the other fellow's preference for a glass of beer. Let's all make a bargain to be more careful in the future.

Pioneeer Days in This Area

By Oldtimer

Churning cream to make butter was a chore in the early days. The churn was a wooden vessel made like a pail with the small end up which was fitted with a tight cover through which the handle passed. The plunger, or agitator, was fastened to the handle which was worked up and down in the churn, and this was a hand operation. when the cream became butter it was hard work to churn, but the process had to be continued until the butter was of proper consistency. Then the butter was taken out and placed in a wooden bowl and worked with a paddle until all the butter milk was worked out when it was salted and ready for use.

Shall we have some fresh bread with butter and a glass of buttermilk? That was always a welcome treat. When the barrel churn came into use we thought it was a great improvement. The process of making butter with this new type of churn was not done any more rapidly, but turning the crank of the churn was not hard work and so the churning process was delegated to the children. Usually the boys conveniently disappeared and could not be found at churning time. Youngsters were no different then than now, and would sooner play than help with the work.

About the turn of the century there was much talk about cooperative creameries as they were being operated in the older communities. The idea of organizing a co-operative creamery was the general topic of conversation among the neighbors and so steps were taken to organize a creamery here.

Charley Gustafson and Peter Engelstad were two of the farmers on the organizing committee and they traveled throughout the Thief River Falls area, and signed up many shareholders.

According to the Thief River Falls News we learn that the original creamery was built during the summer of 1902. The first creamery building was built by the Prichard Stone Company, and W. W. Prichard Sr. was active in forming the organization. If my memory is right Mr. Prichard did operate the creamery the first year or so before it was taken over by the cooperative organization.

There was a cream receiving station in our neighborhood in Rosewood on the Gust Nakken farm where there was also a separator for use of farmers who had not bought their own however.

It soon became evident that the farmers prospered by selling the cream to the creamery, the herds of cows were increased and better stock was secured. We can remember the change that took place in a very short time.

Phone Company's Business Office Closed Saturdays

Northwestern Bell Telephone Company's business office in Thief River Falls will remain closed all day Saturdays starting June 5, according to A. J. Rau, local manager. The reason for the change, he said, is that few persons come to the business office on Saturdays. The regular week day hours of 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. will not be changed. A night depository is provided for payment of bills after the business office is closed.

CHATTING with your HOME AGENT

Marge Olsen

Two centuries ago, when a man said that a "Penny saved is a Penny got," he probably had no idea it would become our theme song in this jet propelled age. But penny saving is more popular right now than the top tunes on the hit parade. And that's where Processed cheese enters the picture . . . or the food budget. For in terms of value processed cheese gives us a real plus for our pennies, actually a saving in two ways. Firstly, pound for pound, it gives us the same top quality protein found in meat, but for less money. Secondly, it offers us quite a health saving — for it's rich in many other essentials besides that protein— calcium and phosphorus, and vitamin A and the B complex.

Besides the twofold saving offered in processed cheese, most of us are continually astounded at the versatility of this dairy food. Homemakers say they have a slogan that's paying off in better eating and better health. Their motto is "Cheesit" — perhaps stolen from the old cops 'n robbers game of childhood, but a lifesaver in meal planning. They say "Cheese It — whatever the meal; Cheese It — for culinary compliments galore." We've picked it up from them and pass along our variation by saying

CHEESE IT—and it goes farther!
CHEESE IT—and it tastes better!
CHEESE IT—for a good health bonus!!!

Cook It "Low 'N Slow"

1. Lower the heat when you cook processed cheese to keep that smooth blended texture. Let it melt completely, spreading the good cheese flavour thruout the dish. Cooked too quickly or at too high a temperature, cheese becomes tough and stringy.

2. Add processed cheese just at the last to sauces and before combining sauce with other ingredients. Speed up the melting and blending by cutting the cheese into small pieces — or breaking, slicing or shredding it.

Here is a recipe using processed cheese:

3 cups sliced, peeled apples; ½ tsp. cinnamon; ⅓ tsp. lemon juice; ¾ cup brown sugar; ⅓ cup flour; ¼ tsp. salt; ¼ cup butter; ¾ cup shredded processed cheese.

1. Place apples in a buttered, shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with cinnamon and lemon juice.

2. Combine sugar, flour and salt. Fork in the butter to form a crumbly mixture.

3. Add Cheese. Spread mixture over apples.

4. Bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees F. about 50 minutes, until apples are tender and the crust is brown and crisp. Serve in squares, either hot or cold.

Burglars Enter Goodridge Liquor Store Saturday

Burglars invaded the Goodridge municipal dispensary late Saturday night, and a checkup revealed that they had escaped with seven cases of liquor valued at more than $300, in addition to $15 taken from the cash register. They had used a bar to break in thru the back door to gain entry. Sheriff Arthur Rambeck conducted an investigation.

Creamery Volume Holding up Well

Pays over $70,000 for Milk and Cream in April

That the volume of business handled by the Thief River Falls Cooperative creamery is holding up well in spite of the recent cut in support prices is revealed in the announcement this week by G. S. Bergland, manager, that during the month of April the local plant paid dairymen more than $70,000 for deliveries of butterfat in the form of milk and cream.

A total of 1,211,148 pounds of milk was received in April, from which 108,105 pounds of cheese was made, and for which patrons were paid $30,705.36, or at the rate of 76 cents per pound of butterfat.

Farmers received $40,265.46 for butterfat in cream, or 61 cents per pound, from which 81,372 pounds of butter was manufactured.

Odds Against the Prowlers

District high school baseball fans will focus their attention on Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park this week, for on May 29th, 31st, and June 1st, the district tournament will be played there.

First round games on Saturday, May 29th, will find Crookston playing Goodridge at 10:00 a. m.; at 2:00 p. m. the defending champion Prowlers will meet Climax; and at 7:30 p. m. Alvarado will play Oslo.

Second round games, on Monday, May 31st, will pit the winner of the Crookston vs. Goodridge game against Red Lake Falls, with game-time at 6:15 p. m. At 8:15 p. m. the winner of the Thief River Falls vs. Climax game will play the winner of the Alvarado vs. Oslo game.

The district championship game is slated for Tuesday night, June 1st, at 8:00 p. m.

On their season's record, Thief River Falls, Alvarado and Red Lake Falls will enter the tourney as favorites. Red Lake Falls, drawing a first-round bye, will be top-heavy favorites to reach the finals. It's possible that coach King will be able to save his right-handed pitching ace, Ronnie LaChance, for the finals, and if that should occur, the Eagles will be a good bet to cop the district crown.

In the lower bracket, the Prowlers and the Alvarado Indians will be the favorites to reach the semi-finals, with the locals having an edge over Climax in a first round game and Alvarado being a heavy favorite to defeat Oslo. If the Prowlers and the Indians gain the semi-finals, that game could prove to be the tournament's best.

College Material

Art Johnson, the highest scorer in Prowler basketball history, is, according to the latest reports, planning on entering Concordia College at Moorhead next year. Art, a six-foot, five-inch youngster, not yet eighteen years old, and weighing 225 pounds, will be a valuable addition to the Cobber basketball squad.

Marvin Jorde and Mike McMahon, all-state members of Dennis Rolle's state championship hockey Prowlers, are slated for the University of Minnesota. Marv, a center-ice player, and Mike, a defenseman, should make the Gopher hockey coach, John Mariucci, very happy. Darryl Durgin and Les Sabo may go to Michigan State; Lyle Guttu may gain a scholarship at Harvard University; Jim Zavoral has decided to enter North Dakota U, and the Sioux would like to have Bob Helgeland there, too. Bob, in addition to his ability as a hockey player, would make a fine college football player.

We've learned that Prowler goalie Jack Hoppe has received a letter from the Grand Forks Redwings asking if he, Jack would be available to play with the Redwings next season when they intend to make an exhibition trip to Japan.

Fish on the Stringer

Reports on fish and fishing continue to come in, and they continue favorable. Last Wednesday, fishing at Long Point on Lake of the Woods, Myron Haroldson caught a 11-pound 8-ounce walleyed pike, and a short while after Myron had boated that "monster," his wife caught a 8-pound 8-ounce walleye. Those two fish should keep the Haroldson freezer well-filled.

Last Thursday afternoon, or evening, Gunnof Homme and Culver Bottom, casting spoons in the lagoon east of the Squaw Point bridge, caught a pair of northern pike that were dandies. One weighed nine pounds, and the other weighed eight and half pounds. And those weights are actual, for we put the fish on the scales.

With the wind and the rain that prevailed during the week-end, Lake of the Woods proved to be troubled water, and the anglers who ventured out into the white-caps reported that fishing was "slow." Clarence Selvog, of the Selvog Fisheries at Warroad, told us that he didn't think that the fishing in the lake would improve until the weather moderated, and he expected that to take about a week.

Golf Notes

The local club announced that a shortstop tournament will be played here on Sunday, May 30th. The usual procedure will be followed, with the golfers being arranged in flights according to their qualifying scores. Merchandise awards will be given to the flight winners, runners-up, and consolation winners. Golfers intending to enter the tournament should phone or mail their qualifying scores in to the golf club-house, Bob Bredeson, or L. L. Tygeson.

By the way, who are those local golfers who are attempting to arrange some leisure time for Stan Dahlen so that he Stan, can read the club's rules, particularly as they pertain to the 4th hole?

Ralph Skjod and Joe Mrkonich attended the Coaches Football Clinic at the University of Minnesota Friday and Saturady. Over 300 Minnesota coaches in attendance.

Prowler Ball Club Will Play Tonight at Red Lake Falls

Locals to Face Climax in 1st Round of District Playoffs on Saturday

Coach Ralph Skjod's defending champion Prowlers will conclude their pre-tournament schedule on Wednesday night, May 26th, when they meet coach Darold King's Red Lake Falls Eagles in a district baseball game under the lights at Red Lake Falls at 8:00 p. m. On Saturday afternoon, May 29th, the Prowlers will begin the defense of their district title when, at 2:00 p. m. at Red Lake Falls, they meet the Climax Vikings in a first round tilt.

Sparked by a 1st inning homerun over the left field barrier by Sid Vraa, the Prowlers, on Thursday afternoon, clubbed the offerings of Alvarado's Denny Kollin and Dwayne Ekman, both righthanders, for eleven hits and register a decisive 16 to 3 victory over the Indians. Vraa, in addition to his homerun blast, proved effective on the defense, pitching a four-hitter and striking out fourteen Alvarado batters.

The loss was the first that coach Sharley Picken's Alvarado club had received in district competition this season.

Alvarado	101 001 0	3	4	4
T. R. Falls	012 072 x	16	11	1

Batteries: Kollin, Ekman and Malm; Vraa and Hoppe.

Boy Scouts Promote Conserving Nation's Natural Resources

The Lake Agassiz Council, Boy Scoutes of America, has mobilized its entire membership of 3800 boys and leaders at the request of President Eisenhower, honorary president of the organization, "to perform a national conservation good turn" this year.

An extensive educational and technical conservation program during this spring, summer and fall will engage the best efforts of 176 Cub Packs, Boy Scout troops and Explorer posts in the Lake Agassiz council, according to A. Neil York, scout executive.

Each unit is cooperating on a district wide basis to do that which is most needed in their community. Visitations to lumber yards, city water plants, and talks by foresters and movies are among some of the activities of Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts are assisting in tree planting, bird house building, planting brush for wildlife, and releasng upland game.

The first step in the program is for each of the nation's 3,400,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and adult leaders to agree to participate in the Conservation Good Turn and live up to Outdoor Code.

It is believed that when more than 3,400,000 Scouts and leaders thmeslves practice good outdoor maners, they in turn will influence millions of others in their families and also frends.

The serious lack of understanding on the part of a large segment of the American public of what constitutes good outdoor manners is the first major consideration.

Millions of dollars are spent each year to clean up litter from highways, parks, roadsides, picnic areas.

It is expected that most of the nation's 900,000 adult volunteer Scout leaders will promote acceptance of the outdoor code among adult groups of which they are members including church clubs, civic clubs, service clubs, fraternal groups, sportsmen's clubs, farm groups and other community organizations.

Before many of these groups, specially-trained crews of Explorers will present the code and urge its acceptance. Other Explorers will place posters carrying the outdoor code at fishing tackle stores, outdoor equipment stores, Chambers of Commerce, gasoline stations and other places where tourists, sportsmen, campers and others could be urged to have a higher regard for the beauty of the nations' roadsides, water, parks and forests.

W. Moscrip, Famed Holstein Breeder, Is Dairy Day Judge

Noted Authority to Judge Cattle Brought in by Cow Testing Assn. Members

The Northwest Dairy Improvement Association announced today that it has succeeded in securing W. S. Moscrip to judge the cattle that will be brought in to Northwest Dairy Day June 8 by adult producers having herds in testing associations.

Mr. Moscrip for over forty years was the leading breeder of Holstein cattle in the midwest. He is the breeder of one of the all-time great bulls, known as North Star Joe Homestead, that made All American Age Bull in 1924 and was the leading honor list sire in 1930. North Star Joe sired Governor of Carnation, and was also the sire of three gold medal sires. In 1910 Mr. Moscrip had the Grand Champion at the National Dairy Show. He has served in many capacities in the state and national Holstein Association, having the distinction of being President of the National Association for five years; and was a director of the National Association for sixteen years. He was also Chairman of the True Type Committee.

Mr. Moscrip, at the last state convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association in Hutchinson, was awarded a plaque for his distinguished and outstanding service, not only to dairy industry state and nationally, but for his lifetime devotion to the breeding of better dairy cattle.

The dairy improvement association feels that Mr. Moscrip's presence here is a distinct honor, as he has judged every major dairy cattle show on the continent, having judged the National at Waterloo, Iowa for fifteen consecutive years. Everyone interested in the dairy industry will have an opportunity which probably was never shared by many in the Northwest when Mr. Moscrip goes into the judging ring on Dairy Day on June 8th.

Annual Meeting of Garden Valley Phone Co. June 1

Three Directors to Be Elected at Session in Erskine Next Tuesday

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Garden Valley Telephone company will be held at Erskine in the city hall at 1:30 p. m., June 1st. The main items of business to be taken care off will be the election of three directors in the three districts where the director's terms expire and to hear the manager's annual report.

This year Melvin Petterson of Mentor, Willie Beckstrom of Fosston, and John Berg of Gully are completing their three years of service allotted to each elected director. Mr. Petterson represents the Erskine and Winger exchange area; Mr. Beckstrom represents the Fosston exchange; Mr. Berg represents the Gully, Oklee and Plummer exchange area.

The other directors of the company are Walter Johnson, Red Lake Falls, Albert Anderson, Clearbrook, Christ Clausen, Gryglа, Herbert Larson, Fertile, J. K. Halvorson, McIntosh and Walter E. Day of Bagley.

A meeting of the board of directors was held at Red Lake Falls last Thursday for another bid letting which will cover the construction of new rural pole line and the McIntosh, Oklee and Plummer exchange areas. There were eight bidders on this project and the low bidder was the Mid-Sota Construction Company of Wadena.

The contract and the bid have been submitted to the REA at Washington and it is expected that approval will be secured in a short time and that the contractor will begin operations within a month or so. All rural pole line plant has been constructed or contracted for except Fosston, Bagley, Winger and Erskine exchanges and plans are under way for letting contracts for this work also. In the meantime the remaining exchange buildings are being constructed and central office equipment is being installed. The Fertile exchange is the most recent one to be cut over to dial and will be in full operation at the end of this week with Gonvick and Mentor coming up next.

There's a double holiday coming and that means double danger on the highways. Where there is an extra hazard, that is a good place to be extra careful.

THE IN-AND-OUTERS MAKE TROUBLE

A survey by Iowa State college reveals that increased hog production is due largely to the stepped up activity of the in-and-outer producer. Recent high prices have encouraged many farmers to raise a "few" hogs and a "few" multiplied by many is enough to break the market.

And so it is with poultry and turkeys and potatoes and other products. Periods of low production and high prices are followed by high production and low prices and these periods of rise and fall become regularly recurring cycles. That is the natural but costly way of controlling production.

Orderly production controls level off the peaks and depressions with results that generally are more satisfactory to both producers and consumers. Orderly production is made more difficult by the in-and-out producers.

THE COST OF HIGHER EDUCATION

A McGraw-Hill study on the financial problems of our colleges and universities concludes that while institutions of higher education that are supported by public funds have fared quite well in the past ten years, the independent, privately endowed schools are in serious difficulty. Main reason for their financial difficulty, the study finds, is because their income from endowments has decreased at a time when inflation has reduced the purchasing power of their scarcer dollars.

Minnesota's private schools are not exceptions to the condition that exists nationally. Our privately maintained colleges here in Minnesota are an important part of our state's system of higher education. Every effort should be made to strengthen their financial position in order that they may be able to meet their share of the expanding needs of our growing population and continue to maintain high academic standards.

We have inherited an obligation to make elementary education available to all youngsters, and we have assumed an obligation to provide secondary education to all our our young people at public expense. We do not have an obligation however to provide, at public expense, four or six or eight years of college for all who seek it. At this level the student is expected to contribute toward the cost of his own education. How much of that cost he should pay is always a fair question, and as the problem of maintaining our colleges becomes critical we need to come up with some definite answers.

Most of us would agree that those who could afford it should should pay the entire cost of their own higher education. All would agree too, we think, that higher education should be made available to all who deserve it, regardless of their ability to pay.

We have recognized this need to some extent by scholarships, grants and loans, and perhaps in these ways we may find the solution for much of this problem. Revolving funds, available to students as personal loans, and to be repaid as a moral obligation to help others secure an education, have proven of great value on a limited scale. On a larger scale they should be of greater value.

GENEVA NOT OUR VICTORY

Our foreign policy seems to have sheared a pin at the Geneva conference and, for the time being at least, we are making no progress in convincing the Reds that better they mend their ways in southeastern Asia. There were two courses open to us at Geneva, it has been pointed out. One was appeasement, and the other a firm stand and a show of strength. The western powers were not in favor of appeasement. Neither would they agree to a policy of united, armed resistance. With no course to follow we have been drifting—and getting nowhere.

Maybe it is just as well that we are forced to slow down. With a little more time the issues will probably clarify. We are not going to save southeastern Asia without a lot of help from the people of southeastern Asia. So far there is little indication that they want to be saved.

Geneva was set up primarily as a conference on Korean difficulties. Developments in Indo-China have forced this new problem into the forefront as a more critical issue and we were not prepared for it. It was forced upon us under circumstances that make it appear we are defending European colonialism and we had two strikes on us before we got started.

The wise thing to do, it would seem, would be to slow down long enough to regain our balance.

DAIRY INDUSTRY'S HOME PROBLEMS

Creamery manager G. S. Bergland has released the figures on the first month of operation at the local plant under the lowered price supports. For butterfat in milk, suitable for cheese making, the April price was 76c a pound. For butterfat in cream to be manufactured into butter the creamery paid 61c a pound. This spread of 15c a pound for the same kind of fat to be marketed in two different forms points up the importance of having a diversified market for butterfat.

Most of the butterfat produced in this area goes on the market in the form of cream to be churned into butter, and, sold in this form, it brings the lowest price. Butterfat sold in whole milk is marketed in various forms, and brings a premium price. To be sold as whole milk at a premium price it must have special handling. Better equipment is required and greater attention must be given to the factors that enter into quality production.

There is an increasing spread too between quality cream for butter production and undergrade cream. At the present time this spread is only 1c a pound, but the spread is likely to increase as time goes on.

These figures raise important questions both for the individual dairy farmer and for the dairy community. The industry is at a crossroads and important decisions have to be made by producers individually and collectively. A few things are certain. If we are to remain in the business we will have to give more consideration than ever before to quality. Volume seems to be essential to efficient production. A diversified market is necessary to the most favorable returns.

Operations Started on Looping Project of Lakehead Pipeline

Work began in earnest on the Lakehead Pipeline looping program last week, reports the Clearbrook Leader. During the past several weeks, since the R. H. Fulton Company, which has the contract for construction of the loops from Clearbrook to Plummer and from Viking to the Canadian border, set up their headquarters in Gonvick, material has been arriving daily. Heavy machines have been unloaded at the Clearbrook station and moved to the pumping station where the work of laying the 26-inch pipe will begin.

Monday shovels and trenching machines began digging the trench. Arriving at Clearbrook were 25 cars of pipe which were unloaded Monday and Tuesday. Brushing crews have cleared the path for the line as far north as Plummer.

When construction of the loop in this area is completed, in two or three months, the Fulton crews will move north. Headquarters will be established perhaps at Thief River Falls, Warren or Stephen for the northern link operation, according to job superintendent Carrigan.

Work also began during the week on excavating for the addition to be built on to the pumping station at Clearbrook which will house three additional diesel pumping units to be installed when the building is completed.

Motorists Urged to Use Care over Holiday Week-end

Petroleum Industries Committee Head Cites Tragic Traffic Toll

Motorists were reminded today to drive carefully over the coming holiday week end and throughout the summer by J. B. McDonald, Chairman of the Minnesota Petroleum Industries committee. McDonald added that that the oil industry was fully behind the excellent highway safety program being conducted by the Minnesota Safety Council.

"Beginning with the week end just ahead, the next three months will see more people out on our highways than at any other period of the year," he said. "Many of them will be enjoying their annual vacation by taking a trip in the family car. But what will happen if a needless accident turns the pleasure into a tragedy?"

McDonald underlined as a grim fact that one person is killed in a motor vehicle disaster every 14 minutes of the day—"a death that could almost certainly have been avoided if just plain, simple care and courtesy had been used."

The most important factor responsible for traffic injuries and deaths, according to the business spokesmen, is excessive speed. "Of all the fatalities that occurred last year as the result of driver actions, almost half took place when the speed limit was being exceeded," he remarked. "No wonder that we're being called on to slow down and live."

Insurance statistics, he noted, show that almost 80 per cent of all traffic accidents can be attributed to one or more driver errors. Most common are driving too fast, proceeding when the other person has the right of way, and driving recklessly or on the wrong side of the road.

Grand Coulee Dam in Washington is the largest concrete structure in the world. It is 4,178 feet long and 550 feet high from the granite block on which it rests to the 80 foot-wide highway that crosses its top.

About 8 tons of bituminous coal per capita are consumed annually in the United States.

According to Mr. R C Hadlich, camping chairman for the Lake Agassiz Council, over 400 boys are signed up for Camp Wahaunaquat at Ogema this summer. Many more units have signified their intention to register but have not done so as yet. When these registrations come in it is expected that the camp capacity of 600 boys will be reached.

Watch for Ducks with Red Marks, Game Bureau Asks

Minnesota sportsmen and outdoor enthusiasts have been asked to on the lookout for ducks with red markings. They are not a new species. The scarlet spots are red dye, applied for identification purposes.

The Florida game and fresh water fish commission, during the past two months, has been banding and dyeing ducks on the northwestern shore of Lake Okeechobee in south Florida. A red dye has been used which is quite effective and makes the birds easily identifiable, both from the air during aerial census work and on the ground during routine observation. So far, 523 bluewing teal and small numbers of shovellers, pintails, blacks, scaup, and ringneck ducks have been dyed. The dye is very conspicuous, especially on the under surface of the wings.

Anyone observing such ducks in Minnesota is asked to notify the Bureau of Game, Minnesota division of game and fish, State Office Building, Saint Paul. It will be of assistance in determining the migration routes of these teal which pass through southern Florida.

Fly the stars and stripes in honor of all those who have given so much in the cause of freedom.

"It was a top notch program at the Smiley Community Club Friday evening. It could not help but be so what with such talent that assembled there. Mrs. Max Jensen and Mrs. J. Miramontes really knew their stuff as vocalist and accordionist, respectively. They were quite attractive in their Scandinavian costumes and were quite the toasts with repeated curtain calls. The Steiner Community Club people made quite a hit with the Smiley gang. They are a group of good sports. They presented an excellent one-act play, "The Dummy." Several Steiner women were dressed to the hilt for their hilarious skit, "At the Railroad Station." Milton and Blaine Lieran sang two numbers. To all these wonderful people does the Smiley Club extend the warmest "thank you" for their services in the entertainment field. Miss Margery Olson, home agent, showed an interesting and short film on a canning phase. She also spoke briefly on pressure cookers. A novel idea was introduced by Mrs. Adam Lendobeja by dividing the huge crowd into four parts with each part headed by the following women respectively, Mrs. Rudolph Hanson whose group entertained with a rhythm band, Mrs. Norton Nelson whose group was represented by eight men reciting nursery rhymes. Mrs. Ted Lendobeja whose group was represented by several characters pantomiming the Red Riding Hood tale with Mrs. Lendobeja as narrator. Lunch was served by the Melvin Torkelson, Mark Olson and Bob Kraemer families.

The 200-horsepower Buick Century is the Riviera—the hardtop model that's taking America by storm.

Live wire that really looks it
(One reason why Buick is such a big success this year!)

Its sports-car lines tell you there's lift and spirit here enough for any man.

Even standing still this glamor car looks alive.

And that look-of-tomorrow styling that's part and parcel of every new Buick—that sweeping panoramic windshield with the dream-car slant—all that says there's action here, and plenty of it.

But just note the name "CENTURY" emblazoned on its rear fender, and you can take it as gospel that this is a performance car of the very first water.

It's the livest of the live wires—the highest-voltage Buick in the line.

It is instant on getaway, a joy in cruising, a breeze on hills—and a honey of a friend in the added safety of its plenty reserve power always on hand for sudden needs.

It is, in fact, a 200-horsepower performance car, and priced far below it—the highest-powered car at its price in the land.

With this great-powered good-looker setting the pace—and with equally impressive SPECIALS, SUPERS and ROADMASTERS adding to the excitement—is it any wonder Buick today is outselling every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three"?

Come in and try one of these gorgeous new Buicks. With the prices we're quoting, you can make the buy of the year this very week.

BUICK Sales are Soaring!

He used a garden hose for a lifeline!

The afternoon was quiet as telephone installer Vince Warren walked past the old house at the town's edge. Suddenly a woman appeared from the back yard.

"Come help," she shouted, "Mrs. Baxter's fallen in the well!"

Warren ran to the spot. There, some 15 feet down, a nearly exhausted woman was splashing and clinging desperately to the side of the well.

Glancing about, Vince spotted a garden hose nearby. Swiftly, he tied one end to a tree. Then, lowering himself down into the deep water, he supported the woman until other rescuers arrived with a rope. When the ambulance arrived, Mrs. Baxter was already responding to first aid—expertly applied by the telephone man.

In this true story, only names have been changed. Telephone installer Vince Warren might be working in your town. For this incident is simply an example of the courage and quick thinking so often displayed in emergencies by telephone men and women.

It is their same resourcefulness and skill—on the job—that makes good telephone service even more valuable.

IT'S FOR YOU! . . . the world's most dependable telephone service—priced at just a few pennies a day.

PERSPECTIVE

What do you see, Sonny? A plane, streaking across the sky? A pony, galloping into the sunset? A sailboat, gliding across the lake? If I were to look into those glasses, I might see other things. For you are viewing the world with the eyes of youth . . . while mine is the sight of age.

I, too, can marvel at the speed of a plane, the grace of a pony, the beauty of a sailboat. But in all of them, I sense a force much greater than that of the man who pilots the plane, saddles the pony, or rigs the sail.

You are learning about that force when you go to Church each Sunday, and understanding it will be one of the greatest assets in your life. It will teach you to keep things in their proper perspective so that, when you get to be my age, though your sight may be dimmer, you will see so much . . . so very much . . . more.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New driver comfort !
New driving ease !

New Chevrolet Trucks... do more work per day . . . more work per dollar!

You save time in traffic. New truck Hydra-Matic transmission gets you off to smooth, time-saving starts without shifting or clutching. Imagine how easy this makes driving in traffic and on delivery routes! It's optional at extra cost on ½-, ¾- and 1-ton models.

You save time on the highway. New high-compression power gets you up to highway speeds from a standing start in less time, and saves you time on hills, too. You make trips faster—and the new Comfortmaster cab makes them seem shorter. It's got everything!

You save extra trips, too. That's because of the extra load space you get in the new Advance-Design bodies. New pickup bodies are deeper . . . new stake and platform bodies are wider and longer. Also, they're set lower to the ground for easier loading.

You save on operating costs. High-compression power saves you money! The "Thriftmaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235," and the "Jobmaster 261" (optional on 2-ton models at extra cost), deliver greater horsepower plus increased operating economy.

You save with lower upkeep. New Chevrolet trucks are built stronger to last longer and save you money on maintenance. There are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models . . . bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models . . . stronger frames in all models.

And your savings start the day you buy. In fact, they start with the low price you pay—and they never stop. Chevrolet, you know, is America's lowest priced line of trucks. And it's also the truck that has a traditionally high trade-in value.

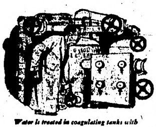
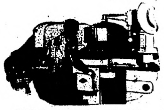
The chief chemist of The Coca-Cola Company is in charge of quality control. He determines rules and procedures in the production of Coca-Cola.

Chemists in syrup plants make continuous tests of ingredients for taste, strength and purity so as to maintain constant levels of the refreshing qualities in Coca-Cola. Each syrup plant has its own trained chemist.

Production men from bottling plants across the nation attend classes at The Coca-Cola Company offices. Regulations and procedures in quality control are stressed in these lectures.



Water is treated in coagulating tanks with chemicals selected to control alkalinity and acidity as well as purity. Modern filtration processes remove any solids present and elements which affect taste.



Production superintendents make daily checks on carbonation, bottle-filling levels, sterilization and other factors in the efficiency of equipment. In Coca-Cola bottling plants the production superintendent oversees the entire operation.

Chemists and engineers of the Traveling Laboratories make frequent visits to Coca-Cola bottling plants, bringing information on the latest refinements in operation and production and the technical assistance to apply them.

Sixty-eight years ago, an ambitious pharmacist in Atlanta, Georgia, blended delicate flavors from nine sunny climes to create a distinct new drink — Coca-Cola. It was one man's idea . . . one man's labor.

In the beginning, the amount of Coca-Cola needed to satisfy early customers was small. The pharmacist had ample time to control the quality of the new beverage . . . himself dispensed it to his patrons.

But news of the delicious drink spread to other stores and other cities, to other states and other lands. Hundreds, then thousands, and then millions learned to pause and refresh with ice-cold Coca-Cola.

As growth took place, the lone pharmacist gave way to trained chemists and engineers from the halls of science.—For it has ever been a guiding principle of the business that the quality of Coca-Cola must be constantly safeguarded and maintained.

That very principle in turn accelerated growth. The gas-lit laboratory was succeeded by white-tiled rooms where test and analysis quietly went their way. Stainless steel routed wood and iron. Water, which varies so much from one community to another, was moulded to a uniform standard of quality.

In order to protect the delicate flavors of the product, the water used in Coca-Cola must be not only pure but also neutral to the taste. Here in our bottling plant we treat water with modern filtration processes. The flow to the bottling machines is a clear, pure liquid.

Today, The Coca-Cola Company and every Coca-Cola bottling plant are staffed with experts in quality control, in production, and in the training of employees to safeguard quality and purity. They all work toward a single objective: to bring you delicious and refreshing Coca-Cola in every bottle—wholesome to drink and pure as sunlight.

George D. Bang

PRESIDENT
CROOKSTON COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

to visit our bottling plant at any time to see for yourself why you can taste its quality when you drink Coca-Cola.

Where else does purity mean so much?

Many Geese Seen at Mud Lake This Spring

Record numbers of Canada geese have been using the marshes and grain fields in the Mud Lake Refuge this spring.

There always has been a token flight of spring migrants stopping over for a week or two for resting and feeding before resuming the flight on to the northern nesting areas in Canada.

Since 1949, however, when numbers of goslings were transplanted from Michigan, and following construction of the 150-acre goose pen, there has been a gradual but definite increase in goose production and in utilization of the refuge area.

The first verified nesting of geese in 35 years took place within the goose pen in May of 1951. Since that time a number of broods have been observed, along with many observations of family groups, from spring through the summer, and up to the time when the first fall migrants commence arriving.

Special emphasis has been directed toward developing and improving farm lands within the refuge boundaries. Most of the farming is being concentrated in the immediate vicinity of the pen. The crops are so planned as to provide necessary grains and greens (alfalfa, clover, fall rye), for feeding during the entire period of early spring and on into late fall.

The refuge grain fields within the goose pen have been visited daily by geese varying in number from singles and pairs up to 400 birds. Geese raised on the refuge during the period of 1951-53 have returned in mated pairs, and family groups, and are apparently successfully decoying other geese into the area, in some cases. Evidence to date indicates that in two possible instances migrant geese have mated with wing-clipped captives.

The final objective, of course, is to build up the refuge flock so that goose hunting in this area may be greatly improved.

The hunting loss on refuge geese must be kept to a very minimum for the next several years until the refuge is producing sufficient birds to permit an annual "take" without decreasing the capital or reservoir flock.

It is believed that a total of 80-100 geese have been reared within the refuge since 1951.

Records and observations this season point toward another increase in the production of goslings.

An additional 30-40 goslings are also being transferred from Seney to Mud Lake during this June to further assure a sufficient resident breeding population for the future.

Greenbush Sheep Days Scheduled for June 11 and 12

Senior and Junior Sheep Shearing Contests and Style Show on Program

Minnesota sheep growers announced today that the annual Greenbush Sheep Days this year will be held on Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

It is planned to devote all of the first day, Friday, to a shearing school which will be conducted by Ed Warner of Chicago. Mr. Warner makes a specialty of conducting these schools all over the United States and has trained thousands of young fellows how to shear sheep. He teaches the Australian method which is the most widely used of all systems. There will be no charge for this instruction and all who wish to learn are urged to send their entries to their local County Agent or Agricultural Teacher.

Saturday, the second day, will be full of events pertaining to sheep. At ten o'clock there will be an educational meeting for sheep men which will be held in the village hall. The main feature of this meeting will be a panel of sheep experts which will be set up to answer questions posed by sheep men. While this meeting is going on, the judging events will be taking place at the sheep grounds. Winners in these events will receive prizes of high grade breeding ewes.

The senior shearing contest will start at one o'clock p. m. with the best shearers in this section of the state competing for prizes. The senior contest will be followed by a junior shearing contest which will be new this year. Following the shearing contests there will be a style show in which 4-H girls will model attractive woolen garments.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Sheep Growers will be held at 4:30 p. m. and will be followed by a banquet at six o'clock p. m. The final event of the day will be a dance which will be held at the village hall in the evening.

Betty Grable and Rory Calhoun, Lauren Bacall and Cameron Mitchell, Marilyn Monroe and David Wayne — the sextet from "How to Marry a Millionaire," ace Technicolor comedy from Twentieth Century-Fox in the new process of CinemaScope, coming Sunday to the Falls Theatre. William Powell also stars.

Fire Losses for Nation Are Higher Than a Year Ago

Estimated fire losses in the United States during April amounted to $77,933,000, it was reported in New York last week (Tuesday) by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, NBFU's general manager, this loss represents an increase of 15.7 per cent over losses of $67,362,000 reported for April, 1953, and a decrease of 8.1 per cent from losses of $84,821,000 for March, 1954.

Losses for the first four months of 1954 now total $328,175,000 an increase of 9.3 per cent over the first four months of 1953, when they amounted to $300,198,000.

Women's Camp at N. W. School Set for June 14 to 17

Many Room Reservations Have Already Been Made; Supt. T. McCall Reports

The 29th annual Women's Camp will be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, on June 14-17. Superintendent T. M. McCall reports that a large number of room reservations have already been received and prospects are bright for a record enrollment. The camp is open to women of the Red River Valley counties of Minnesota and North Dakota. Registration for the camp begins on Monday afternoon, June 14, and the camp continues through Thursday noon, June 17.

A program of more than general interest has been arranged. Each woman will be able to participate in three handicraft activities. The handicraft work offered this year will be: woodcraft, metal craft, and floriculture. Lecture demonstration for the camp will be covered by Glenn Cunningham, interior decorator of Grand Forks, North Dakota, and Miss Eves Whitfield of the Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul—new fabrics and clothing styles.

Speakers for the camp program will be Mrs. J. E. Madden of Crookston who will present a book review and Mrs. H. H. Hodgson of Crookston who will give a travelogue. Miss Retta Bede of the Northwest School faculty is camp leader.

Swimming in the indoor pool, always a popular form of recreation at the camp, will again be under the supervision of a competent instructor. Movies and other entertainment will be provided for each night during the camp.

Women who are interested in attending the Women's Camp should write to the Northwest School, Crookston, Minnesota, for information and room reservations in the dormitory.

"PERFECTIONISTS"

Twice a day for many years W. R. Werring and Douglas Rans have limbered up the cribbage board at Morgan. Early this May, for the first time, a perfect 29 hand was pegged: Mr. Werring held three fives and the jack of clubs, and the five of clubs was turned.—Phil Teschendorf, with a season's average of 178 on the LeSueur bowling alleys, ended the season in a blaze of glory with a perfect 300.

27 4-H'ers to Make Mississippi Trip

Four from This Area Are Included in Delegation

Mississippi 4-H club members will act as hosts to 27 4-H'ers from Minnesota this summer.

Names of the 14 girls and 13 boys who will make the trip from Minnesota to the southern state starting June 15 were released today by Bernard V. Beadle, district 4-H supervisor from the University of Minnesota, who will accompany them, along with Mr. Beadle.

The 27 Minnesota youths will represent their respective counties as delegates in the Minnesota-Mississippi 4-H club exchange, established four years ago to give young people an understanding of agricultural conditions and the way of life in another section of the country. An important part of he exchange is he opportunity it provides for delegates to live and work with the people.

The delegates include Janice Sorenson, 17, Hallock; Nancy Kruger, 19, Warren; Lois Hagen, 17, Badger; and William Peterson, 18, Plummer.

Sponsors of the exchange program are the Minnesota and Mississippi Agricultural Extension Services. The Minneapolis Tribune is giving financal support to the project.

This year marks the second time for a Minnesota 4-H delegation to go to Mississippi. They will spend part of the time living in homes of 4-H members in agricultural areas and the remainder of the time visiting places of special interest in the state. Last year 27 4-H members from the southern state came to Minnesota to observe farm life in he North.

Reduce Leaf Loss!

THE KELLY RYAN
FRONT MOUNTED—SIDE MOUNTED OR PULL-TYPE SIDE DELIVERY RAKE

KELLY RYAN

HERE'S WHY THE Rakeaway DOES A BETTER JOB

LESS LEAF LOSS: because of the gentle rolling action, the Rakeaway doesn't thrash the leaves out on the ground. 75% of your clover and alfalfa crop is in the leaves. Save the leaves, with the gentle raking action of the Rakeaway.

MORE HAY PER ACRE: the flexibility permits raking over the high and low spots at the same time.

A BETTER WINDROW FOR YOUR BALER: no bunches or roping of your hay. Solid wheels afford greater efficiency in raking against the wind. 6th wheel extension available to increase swath to approximately 10 feet.

MINIMUM MAINTENANCE: wheels are ground driven, no gears, chains or high speed parts to wear out.

50 YEARS AGO

June 20 The Date

In the issue of the Thief River Falls News of May 12, 1904, editor Eastman proclaimed joyfully that the sale of the Red Lake reservation lands would be held on Monday, June 13. He pointed out that some misinformed people were spreading the information that the sale would be a week later, on June 20, but he had direct-from-the-feed-box information. The sale was to be on the 13th.

In the next week's issue however Mr. Eastman confirmed the June 20th date, and gave more detailed information as to how the auction would proceed. The lands in the northwest corner of the reservation would be the first to be offered. The sale would proceed through each township, section by section, numerically, and moving from north to south by townships. The first lands sold therefore were in the town of North and the corner of Rocksbury that extended into the reservation. Hickory and a corner of Johnson in Polk county would be the last to be sold.

Hotels were already doing a rushing business. "Thief River Falls has always been a good hotel town," said the News. "There are always a large number of transient people here and at the present time there are in the neighborhood of 25 hotels, several of which can accomodate 50 guests each." Several new hotels were nearing completion and would be ready for the rush of settlers.

Thief River Falls vs. Crookston

Col. O'Brien, a special service man of the general land office, who would have charge of the sale of the eleven townships, had arrived and "will remain until after the sale." Col. O'Brien had had charge of the Oklahoma opening several years earlier. In the meantime Crookston, where the federal land office was located, evidently had attempted to have the sale held in that city, but gloated Mr. Eastman, "Crookston is trying to get into the game too late."

The Thief River Falls-Crookston argument generated considerable heat. Congressman Steenerson, a resident of Crookston, was given credit (or blamed) for the sale being held in Thief River Falls. Crookston people didn't like it, and they didn't like, too, a suggestion that the land office itself be moved to Thief River Falls. Editor Eastman, however, was very happy. "The only thing that can be said against Congressman Steenerson," he chortled, "is that he lives in Crookston and it now appears that he has moved out of there and into the ninth district."

Much space in the News of May 26 was devoted to an explanation of the official rules and regulations of the sale. They covered the problem in greater detail but in general they followed the plan as previously indicated. The place where the sale would be held in Thief River Falls had not yet been determined but the school officials had offered the new high school building and it was thought likely that this offer would be accepted.

Boom Town Problems

The city of Thief River Falls was booming and had many boom-town problems. Along with other types of transients there were transient merchants. Local clothiers didn't like the looks of a couple of fellows who were operating the "Guarantee Clothing Store." They had moved in after the May 1st assessment date and the council instructed the city attorney to secure a bond in the amount of $500 from the new businessmen as a guarantee that they and their "guarentees" would still be here a year later, and that on their stock, if not taxed elsewhere, they would pay taxes here. A week later a Grand Forks man was arrested and fined for doing business out of a box car without a license.

Removal of Indian Graves

Col. Downs had returned to complete arrangements for the removal of the bodies of Indians buried on the lands to be opened for settlement, as provided by the opening law. He had returned with a list of the names of 82 dead and the location of their graves but it was thought the number might be increased to 100. Indians who were members of the Catholic Church would be reburied in the Catholic cemetery at the Red Lake agency. Others would "be reburied at a suitable point on the banks of the Red Lake River just across the reservation line." Bids were being called for, payment to be in terms of so much for each body removed. "A number of local people will put in bids."

"Prospective settlers are commencing to come in and look over the Red Lake reservation lands to be sold on June 20, although the big rush is not expected until a few days before the sale," reported the News in its June 2 issue. "A large majority of the men looking over the land are well-to-do farmers from the southern part of the state who have sons and that desire to secure farms of their own, and find the land in the southern part of the state high priced, while it is of no better quality. Others represent their neighbors who will be up here when the land is going to be sold."

Five Crops a Year?

In that June 2 issue the News also heralded the information that it had now been proven that alfalfa could be grown successfully in the Red River valley. A Warren farmer had planted a four-acre tract the year before and it had survived the winter wonderfully well. "Alfalfa is rather tender the first year," Mr. Eastman explained, "but when once the roots get hold it will produce four or five crops a year." Mr. Eastman evidently was of a very hopeful disposition.

Hustling and bustling Thief River Falls was going to build a new power house, and there was to be a new water wheel, all of which would cost upwards of $4,000. "The electric light plant has been a money maker for the city and all of the improvements to be made will be paid for out of the earning of the plant."

Young Folks and New Dances

And elderly Mr. and Mrs. Eastman, along with several other old couples attended a "Young Folks Club" dance. "They were invited presumably to inspect the beauty and dignity of the young people who have devoted many evenings during the past winter to two-steps, three-steps and four-steps," Eastman surmised. "That the young people danced gracefully and with much apparent enjoyment, all must admit, but, so great has been the change in the maneuvering since the married folks had attended a dance, that they were unable to say whethr or not all the steps—which were numerous—were properly taken or not."

And so, on this important question, we probably will forever remain uninformed.

STEINER . . .

Idea of Christian Service Stressed by Rev. E. C. Mead

Local Pastor Addresses Lincoln School Seniors at Baccalaureate Rites

Addressing the Lincoln high school graduating class at baccalaureate services Sunday evening, the Rev. E. C. Mead, minister of the Community Methodist church, pointed out the development in religious life during the past half century of the spirit of Christian service.

Today, he said, people concentrate their religious zeal on the things they do, and talk less about the heavenly mansions and more about their home on earth.

Sinful as the world is today, he declared, our only hope for salvation depends on contact with it, adding that only thru Christian service does life become complete.

The services opened with the processional march played by Ara Peterson, pianist, followed by the invocation and by two selections by the Lincoln high school chorus, directed by Miss Marlys Carlander. Completing the rites were two hymns sung by the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams attended the graduation exercises of their son Robert from Concordia college in Moorhead over the weekend.

Council Opens Bids on Street Lights June 23

Commissioners Named to Appraise Property Sought for Parking Lots

Entry List of Fully 300 Calves Expected at 5th Annual Exhibit

Parade, Banquet and Princess Contest to Be Special Features of Day

The fifth anniversary Northwest Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 8, has already broken all previous records with 275 calf entries already in and some counties not yet heard from. This figure tops last year's record of 254 entries and should hit the 300 mark, according to Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsors of Dairy Day.

Thousands of visitors are expected for the largest of Minnesota's dairy shows for boys and girls. Spectators will have a full day of activities, including judging of seven breeds of cattle with about 30 classes, a showmanship contest, class champion awards for both grade and purebred animals, and a parade of champions with all entries participating and prize awards for every participant.

Last year's grand champion grade winner will be presented with a purebred Holstein calf purchased from the Minnesota state prison farm at Stillwater, which is nationally famous for its Holstein herd. This award goes to Robert Brinkman of Wannaska who was the 1953 winner.

A similar award will be won next Tuesday by the boy or girl showing the top grade animal, while the one showing the best purebred calf will recieve a free trip to the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, Iowa, this fall.

An added event this year will be the judging of a class of cattle entered by adults affiliated with cow testing associations. W. S. Moscrip, chairman of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee, will be present to judge the entries.

Marshall, Roseau, Pennington, Norman and East Polk counties have between 40 and 50 entrants each in this year's show with the other five counties having a large number of contestants also. Virtually every county has a larger number of entries this year, which is an indication of the tremendous interest that Northwest Dairy Day has created in the dairy industry in northern Minnesota.

Thirty-three lovely girls will contest for the right to wear the crown of Northwest Dairy Day Princess and represent this area in the state contest. Individual

School Dist. 18 Votes on $230,000 Bonds for School Needs June 14

Voters of Thief River Falls Independent School District 18 will go to the polls Monday evening, June 14, to make their wishes known on the question of issuing up to $230,000 in bonds to finance construction and equipping of an addition to the Knox school and improvement of the Lincoln high school athletic field.

An official notice, published in this issue of the Times by Andy Williamson, clerk of the board of education, states that voting will continue from 7 to 9 p. m.

Supt. W. G. Claffy stated that the addition, for which plans have been prepared by Toltz, King & Day, St. Paul architects, is estimated to cost between $180,000 and $200,000.

Plans call for a combined auditorium and gymnasium, kindergarten room, lunch room, kitchen, nurse's room, shower and dressing rom and storage space. The addition would be one story in height, and would be joined to the present building at its southeast corner thru a connecting corridor.

Mr. Claffy stated that if the bond issue is approved a start also will be made this year on the development of the new athletic field on recently acquired property south of the high school. Planned for the immediate future, he said, is the tiling and building up of the field, and the installation of toilet facilities and bleachers, with the lighting system to be deferred until later. Complete development of the field will ultimately cost in the neighborhood of $40,000, it is estimated.

School District 18 at present has a bonded debt of $256,000.

PUBLIC OPINION

I read with interest the account of the arrangements for the fiftieth anniversary pioneer program in the May 19th issue of the Times.

Among those who bought land at the public auction in Thief River Falls when the reservation lands were opened for settlement in 1904, I was one.

Fifty years ago Fourth of July and other patriotic festivals we used to sing the old Minnesota State Song which was sung in schools and colleges throughout the state of which I remember the following stanzas;

"Hail! all hail! to Minnesota
Star of patriot proud and free
With your wealth of grain and pine
Cities great and iron mine
Limpid lake and rivers running to the sea.
From old Europes thrall released
From our neighbors to the east
And from Canada our lady of the snow
Came the stalwart pioneer
Clearing forest, plain and brake with sturdy blow."

I suppose an old copy of that song could be found somewhere, and the program committee could have more copies printed, so we could all sing it at the Pioneer Festival.

Your truly,
J. W. Erlandson

Social Security May Be Extended to Cover Farmers

Farmers Union President Urges State Congressmen to Support Proposal

Extension of social security to self-employed farmers, as provided in the Eisenhower administration's proposed amendments to the social security act, was endorsed this week by a Minnesota farm leader.

In a letter to members of the Minnesota congressional delegation, Edwin Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, urged their support of the bill which would include farmers in the coverage along with other self-employed groups.

About 145,000 Minnesota farmers could probably qualify for social security coverage, Mr. Christianson estimated. Under the current proposals, farmers with annual net earnings of more than $400 would be included.

"Farmers are the largest remaining occupational group not now covered by Social Security," wrote Mr. Christianson. "Yet farmers need social security coverage perhaps even more than the laboring man.

"As a group, farm operators are older, have a greater proportion of married men and have heavier family responsibilities than non-farm workers. The risks and the economic insecurity in farming make it more difficult for the farmer to set aside adequate for retirement."

Mr. Christianson explained that some other self-employed groups have been covered since 1950 and that he could see no good reason why farmers could not be included. Under the proposed bill, farmers would pay a social security tax of three per cent upon the first $4,200 of their net earnings. They would receive benefits upon retirement varying from a minimum of $30 a month to $108.50 a month, depending upon their earnings.

Ralph W. Wayne to Judge Calves and Speak Dairy Day

Minnesota 'U' Extension Dairy Specialist Judged Each of Past Four Shows

Ralph W. Wayne, dairy extension specialist with the University of Minnesota, who has been a judge of the calf shows at the first four Northwest Dairy Days, will return to Thief River Falls next Tuesday, June 8, to serve at the fifth annual event.

In addition, he will be the principal speaker at the annual Dairy Day banquet evening in the St. Bernard's dining hall.

Wayne was born and reared on a Freeborn county farm, where his father started raising purebred Holstein cattle in 1914. He received his master of science degree at the University of Minnesota college of agriculture in 1931, when he traveled on a fellowship to Europe to study agriculture on that continent.

He later worked as a county agent, assisted in organizing five REA co-ops, and served Land O'Lakes Creameries in public relations work. Before assuming his present position, he spent six months in Denmark in 1945 studying post-war agriculture.

Wayne owns and operated with hired help a 327-acre farm in Freeborn county, where he maintains a herd of 70 purebred Holsteins, which have been on DHIA test for 15 years, producing up to 421 pounds of butterfat per cow per year.

National Guard to Go to Camp in June

To Spend Two Weeks at Camp Ripley, Minnesota

Approximately 65,000 National Guard officers and enlisted men from throughout the 13-state Fifth Army area will attend this year's annual summer field encampments, it was announced today at Fifth Army Headquarters in Minneapolis.

This will be an increase of at least 10,000 over the 1953 summer camp attendance, an increase attributed to larger enrollments and the return of veterans from active military service. The total of federally recognized, company size National Guard units in the area has been augmented by some 60 additional units in the past year, the Army said.

The 1954 two week training periods will be held during the three months from June 5 to September 4. All major guard units in the Fifth Army area will take part in the training, which is to be conducted at 10 state and federal military installations within the 13 states.

Training sites and dates of the National Guard Infantry Divisions include: Camp Ripley, Minn.—33rd Division (Illinois) July 10-24; 47th Dv. (Minnesota contingent), June 13-27; and 34th Division (Iowa-Nebraska) Aug. 1-15.

Baudette Lawyer Disbarred Friday

State Supreme Court Acts Against F. H. Timm

The Minnesota supreme court Friday disbarred Frank H. Timm of Baudette from practicing law in the state for at least two years.

Timm has been a lawyer at Baudette since 1926. He was accused by the practice of law committee of the Minnesota State Bar association of taking fees from clients in two divorce cases but failing to institute action.

Timm did not respond to a petition and accusation, together with an order of the supreme court, directing him to answer within eight days after service of the order. The high court, therefore entered an order on the assumption that Timm is guilty, as charged, in accordance with a supreme court rule.

One accusation was that Timm received $130 to prosecute an action for divorce, but that he never started action and did not return the money.

The supreme court said in the order that Timm may apply for reinstatement after two years, provided he has made full restitution to his clients of the funds "wrongfully withheld" and that he has otherwise rehabilitated himself.

Pioneeer Days in This Area

By Oldtimer

The pioneer settlers left a heritage of which we can be proud. They built well for the future. By hard work and frugal living they succeeded wonderfully when we consider the small means that they had to do with.

The men and women who were the first settlers in the Rosewood community have all passed on. Iver Westby is the only one living of the settlers that came about 1880. He says that he was born in Trysil Norway in 1861 and he has now celebrated his 93rd birthday. His health is good for one of that advanced age. When the weather is nice he does a little fishing in the river and he says he has had fair luck. He walks up town often looking for old friends.

When a young man he was a timber worker in Norway and Sweden and like so many others at that time, he got the America fever and came to the United States in 1889, leaving his family in Norway. He worked for two years at various jobs earning money for the fare of his family to Minnesota.

Mr. Westby had filed on a homestead in the Rosewood area early in 1892 where he built a home for his family. His family arrived on the first passenger train to Thief River Falls when the Great Northern had been completed from St. Hilaire in the fall of 1892. He farmed the homestead until 1900. I had the honor to stack his grain in 1898.

In 1900 the Westby family moved to a farm northeast of Goodridge where they farmed until 1916 when they moved back to the Rosewood community. They lived on the homestead for some years until Mrs. Westby passed on. In 1943 he moved to Thief River Falls where he is living with a daughter Mrs Lina Maloney. Mr. Westby has good memory and is getting much enjoyment out of life.

I owe much gratitude to friends while traveling through "Memory Lane" who have helped my memory, including Mrs. Albert Paulson (Christine Braaten), Mrs John Peterson (Agda Larson) and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Blomberg of Crookston, Emil Anderson, J. A. and Alex Hellquist and Mrs. Anna Roos (Anna Blom).

Last but not least I wish to thank the Editor of the Times for publishing our memories of pioneer life.

Old Timer.

Editor's Note: There is no "to-be-continued" line at the end of this weeks' contribution by Old Timer and this is the last of his articles on pioneer days in the Rosewood community. While we assured him we would respect his wishes and withhold his identity while these articles were being published, we feel free now, and in justice to him, obligated, to reveal his name with our thanks for a contribution that has brought to us many favorable comments. And so, to old timer C. E. (Charlie) Hellquist, it was a pleasure to have you on our staff again.

Barn at Fosston Razed by Tornado

$12,500 Loss Suffered on Farm of G. N. Lomen

G. N. Lomen went into his farm home near Fosston for coffee Saturday afternoon. When he stepped outside again he found his barn was smashed and scattered all over the farmyard.

A swift-striking "baby" tornado tipped across the 30 by 80-foot barn while Lomen was in the house. The barn was only 20 yards from his house.

Lomen said he heard a little noise while he was in the house but paid no attention to it, and he did not know the barn had been wrecked until he finished his coffee and went back into the farmyard.

Monday he was picking up the pieces and studying the damage. Only one wall of the barn, rebuilt just last year, was left standing.

Lomen estimated the loss at about $12,500 and said only $1,700 of it is covered by insurance.

None of Lomen's livestock was injured during the twister.

The Lomen farm is two miles northeast of Fosston.

Stomach Worms in Sheep

Right now is a good time to treat sheep for stomach worms.

Worms can play real havoc and especially with lambs. Heavily infected lambs die or become unprofitable. A symptom of worms is continuous scouring and a general unthrifty appearance.

H. G. Zavoral, livestock specialist at the University of Minnesota, recommends treating when lambs come off pasture and now, before they go on pasture. Ideally, ewes and lambs should go on clean pasture, Zavoral says.

If you use old pasture, play safe and drench the flock once a month, he advised. Several drenches are on the market and it's good practice to change around.

Phenothiazine at one pound per four pints water, using four ounces of the mixture for adult sheep and two ounces for lambs over 30 and under 60 pounds, gives good results.

A commercial preparation of phenothiazine and lead arsenate is effective for tape worms and directions are on the container.

A combination of copper sulphate and nicotine sulphate solution is good, too. You can make it by dissolving four ounces of copper sulphate in one quart of water and adding enough water to make three gallons of solution. Then add three ounces of 40 percent nicotine sulphate.

The dosage for lambs up to 40 pounds, ½ ounce; lambs 40 to 60 pounds, one ounce; lambs 60 to 80 pounds, two ounces and older sheep four ounces.

A four ounce graduated syringe is the most satisfactory "doser", Zavoral says.

It's a good idea to mark each sheeps face with colored chalk so that no animal gets two doses. The solutions are poisonous and two doses can kill a sheep not just worms.

Be careful to get every one, too, because if only one sheep is missed, he can spread worms.

I know this doesn't answer all your questions on worming but if I can help you more just drop me a line or come in and see me.

Safety Slogan Contest

I have had several questions on the safety slogan contest, and I hope the following will answer your questions.

Slogans must be in the county extension office before June 15. Each club member entering the contest may submit up to three slogans.

The 4-H safety slogan contest is open to all 4-H members enrolled in the safety activity.

Slogans entered should not contain more than ten words and should apply to some phase of farm, home, water or fire safety, but preferably to a general phase of safety work. They must be original with the person who submit them and must carry a "punch" that will create interest and action in safety work. Last year's winning slogan in the state contest was "Alert, be wise—your life's the prize," sumitted by Merlith Lindem of Herman.

Winner in the county contest will receive an achievement certificate and his slogan will be submitted for state competition. However, to qualify for awards a county must have at least five members entered in the contest.

Other awards in the contest include a trip to the National Safety Congress in Chicago to the state safety slogan winner, a trip to the 1954 Minnesota State Fair to the runner up and a savings bond to the third place winner in the state contest.

Put your "thinking caps" on now and good luck!

B. M. WICHTERMAN

B. M. (Ben) Wichterman of Plummer this week announced he will file June 16 as a candidate for the office of state representative from the 65th district. Mrs. Coya Knutson, incumbent, has announced her candidacy for Ninth district congressman.

Wichterman, who operates a 640-acre farm in Red Lake county and an aerial spraying business under the name of the Plummer Air Service, has been a resident of the district all his life.

He is a member of the Minnesota Airport Operators association and has served on the board of directors and as chairman of its committee on legislation. He has acted as director of the forest tent caterpillar control program for northwestern Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Wichterman have five children.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Wichterman said, "Through my many contacts with people in all parts of the 65th district I have become well acquainted with the problems and needs of the farmers, of industry, business and labor. I have spent a great deal of time calling on members of the legislature in the interests of matters in the district. I have come to know much of the legislative processes simply through a vital interest in these things and through my work as a legislative committeeman."

Prowler Track Men 2d in Region 8 Meet

Three records were broken on Friday as the Bemidji Lumberjacks, with a point total of 34, won the eighth region's track and field championship at the tournament held at the B.S.T.C. field in Bemidji. Coach Quentin Jones' Prowlers gained second place in the team standings with 31½ points; Park Rapids was third with 20 points; and Waubun was fourth with 15 points. Other team point totals were Roseau, 14; East Grand Forks, 12; Mahnomen, 12; Red Lake Falls, 8; Goodridge, 8; Bagley, 7; Williams, 7; Stephen, 6½; Walker, 5; Warren, 3; Cass Lake, 3; Argyle, 2; Crookston, 2; Greenbush, 1; Ada, 1; and Baudette, 1.

Gene Sistad of Goodridge, Tom Rohwer of Park Rapids; and Ted LaGue of Waubun were the athletes who established regional records. Sistad, with a time of 4:48.8 for the mile run broke the record set by Cass Lake's Roger Harper last year; Rohwer, skimming over the low hurdles in 20.5 seconds shattered the mark of 21.1 set by Crookston's George Ramberg in 1952; and LaGue, running the 220-yard dash in 22.6 shaved the 22.8 mark set by Bagley's Vern Halseth back in 1936. There is only one other regional record that is older than the 220-yard dash mark that was broken on Friday, and that is the broad jump record of 21 feet, 4½ inches set by Ray Carlson of Beltrami in 1933.

First place winners for coach Jones' squad were Jimmy Sauve in the 440-yard dash, and Lyle Guttu in the pole vault. Art Johnson scored seconds in the shot put and the discus; Jim Krohn had a second in the mile run; Jack Quesnell won second in the half-mile; Karl Kollitz had a fifth in the high hurdles; Hank Hallstrom tied for fifth in the pole vault; and the half-mile relay team was runner-up to Bemidji, the winner.

The Thief River Falls tennis team made a sweep of the regional competition, with the Prowler doubles team of Bill Frahm and Brad Teal defeating Bemidji's Lloyd Lind and Bill Burlingame, and in singles play Art Johnson bested Bemidji's Bob Parker, and Jerry Veven took the measure of Bemidji's Art Baird. As a result of their sweep, the Prowler quartet earned berths in the state tournament next week.

In regional golf competition, played over the local course on Wednesday, the Bemidji Lumberjacks, with an aggregate of 351, easily won the regional title. Bemidji's Joe Mayer, shooting a 40-39, won the medalist honors with a 79.

The game moved along at a shutout pace for three innings, but in the top half of the 3rd frame, with the bases loaded, Hank Hallstrom singled down the left-field foul-line, and before the Eagles could retire the side, the Prowlers had shoved eight runs across the plate.

Righthander Sid Vraa, on the mound for the Prowlers, had a shutout until the last half of the 3rd inning when Ken Bombardier, leading off for the Eagles, poled a homerun over the left-field barrier.

BJORKMAN'S

Lincoln School Ball Club Defeats RLF to Take District Title

Coach Ralph Skjods' baseball Prowlers made a successful defense of their district title on Tuesday night when, in the finals of the tournament played at Red Lake Falls, the locals, taking advantage of a porous defense by the Eagles, defeated Red Lake Falls, 12 to 4. The tournament, which was played at Red Lake Falls on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, found Red Lake Falls entering the finals by defeating Crookston, 14 to 3, on Monday night. Red Lake Falls drew a first-round bye while Crookston eliminated Goodridge, 14 to 1, in a first-round game on Saturday. The Prowlers moved through the tournament by trouncing Climax, 12 to 2, on Saturday, and defeating Oslo, the surprise winners over Alvarado, 12 to 4, on Monday night.

As a result of their victory on Tuesday night, the Prowlers gained a berth in the eighth regional tourney that, according to present plans, will be played at Bagley on Monday and Tuesday. Coach Skjod stated that his understanding as to the pairings for the tourney is that the baseball tournament follows the pairings that are established for the regional basketball tournaments, and if that practice is followed, the Prowlers will play the 32nd district winner.

A walk to Rod Collins with one man out in the 1st inning, a stolen base and an overthrow at second, and Jack Hoppe's ground ball to first base, gave the Prowlers an unearned run and a 1 to 0 lead on Tuesday night. In the 3rd frame, three Eagle errors, a pair of walks, and Hank Hallstrom's towering infield fly, that was lost in the lights and which fell for a base-hit, gave the Prowlers four runs.

A walk to Sid Vraa in the 4th, Rod Collins line single to center-field, and Ken Bombardier's overthrow of third base, trying to get Vraa, plated another run in the 4th inning. In the 5th, with Poole on first base, Bob Helgeland bounced a triple off the wall in right-center, and before the inning was ended the Prowlers had notched two more runs and gained a 9 to 0 lead.

The Eagles, on a pair of walks, a hit batsman, and singles by Ernie Berry and LaChance, picked up two runs in the last half of the 5th inning. The two hits were the first safeties garnered off Vraa's right-handed slants. Red Lake Falls picked up single runs in the 6th and 8th innings; while the Prowlers closed out their scoring with a three-run cluster in the 8th frame.

While Vraa was troubled by his control, giving up ten walks and hitting three batters, the Prowler right-hander was sturdy in the clutches. In the 3rd inning, with the bases loaded, Vraa struck out Bombardier and Berry to end an Eagle rally. In the 6th inning, with runners on second and third and two men away, Vraa erased clean-up hitter Bombardier on a strike-out. During the game Vraa collected fifteen strikeouts.

Crookston Golfer 1st in Shortstop Event Here Sunday

Monte Klein Defeats Stan Larson 3-up as Weather Handicaps Play

Crookston's smooth-swinging southpaw, Monty Klein, won the shortstop golf tournament played over the local course on Sunday, defeating the local club's Stan Larson, 3-up, in the finals. Only thirty-six golfers braved the rain and the chilled winds to participate in the tournament, the first of the season here.

In the championship flight play, Klein defeated Vint Berg in a first-round match, and then eliminated his fellow townsman, young Glen Hanson, in the semi-finals. Larson, playing in the lower bracket, defeated Bill Silesky in a first round match, and, in a well-played duel, defeated Rudy Mehlhoff in the semi-finals. Vint McDonald, the former Detroit Lakes and Hawley baseball star, won the championship flight consolation honors, defeating Vint Berg in the finals.

The cards:

Par	441	344	4—27
Klein	544	314	5—29
Larson	415	455	5—32

The flight winners, runners-up, and consolation winners:

Championship flight: Monty Klein; Stan Larson; and Vint McDonald.

First flight: Lloyd Bennes; Bill McCrady; and E. H. Larson.

Second flight: Harold McCrady; Del Baird; and Bob Wurst.

Third flight: Orin Wange; Dale Liggett ;and Milt Reierson.

Considerable Interest

There appears to be considerable interest being generated by the trap shoot league that has been organized. The league will have its second series of matches on Thursday evening, June 3rd, at the range at the golf club.

Judged on the results of the first matches, held last week, it appears that the Baumann-Oen squad can be rated as a slight favorite to win the league championship. The matches, of course, are on a handicap basis, with a handicap of eight being given to an individual shooter. Roy Oen's Baumann-Oen squad had a couple of near-scratch shooters on his squad in Dr. Jim Disse and Mel Hyland. Other members of the squad, in addition to Roy, Jim, and Mel, are Helmer Baumann, Orvis Olen, Roy Peterson, and Dr. Paul Wendt.

The Baumann-Oen's will be pitted against the squad that could provide the most serious opposition in their league race, for on Thursday evening they shoot against Tony Dorn's Pharmacy squad.

Attention: Handicap Committee

In the shortstop golf tournament played here on Sunday, Phil LeGault, carrying a handicap of five, was placed in the same flight with Emil Larson, who carries a handicap of seven. The two golfers, Phil and Emil, after losing their first-round games, to Bill McCrady and Justus Larson, respectively, met in a consolation round match. The result of that match was a 3-up win for Emil, the seven-handicap golfer.

Incidentally, Emil relished that "beating" he handed Phil on Sunday, for it partly avenged the loss he, Emil, received from Phil in the finals of the Soo Line tournament here last year, and if Phil's exhibition on Sunday is a true indication, the odds are that the Soo Line will have a new golf champion this season, and his initials could be E. H. L.

Miscellany

In an inter-high school track and field tournament at Winnipeg last week, a Walter Bilecki of St. John's Tech set a new shot put record with a heave of 45 feet. What makes that event of newsworthy interest to local sports fans is the fact that this new record broke the previous record of 43 feet, 1 7/8 inches set in 1939 by Billy Juzda. That's the same Bill Juzda who played a blasting game of defense for the Thieves in Northwest Hockey league games this past season.—We learn that Earl Hoffman, the personable and capable Grand Forks official who has "worked" innumerable athletic games for Prowler teams during the past years, has been transferred by his employers, thea Northern States Power company, to Minneapolis and given a promotion. We'll miss Earl, and we'll wager that he'll miss the eighth region, too. It's a cinch, too, that Earl will always remember that football game played here in October of 1951, between the Prowlers and the Bemidji Lumberjacks, and which was won by the Jacks, 26 to 19. Earl was referee in that epic contest.

Cass Lake the Favorites

The 31st district baseball tournament, which, after being plagued by unfavorable weather, was concluded at Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park on Tuesday night, and coach Ralph Skjod's Prowlers, by a 12 to 4 score, defeated the Red Lake Falls Eagles in the championship finals.

The Prowlers, making a successful defense of their 31st district title, will now enter the regional tournament at Bagley. Information received from local school officials is to the effect that the tourney at Bagley will be played on Monday and Tuesday, with district 31 playing district 32, and district 29 meeting district 30.

The Cass Lake team, winners of district 29, and regional champions last year, are entitled to be rated as the favorites in the region. Cass Lake, with numerous veterans from their last season's club in the lineup this year, and with their strong-armed right-hander, Ronnie Gangelhoff, available to pitch successive games if necessary, will be tough competition.

The Prowlers, though, if they show the spirit they had against Red Lake Falls, and if Sid Vraa continues to whip his stuff across the plate in Tuesday night's fashion, may prove to be stubborn. The odds are, if the pairings follow the patterns set up by the regional basketball tourney, that Cass Lake and Thief River Falls will reach the finals. That should be a ball game. Last year, in the finals, Cass Lake defeated the Prowlers, 7 to 3, and that defeat wrankles.

Joppru Offers Rodeo Saturday and Sunday

Melvin Joppru states that arrangements are now complete for his second annual rodeo to be presented on his farm northwest of the city Saturday and Sunday afternoons June 5 and 6. He is far better equipped to present a spectacle of this kind than he was a year ago, and he is confident that the show will be better from every standpoint.

More than fifty riders will compete for approximately $3,000 in prizes under regulation Rodeo Cowboys' association rules. The program will include a complete variety of rodeo thrillers including bronc busting, bull dogging, roping, Brahma bull riding and stunt riding of all kinds. Providing laughs along with the thrills will be the famous rodeo clown Benny Bender of Cheyenne. Joe Kavanaugh of Omaha, Nebraska, will officiate.

The program will get under way at 1:30 o'clock each afternoon, and with five major events booked along with special stunts that have been scheduled, Joppru anticipates three hours of explosive action. A new event this year will be a parade of the contenders through the business section of the city Saturday morning. Starting at 11:00 o'clock the parade will enter Main Ave at the radio station, proceed south to First, turn left and return north on LaBree.

Arrangements have been made for about 1,500 temporary seats and early comers will have first choice.

RADIUM

Local Law Officers Urged to Make Use of State Patrol's Radio

Law enforcement officials throut Minnesota are making good use of the statewide radio network operated by the state highway patrol, according to Chief Earl M. Larimer, who urged even greater use of this facility. He stated that although six of the 11 booster stations have not as yet been completed and put into operation, that the six base stations, including one in Thief River Falls, are providing excellent coverage of the state, with only a few remote areas not being adequately serviced at the present time.

All cars operated by the highway patrol are, or will be very soon, equipped with two-way to receive radio messages, but until the remaining six booster stations are put into operation, some cars operating in distant locations will not be able to call in reports and information. This will be remedied within the very near future when all 11 booster stations are operating and the state will then have a complete coverage whereby every one of the patrol's cars, as well as other law enforcement vehicles, will be in constant touch with each other and their central offices.

Chief Larimer pointed out that any emergency police information will be broadcast over this system upon the request of any sheriff's office or police department. Such information which it is desired to have broadcast should be telephoned to the nearest radio station operated by the patrol. Base stations are located at Rochester, Marshall, Brainerd, Thief River Falls, Virginia and St. Paul.

Local law enforcement officials are encouraged to equip their offices and vehicles with receiving equipment tuned to the patrol's assigned wavelength. Furthermore, "point to point" communication authorization can be secured from the patrol by writing to Chief Larimer, at the St. Paul office of the state highway patrol.

State Sets up New Traffic Plan Unit

Commr. Hoffmann Names J. Darrell as Director

Formation of a new division of traffic and planning in the state highway department and appointment of J. E. P. Darrell as its director was announced today by Commissioner M. J. Hoffmann. The new division, a consolidation of the traffic activities of the present traffic and safety division and the highway planning survey, will begin functioning July 1.

Creation of the new division, according to Hoffmann, will make possible the "directing of all available resources of the department toward the safety aspects of the trunk highway system. It is expected that this consolidation will provide a better means of developing new information and utilizing available data in its engineering application to the design and improvement of trunk highways."

Top assistants named to direct the division's three-fold activities are P. R. Stafford, who will continue in charge of research planning, W. G. Klett, in charge of traffic operations and Clint Burnea, in charge of economic and special studies.

DAIRY DAY

Tuesday is Dairy Day and, in our book, the most important promotion day of the year in our corner of the state. The question has been raised as to why we should continue promoting a branch of agriculture that already is suffering from overproduction, and it is a good question. Dairy Day encourages still more production thru more selective breeding and better herd management. How can that be justified with the increasing surpluses and decreasing prices?

The answer is that Dairy Day is building for the future needs of the industry. It is laying the foundation upon which that industry will grow strong.

All of agriculture is undergoing revolutionary changes. The farm operation of today differs greatly from the farm operation of just a decade ago. In practically every branch of agriculture there is the old way of doing things and there is the new way, and that new way still is changing.

And in dairying too there is the old way and there is a new way. Whether we like it or not, if we are to survive we must adjust ourselves to the changes that are forced upon us. That is the problem with which the individual dairy farmer is confronted and that is the problem with which we are confronted as a dairy community.

In that adjustment some farmers will quit dairying and others will extend their dairy operation. Dairying will end altogether in some areas and in other areas it will increase. And dairying will succeed in the areas that are best suited for it.

That is why we have confidence in the future of dairying in this area. We are developing the know-how for economical production. We can survive when sub-marginal areas for this crop will fail. We are moving in the direction of quality production and premium prices. We are producing for a more diversified and therefore a more stable market.

The dairy industry today has problems and the present situation is discouraging. But the outlook for the dairy industry of the future is not discouraging.

And Dairy Day is building for the future. It is laying the foundation upon which the dairy industry of this area will grow strong.

TIME TO HOLD THE LINE

Labor and management in the steel industry have opened their 1954 round of wage bargaining. This is the first of the big labor contracts to come up for negotiation and the settlement probably will establish the pattern for contracts in other industries. The results therefore have more than ordinary significance.

It was last year's wage agreement in the steel industry for instance that started another round of general price increases. That settlement was arrived at with little argument. Steel workers got their pay increase and the industry stepped up prices. It was an easy solution, but probably not a good one. It was not in the public interest. Possibly that settlement accounts in part for the fact that the steel industry is operating today at little more than 70% of capacity.

There may be justification for increased wages and improved working conditions, but increases that result in higher prices cannot be justified under present conditions. With the buying power of a large portion of our population reduced, higher prices will not bring increased sales for the products of industry nor will they put men back to work.

Another round of price increases for manufactured goods would not be helpful.

KEEP THE PROGRAM SOUND

An expanded social security program is in the making and Congress is writing into a bill, to be acted upon in this session, revenue collecting provisions that are thought necessary to make the program actuarially sound. It is estimated that by 1975 it will be necessary to take a 4% dip into the payrolls of the country to pay the bill. This would be twice the present 2%.

A 4% payroll tax is going to be a heavy burden, but not necessarily too heavy. By that time there should be a substantial saving for the general taxpayer who now is paying the high cost of old age assistance which is a heavy burden at both the state and local levels.

It certainly is desirable that the benefits of social security be made available to all groups but we probably should proceed slowly in obligating the program to larger monthly payments to beneficiaries. We are dealing with uncertainties and will have to learn by a trial and error method.

In promising future benefits it is better to err on the conservative side and be in a position to be more liberal than was anticipated rather than be forced to pay out less than was expected. Minnesota's experience with public retirement plans that have been too liberal has not been good.

ONLY A THOUSAND MILLIONS

A billion dollar error has been discovered in the bookkeeping department of our federal government. It happened this way, according to a Mr. Dale of the New York Herald-Tribune. "Orders for a billion dollars of military equipment was charged to two different funds. In that way two billion dollars were obligated and charged off as spent, where only one billion worth of equipment was purchased. In other words we now find ourselves a billion dollars richer than we thought we were—or, shall we say less poor. But, after all, a billion is only a thousand millions.

OUR POLICY IN ASIA

Secretary of State Dulles has made a list of the conditions under which our government would consider intervention in the Indo-China war. Other nations "which have an important stake in the area" would have to go in with us; the intervention would have to have the "moral sanction" of the United Nations; it would have to be understood that the purpose of intervention would be the defense of "liberty, and independence and freedom" and not of colonialism, and, finally, the action would have to be approved by congress.

To which the Wall Street Journal suggests that one most important consideration before we become involved in any Asiatic war should be the question as to whether or not any real good could be accomplished by intervention. What would be reasonable military objectives, and if it appeared that these military objectives might be achieved, what actually would we have gained by our military success?

Says the Journal:

> "The Communist Viet Minh already occupies large and important sections of Viet Nam. Would our forces be expected to crush them or merely stop them where they are?
>
> "Given the present military and political situation in Viet Nam, what are the chances of doing either? What do we do when the Chinese Communists match, as they probably will, our intervention with their own? How many more troops, and what action against China itself? Is Indo-China worth a full war with Communist China and perhaps with the Soviet Union?
>
> "Assuming—and it is a dubious assumption—the Communists can be stopped in Indo-China itself, what is the political objective? We will be in partial or complete control of an area largely populated with fervent nationalists with long and bitter memories of white colonialism; many of them are sympathetic to the Viet Minh. How do we assure their independence and freedom from Communism? And if we cannot assure that, what is the point of intervention?
>
> "Without satisfactory answers to these questions, without realizable military and political objectives clearly formulated in advance, we will be floundering in a war whose end we cannot see. We will not know how much or how little to do, where or when to stop. The danger is that we will not stop until it is too late to stop at all."

We undoubtedly have an interest in Asia and it would not be good for the free world to have the Reds take over all of that continent. But we probably can do more for the defense of our friends in Asia by helping them to help themselves. In the problems of that corner of the world there is much to be said for shifting greater responsibility to India. Along with a complete renunciation of colonialism by France and England such a policy probably would be the most effective.

Many Unlicensed Drivers Picked up in Minnesota

Almost 200 motorists a month are detected driving while their drivers licenses are under suspension or revocation, according to the drivers license division of the state highway department. How many more are also guilty of this type of violation is impossible to determine because of the difficulty of apprehending such drivers.

Most of the violations detected are those of drivers involved in traffic accidents or driving violations, which result in their lack of licenses becoming known when questioned by officers and asked to produce their permits.

Conviction of driving while under suspension usually results in recommendation by the courts that revocation be invoked, while driving when a permit is under revocation invariably adds to the period of revocation, with a fine or jail sentence added to the punishment.

It isn't only this last year or so people have baby sitters. Some thirty or forty years ago a couple of our local ladies were supposed to spend the night with some children whose parents were either coming on the train or would be home around that time in the morning. This incident was told such a long time ago I don't even remember who told it, but possibly it will brush the cob webs of someone's memory. Of course the boy friends found about it and decided to spend the evening with the girls. They played games and lunched, and lo and behold the time had passed so quickly, the boy's decided they had better scram. The girls had barely tidied up, blown out the lamp and gone to bed when the people came home. Ofcourse the man never dreamed but what the baby sitters had been in bed for a long time, so he lit a match and grabbed the hot lamp chimney so he burned his hand pretty badly.

About this time Peter and Carl Johnson decided they had better install a light plant in Strandquist to protect citizens from further burns. This plant was located somewhere in the block where the locker plant is. They made a clock that would automatically turn off the current at 9, 10 or 11 at nite so of course the old kerosene lamp always had to be ready for an emergency. These two men were about the only ones that could make the old gas engine tick.

About 1919 or so their light plant was sold to Elmer Huset who moved it to the location where Otinas pump house now stands. Maybe it was closer to a well, but Mr. Huset is now the station agent at Trail, I believe.

Finally after a few pros and cons we got electricity through from the power company at Crookston. What a blessing to have good lights and power by pushing a button nite or day!

Of course most of the buildings had to be rewired as they wouldn't pass inspection and the wiring wasn't concealed but strung along both ceiling and walls in most places.

Today most everybody has electricity in both urban and rural communities and all the conveniences that are so essential to our standard of living.

Funeral Held Saturday for Eddie C. Anderson

Eddie C. Anderson was born Sept. 30, 1896 in Clarkfield, Minn. and died May 26, 1954 in Strandquist, Minn.

Eddie came to this community with his parents in 1902 and settled on a farm west of town. Later in life he went into road construction work and continued in this work until his death.

He was baptized in the Lutheran faith and was confirmed in Bethesda Lutheran church in 1914.

He is survived by one brother, Leroy Anderson, of Strandquist, an aunt and a number of nieces and nephews. He is preceded in death by his parents, one brother and seven sisters.

Funeral services were held from the Quanrud Funeral Home in Warren, at 2 p m. on Saturday, May 29. Interment was made in the Bethesda Cemetery at Strandquist.

Those attending the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson of Crookston, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Anderson of Elk River.

(Crowded out last week)

Walter Lindstrom sprang a surprise on his parents by coming home unexpectedly for a furlough. He is stationed in Texas but spent three months in Guam this winter. Walter is with the air force and has 18 months left to serve. Arne Lindstrom is serving with the merchant marines.

The junior-senior banquet was given in the school basment kitchen, oops, pardon me, in a lovely moonlit rose garden last Thursday evening.

A stone fence surrounded the area of the garden, thus partitioning off the kitchen, with an archway on either side of the kitchen part. A white picket gate was the entrance to the garden on the south east corner.

Dark blue streamers of crepe paper with stars peeking through formed a canopy and sides up from the fence, a big full moon shone through from above. Dark blue baloons were hung on wires to decorate the garden overhead.

Between the tall stone pillars stood a wishing well built of stone and had real water in it! Climbing vines bearing big red roses were twining their way over and around both the well and the fence.

In one corner of the garden stood a large vase full of orchids for the juniors.

On two sides of the garden forming an ell stood the banquet tables adorned with tall tapers, place cards, etc., all ready to do justice to the happy occasion. Small booklets with pencils attached were on the able along side the place cards which had the menu and program printed in them and a space for autographs which were signed by all the guests.

The sophomore boys, namely, Newell Berggren, Orville Koland, Ronald Stennes and Jerome Berggren looked very swanky with their white shirts, dark trousers, bow ties and white aprons. As waiters they did a good job.

Among the guests of the juniors were the twelve members of the graduating class, namely, LaVonne Thompson, Donald Lefroth, Helen Sjoquist, Dorothy Nelson, Leona Mauer, Audrey Kleinvachter, David Larson, Helen Koland, Mildred Veselka, Lois Setten, Carol Rasmussen and Larry Stennes. Members of the faculty were Miss Dolores Edeen, Miss Leona Swenson, Mrs. Christine Peterson, Miss Helen Ball, Mrs. Lillian Knutson, Miss Lena Gullingsrud, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waterworth, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kerwin and Supt. Orcutt. Due to illness Mrs. Orcutt was unable to attend.

The cooks were Mrs. Ray Henrickson, Mrs. Gunnar Sundberg, Mrs. Inger Gustamson, Mrs. Andrew Anderson and Mrs. Oscar Carlson.

The theme of the program was "Moonlight and Roses."

Needless to say the juniors had put in hours of work in preparation of this. I was told they made 400 of the roses besides the construction of the fence, etc., which must have taken a lot of patience as well as work. They are certainly to be complimented by a task so nicely done which also include the mothers for their share of work and worry.

The juniors appreciate the assistance they received and wish to thank the Wickstrom Jewelry store for loaning them glassware, the Hodius Hardware for loaning them dishes, silver from the Bethesda Lutheran Church and the wishing well from Erhard Bjorkman and of course their ever helping mothers.

Mr. Orcutt was invited to Grand Forks Friday evening to give a lecture to the officers unit of that city. On previous occasions Mr. Orcutt has addressed similar units at Bemidji, Fargo and other cities.

Doings of week at Rosewood

Elaine Hellquist, Rosewood, Minn. Phone 797-J

(Crowded out last week)

A most pleasant and enjoyable afternoon was had at Rosebank school on Friday, when the teacher and pupils invited the mothers to a belated Mother's Day party and an art exhibit. The mothers were amazed at the talent shown by many of the children. Several of these exhibits will be sent to the Marshall Co. Fair. The mothers each received a set of pictures as a gift from their children. Another surprise was the large beautifully decorated angel food cake with the inscription "Mothers of Rosebank" with which they centered the lunch table. Enjoyed also was a short program given by the pupils and the brief talk by Co. Supt. John Pearson of Warren who was also a guest.

A well attended meeting of the Columbus Farmers Union Local was held Friday evening when members of the Viking Local also were present. Mr. Emil Anderson, chairman presided over the business meeting when the decision was made to merge the two locals. The election of officers for the new local was held resulting in Emil Anderson being renamed president, John Uggerud as vice pres., Mrs. Arne Samuelson, Viking Secretary, Mrs. John Thompson treas. Harold Johnson of Middle River spoke briefly and showed an educational film and two comedy ones. Lunch was served by Mrs. August Holmstrom and Mrs. Tillie Jarshaw.

Mrs. Olaf Hall entertained the Circle 2 sewing meeting Thursday at her home. The order of all circle meetings seem to be chatting, eating, then sewing. Nevertheless when the anual fall sale comes there's always a fine assortment of needlework ready.

The New Salem 4-H club's May meeting was held at Columbus on May 20. Business taken up was the program to be given in observance of 4-H Sunday at the Mission Church's young peoples meeting on Thursday evening, May 27. The eats for Dairy Day were arranged for and the workers for that day picked. 4-H camp dates were mentioned and members urged to go. The program given by the parents consisted of a group singing, three musical numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Copeland and Darrel Swenson on the piano, violin, banjo. A reading by Mrs. Melvin Bottem. Eldon Moe a guest 4-H'er from Steiner played two accordion solos. The Arthur Swenson family served lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Mellem and Alice Mathiason were Sunday dinner guests at the Lloyd Anderson home. Alice remained to be a guest until Monday with Dorothy Anderson.

Members of the Mellem family here received the sad message that their oldest sister Carrie, Mrs. Nick Bergvald of Kingsville, Texas had passed away on May 10. Mrs. Bergvald spent her girlhood years in our community. Mr. Bergvald who passed away about a year ago, operated a blacksmith shop at the corner where Elmer Kron now lives, then called Gustville, also later in Thief River Falls before moving to Texas almost fifty years ago.

The Ranstrom family and the Lloyd Anderson family motored to Warren Friday evening to see the Billy Graham movie, "Oiltown USA" shown there.

Mrs. John Doran and children of Newfolden spent last Sunday at the Clifford Johnson home.

Mrs. Elmer Kron accompanied by her mother Mrs. Melvin Wood and Mrs. Russel Nelson spent Friday in Grand Forks shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. John Albough and family of Grand Forks were supper guests Sunday at James Bookers. In the afternoon they all had visited with Ramona Albaugh who has been hospitalized since last Saturday at Northwestern hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and children were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Walter Steinhauer home near Holt.

Relatives visiting at the Melvin Bottem home the past week were Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Halvorson and family Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sorum and Susan and Mr. and Mrs. Gunnef Homme all of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson visited Wednesday with Mrs. Berton Johnson and Randy in Norden.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Rye of International Falls came Friday for a visit at the Henry Rye home. Saturday they all gathered for a visit at the Albert Lappegaard home. Ole Rye is a brother of Henry Rye and Mrs. Lappegaard.

The Russel Nelson's this week exchanged their old model electric range for a new G. E. model. That electric cooking is popular in our community is proven by the fact that nine homes and both the churches are now cooking the electric way. Mrs. Emil Anderson was also made happy this week by the addition to her kitchen of a Coronado refrigerator.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Quam and Gary called at the Selmer Haugen home Sunday evening.

Visitors Sunday evening at Roy Copelands were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anderson.

Hans Bjornstad visited with the Pearnel Anderson's and other friends in Newfolden Monday. Hans, now that spring is here, is a very busy man. He is the self appointed lawn mower operator in his neighborhood. Any day will find him getting his exercise trimming some neighbor's lawn.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lappegaard enjoyed a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Ole Ronning of Thief River Falls. Mrs. Ronning is Mrs. Lappegaard's neice.

Alec Hellquist and son David were Sunday visitors at the Emil Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Johnson of Duluth have visited at the Martin Swenson and Hans Ness homes during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Haugen were at Grand Forks Sunday morning to attend the confirmation exercises when Jaryl Hanson, their grandnephew, was a member of the class. Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Pederson of Thief River Falls, grandparents of Jaryl, accompanied them. The Percy Hanson's entertained them and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mosbeck of Crookston at dinner following the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lappegaard visited with their son-in-law Archie Lull at Northwestern Hospital Monday. Mr. Lull was the victim of an accident Sunday, having his pelvis bone broken and other injuries. We wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Rife of Crookston were week end guests at Russel Nelson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Swenson visited in Thief River Falls at the Albert Swenson home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. John Bakke and son of Newfolden were last Sunday visitors with his daughter, Mrs. John Hall who was recently released from the hospital.

Mrs. Oleanna Ingebretson, mother of Mrs. Clifford Johnson who is spending some time with her daughter, was a visitor with her friend Mrs. Halvor Brunsvold in Thief River Falls over Wednesday. Mrs. Brunsvold and Mrs. Martin Olson brought her home and visited Thursday at the Johnson home.

Mrs. P. E. Kvikstad of Warren was a Saturday visitor at the Tom Stolaas home. Mrs. Albert Paulson was also a coffee guest there Saturday.

Mrs J. A. Hellquist left Tuesday night for Minneapolis where she will spend several days with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kjome and her new grandson, Steven Thomas.

Last Tuesday afternoon callers at the Victor Ranstrom home were Mrs Clarence Molkness and girls, Mrs. Maynard Molkness and Mrs. Ole Thompson and Stephen all of Sanders.

Arlyce Oswald and Rodney Twistol tried their luck at fishing at Lake of the Woods Sunday.

William Penning, Co. Agent of Pennington Co., was at the Rosebank school Monday to show a movie on "Wildlife" to the pupils.

Minnesotans Urged to Give Support to Own Dairy Industry

Minnesotans were urged to support their own dairy industry by consuming at least enough dairy foods to fulfill minimum health requirements at the June Dairy Month kickoff luncheon in Minneapolis Thursday.

The appeal was made by Myron W. Clark, state commissioner of agriculture, and Governor C. Elmer Anderson, key speakers at the meeting of 200 dairy industry representatives, Twin City business and civic leaders. Representing Minnesota's 1.5 million dairy cows was Dingley Dell Inka Ruby, champion Holstein owned by Hugo Albrecht and his son, James, of New Ulm. The cow occupied a stall of honor in the Curtis Hotel dining room.

Governor Anderson pointed out that although Minnesota's "exports" over 80 per cent of her dairy products, responsibility does not end with the shipping of wholesome dairy foods to other states.

"We cannot expect residents of the other 47 states to buy maximum amounts of our dairy products unless we, ourselves, consume at least the minimum quantities of milk fods required for good health," the state's chief executive said.

The governor made four recommendations which he claimed would quickly use up the present dairy products surplus:

1. Housewives should substitute milk for other beverages at one meal a day and boys and girls should drink an extra glass of milk.

2. The restaurants in Minnesota should encourage the drinking of milk instead of other beverages.

3. Community organizations should serve milk during their luncheon and dinner meetings.

4. Office and industrial workers should switch to milk during their daily "breaks."

Commissioner Clark related the activities of the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee, state segment of the American Dairy Association, in making consumers more dairy-food conscious.

He said that the ADA's extensive program of advertising, merchandising and research was beginning to produce the desided results as whom by the current per-capita increase in consumption of dairy foods, the first increase in several years.

"The official per capita consumption estimates for 1954 show Americans using an average of nine pounds of butter as compared to 8.6 last year," Clark said.

"Fluid milk consumption is also increasing, showing a gain of 1.4 per cent to date," he said.

Last year's average was 350 lbs. of milk per person while 1954 will reach 355 lbs. Commissioner Clark pointed out that this represents a national increase of fluid milk consumption of close to one billion pounds, due almost entirely to the successful promotion efforts of the American Dairy Association.
